Our County School Programs

Last Friday night in Kenansville provoked thought for some editorial comments. Of the approximately 3,000 people who gathered in the Kenan Memorial Auditorium here 100 per cent agreed that the auditorium is filling a long needed place in the school work in Duplin County. For the first time in history of public education in Duplin adequate facilities are provided for a county-wide demonstration of what our schools are doing. The program Friday night was not only educational to the older groups but was entertaining and inspiring as well. No doubt the program will become an annual affair and grow each year. For some time there has been discussion among school heads about inaugurating a county-wide commencement. A program that will include all phases of school work, athletic and otherwise. Now with the new auditorium definite plans towards such an undertaking can begin to formulate. But, before it can become what we would like to see the auditorium must be completed and additional land space acquired. Many have said the county should acquire more land adjacent to the present Kenansville school site to take care of county-wide outdoor activities. Duplin should accept as one of its goals during the remainder of 1951 the completion of the auditorium and the securing of such lands as are necessary.

North East And More Fish

Bill Ipock, Duplin Game Protector, comes forth this week with some interesting information to fishermen in Duplin. North East River around Chincuspin, is being stocked with the famous Rock Fish. 150,000 of the fish have been released in the river at Chincuspin. The Rock is a salt water fish that runs up fresh water streams to spawn. Neuse River, as far up as Seven Springs, has been a small haven for Rock Fishermen for years but in recent years the runs have been diminishing. Weldon, on the Roanoke River, has become famous throughout Eastern Carolina for its Rock Fish. In recent years the Rock Fish festival there has become an outstanding event, through the efforts of editor B. E. Turner of Weldon's newspaper, "The Roanoke News" the festival has come into being and the first Rock Fish hatchery in North Carolina established. Ed Bob Grady takes a bit of personal pride in this due to the fact that he discovered editor Turner while publishing the Roanoke News and sold the paper to Mr. Turner when he came to Duplin. What the Rock Fish and Mr. Turner have done to Weldon and Halifax County might be done in Duplin if we find the Rock will flourish in waters of the North East. The river has a wide reputation for its shad and we hope to add the Rock. Duplin has wonderful opportunities for sportsmen and if we will cultivate this field more we can bring thousands into the county each year who are going other places for their fun. Folks, "there's gold" in these woods and waters of Duplin if we properly seek it. Our congratulations to Mr. Ipock for his efforts in this field in Duplin. He is doing good work but needs more help and cooperation.

What Is Greatness?

Lesson for May 6, 1951

WHAT is a great man? Some men have been called great who were not so; they were only prominent. Hitler, for example, was certainly prominent enough; but he was not great. Men can truly be called great for various good reasons. Some may be artists, some may be soldiers, others statesmen or prophets. Once in a while a man is born who is great in more ways than one.

David the Ideal King

SUCH a man was David, King of Israel and one of the world's most famous men. The United Kingdom of Israel had a short history, only three kings reigning over it—Saul, David and Solomon. Of the three, David was by all odds the greatest man and greatest king. Neither Saul nor Solomon was capable of holding for a lifetime to a high ideal. Neither was capable of whole-hearted devotion to God. Neither one could gain and hold the loyalty of the masses. It was only David who could do these things. It is no accident that forever after, when a Hebrew thought of the ideal king, he would think neither of Israel's first king nor of the wealthiest, but of David the best and most beloved.

Military Genius

DAVID was great, in part because of his power in battle. What no one since Joshua had been able to do, David did: he welded the quarreling, jealous, weak tribes of Israel into a "single sword." The times called for military genius, and David had it. He gave Israel the military might that was essential for their peace and prosperity.

Levity Leadership

IN OUR times Hitler brought the word "Leader" under a shadow, because his leadership was in the wrong direction. But there is such a thing as noble and wise leadership, and David had this quality in a high degree. It is true, success has something to do with it. Men will flock to a winner who would have nothing to do with him if he were a loser. But still it is a fact that most of the world's great leaders who have come up from obscurity, as David did, have arisen at the head of groups of devoted men who have followed them loyally through the darkest times. So it was with David. During his years as leader of the "underground" (literally so, since for some time his headquarters were in a great limestone cave), he developed the hard core of the army he commanded at a later time, a core of men who would rather lose with David than win against him.

Leader in Faith

DAVID had yet another quality of greatness, and for this he is perhaps best remembered. He was a man of deep religion. But religion for him was not merely a personal matter; he carried his faith into public life, he made his faith contagious. He did his best to make faith in God central, as it had never been, in the life of his nation. Religion for him was not a stick with which to beat other people about the head, but a red and staff to lean upon. It was not a secret locked in his own heart but something he desired to share with all his people. It was not a device to keep his subjects contented; it was an acid test for his own life. And though he sometimes slipped and terribly fell, he could always rise again; for his religion gave him that rarest of all qualities in great men: humility before God and man.

Child Labor In Strawberry Fields

RALEIGH, April — Mindful of the fact that the strawberry season in North Carolina is getting underway, State Labor Commissioner Forrest H. Shuford has called attention to the strengthened provisions of the law apply to a farmer whether he himself ships the goods out of the State or whether he delivers them to a warehouse or wholesale dealer who does the actual shipping. Shuford said that growers who deliver to canning, processing, or refining establishments have the same obligation under this law not to hire children under 16 while school is in session, as have those farmers whose products move directly out of the State, if the canned, processed, or refined goods move in interstate commerce. Shuford said he has instructed his wage-hour investigation staff to check for violations of the child labor provisions of the Act in North Carolina counties which grow strawberries and other food products. Under North Carolina's cooperative agreement with the U. S. Labor Department, Commissioner Shuford directs all wage-hour enforcement work in the State. "We are most anxious to prevent violations of the child labor provisions of the Wage-Hour Law through informing employers of the recent amendments," Shuford
