... that he that would lose his life shall find it and he that will be greatest among you shall be least.

On just such principles he admonished members of the Wallace Associates that they must put into practice these principles in dealing with their community and its newcomers if Wallace is to continue to grow and prosper.

The speaker touched at length on the problems of a common American understanding. Pointing out the difficulties the country faces in view of the fact that we have so many people who speak so many different languages. Our customs are being interpreted to them in their language and we must be careful that the interpretation is right. We must build a great American under standing through greater public relations and this job falls on all of us alike whether we live here in Duplin County or if we live in the North and West where the language problem is sometimes great.

He predicted a great future for Eastern Carolina and the South. Contrasting Horace Greeley when he advised the young man to go West, Patterson advises him to go East and South.

He paid adequate tribute to the fine spirit among the people of Wallace. If it had not been for such spirit the town would not be the largest strawberry market in the world, the largest one set tobacco market in the world and maybe would not have J. P. Stevens locating there. He admonished them to keep up the spirit shown in the past and be alert into the future.

The advice he gave the members of the Wallace Associates can truly be applied to every community in the county. With an aggressive spirit, and with the cooperation manifested by Duplinites in doing the impossible when we put over the Duplin Story there is a great future for every hill and dale in every section of our county. Duplin has a destiny and I believe the people of today realize that destiny and will go forward to greater days ahead.

As I. N. Henderson said to me before the meeting got underway, "Duplin has made almost unbelievable progress in the past 10 years." Maybe we are just growing up. Lets have a little more faith in the Duplin Industrial Council and the Wallace Associates and with them balance out Duplin's economy with some kind of industry located in every town in the county. It's not impossible. A little faith, the right spirit, and some real down to earth doggedness and sacrifice can do just that.

Calves at the Ralston Purina Research Farm at Gray Summit, Mo., are testing show calf programs to develop fast, low-cost gains and top show finish. Purina baby calves on the 738-acre Research Farm have been graded almost 100% prime and have dressed out at an average of 66%. These steers were of particular interest to the farmers from this locality who visited the Farm last week.

As a member of the 5th Field Artillery Battalion, he is now serving with a unit having one of the finest records in the Army. His record is in a manner unique in military annals, completely identified with this country's history. "D" Battery the oldest organization in the Army, is the only unit in our army which can trace its history without interruption to the revolutionary War. With 174 years of service "D" Battery is four months older than our own nation.

Tickets On Sale Unto These Hills

CHEROKEE N. C., JUNE - Advance ticket reservations for "Unto These Hills," are now on sale.

On the basis of advance reservations during the past three weeks, General manager Carl White said he anticipated another good season, pointing out that "Unto These Hills" played to 107,000 persons last year.

"We already are getting an average of a dozen reservations a day before the box office has opened," White said. "Group requests involving charters and bus parties to the drama will be heavier this year than last."

In addition to the main ticket reservation office here at the Information Center, White announced that extension box offices will open June 4 in the following cities and towns:

Anneville, Union Bus Station.
Waynesville, Chamber of Commerce and Bus Station.
Bryson City, Bennett's Drug Store.
Cantonville, Information Center.
Cajalburg, Tenn., Dunn's Drug Store.
Knoxville, Tenn., Trailways Bus Station.

Plan 10-Acre Lake

A 10-acre lake will be constructed at the Cliffs of the Neuse State Park near Seven Springs at a cost of $52,000 during the next year.

The lake was approved by the Parks committee of the Department of Conservation and Development.

It had originally been planned to build a recreation house and public camp grounds. Park officials said they had more requests from the public for the lake, so they asked that it be placed ahead of the other projects.

The park serves an area of about 300,000 people and draws large crowds each year. The lake is expected to add greatly to its popularity.

Local Soldier In Germany

KITZINGEN, GERMANY, May 28, 1951 - Private Everett L. Kornegay, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Kornegay, of Kenansville, has changed his permanent station, as the 5th Field Artillery Battalion, of which he is a member, moved from Schwabach Hall, Germany, to Kitzingen, Germany.

Pvt. Kornegay first entered the Army in September 1948 at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, where he received his basic training. He was transferred to Fort Benning, Georgia for airborne training with the 11th Paratroop Division. In April 1950 he was sent to Fort Dix, New Jersey for shipment overseas and arrived in Germany in June 1950.

