Oregon's Governor Salutes Champion Jersey

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—Opal Crystal Lady, a registered Jersey and Oregon's most famous cow, receives official congratulations from Governor Douglas McKay of Oregon upon completion of Lady's record breaking production stint. Holding Lady's halter is her young owner, Ralph E. Cope, Jr., of Langlois, while Ralph's mother, Mrs. Cope, beams approval. Governor McKay watched Lady finish her 365 day official test to set a national butterfat record over all breeds.

Lady is the only cow of any breed in this country to have made three successive yearly records of over one thousand pounds butterfat each on twice daily milking. This is a feat equivalent to a baseball player clouting sixty home runs a year for three successive years. During the year's test which has been verified by the home office of the American Jersey Cattle Club in Columbus, Lady produced 23,725 pounds of milk and 1,237 pounds of butterfat. This is more milk and more butterfat than any other Jersey in the country has ever produced in a single year, and more butterfat than any cow of any breed has ever produced on twice daily milking.

EARLY CHICKS ARE MORE PROFITABLE

Tar Heel poultrymen can earn extra money by starting chicks in December, January, or February, rather than later in the season, believes T. B. Morris, poultry specialist at State College.

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Q. How often should soil tests be made on a particular field?
A. Soil should be tested every four or five years. The supply of lime, phosphorus, or potash in the soil does not change rapidly, and soil testing should be considered on a long-time basis. For example, if a soil is low in potash the crops will need a high potash fertilizer for a few years.

Complete directions for taking soil samples may be obtained from any farm agent.

Q. Is it any more trouble to produce good hatching eggs than good market eggs?
A. The only difference between good hatching eggs and good market eggs is fertilization. Therefore, if you are selling to a hatchery and following good management to produce high quality eggs and you have the right number of good breeding males, you should be delivering eggs of high hatchability to your hatcheryman. In order to have good hatching eggs, most poultrymen should feed a special breeding ration. A regular laying mash usually does not have the necessary nutrients to produce high hatchability.

State College Hints To Home Makers

Chilled juices, popular first course at breakfast, are tangy waker-uppers that go well with the hot dishes on most morning menus. And some juices -- if the portions are generous -- are important in providing much of the day's vitamin C.

Tomato juice is a good source of vitamin C, though it takes more than twice as much canned tomato juice to match canned orange juice. If your breakfast is short on C, be sure to get this vitamin later in the day. Vitamin C is one of the essentials for keeping tissues in good condition. It is needed daily because the body can't store much of this vitamin.