Kitzingen is a small city with virtually no war damage, pleasantly

Deputy Sheriff Tells Story Of Bootleggers Who Didn't Seem To Care

Deputy Sheriff Oliver Horne told us about a liquor raid he and deputy Oscar Houston made. He said it "beat anything I have ever seen."

As Oliver told the story, here it is:

Oscar and I left Kenansville about night Saturday with a search warrant. We headed straight for Tim Newkirk's home near Wallace, in Rockfish. Tim is a Negro, you know. We drove up there after night and found several persons around the place, eating barbecue and just having a good time. Tim and his family were selling barbecue and other things, we knew. We had a search warrant for Tim. We went to the house and knocked on the door. Tim opened it and I said "I have a search warrant for you." Tim replied "Just a minute, just a minute, come to this door." Tim knocked and someone said "who is it?" Tim answered "it's me, Tim." Tim opened the door. I saw one jar of bootleg liquor and several glasses with liquor in them setting around on the table. I saw Jesse Jones who lives in the house with Tim and an old drunk, I don't recall his name. We arrested Jesse and the drunk. Then was beaming from ear to ear. He thought for sure he was safe. He had done us a good turn and we would not molest him. I turned to Tim then and said "Tim, I have a search warrant for you." Tim's face fell. We searched Tim's apartment and found some bootleg whiskey. We arrested him. This made three arrests on the trip.

We left the house and got another search warrant and returned to find Tim's wife selling whiskey in the house. We arrested her and brought them all to jail. On Sunday we decided to take another look at Tim's home so we secured another search warrant and returned. This time we found Addie Southland, Tim's mother-in-law selling the same stuff. We arrested her and brought her to jail.

I think that must be a record to arrest five people for selling whiskey in the same house on three different trips in a period of less than 16 hours. Our visiting didn't seem to bother anyone in the least. They just kept playing their trade.

That is Oliver's story of Saturday night's trip to Tim Newkirk's home.

Begins 11th Season In Manteo, June 30

MANTEO, N. C. - Paul Green's syndicated drama, "The Lost Colony," America's longest running outdoor production, opens for its 11th season here at Manteo on Roanoke Island, Saturday night, June 30. The 1951 production schedule includes performances each evening except Monday, at 8:15 o'clock. The season continues through September 2. Despite increase in price of just about everything during the past year, there will be increase in admission prices to The Lost Colony which this year range from 50 cents for children and $1.80 for adults in the general admission section, to $2.40 for special reserved seats.

The colorful costumed drama with its company of more than 200 persons, is based on the mysterious disappearance of the 115 men of Sir Walter Raleigh's 1585-87 attempt at colonization here at Roanoke Island in the New World. The drama is presented in Waters Amphitheatre at Fort Raleigh, the very site of English-speaking America's beginning. Fort Raleigh is a national historic site maintained by the National Park Service and this year for the first time Lost Colony visitors and District Coast vacationists will have an opportunity to see a replica of a completed original fort built on the spot of Governor Ralph Lane's Sir Walter's 1585 expedition.

Paul Green's splendid play is made history in more ways than one and since its premiere in 1940 more than 500,000 persons have seen the drama. The 500th performance will be presented July 24.

The Leadership and Meet And Awards are being provided respectively by Edward Foss and Thos. Wilson, Chicago meat packer executives. Dairy awards will be furnished by Lederle Laboratories.

The first place boy and girl 4-H Leadership each will receive a silver trophy, and second place boy and girl will be awarded a $150 college scholarship.

Last year's state winners in North Carolina were: Dairy Achievement, Hazel Frank, Raleigh; Leadership, Cheryl Harris, Farmville; and Meet and Awards, Clarence Chappel, Jr., Beville.

All of these programs are conducted under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service, County Extension agents will furnish full information.

New Coast Road To Connect Nags Head; Oregon Inlet

NAGS HEAD, N. C. - An eight mile link of hard surfaced road in North Carolina where many thousands of miles of hard surfaced roads have been built in recent years, in not usually news except in the immediate vicinity which it will serve.

The new 8-mile road branching southward from US 158.64 and 264 at Nags Head does have unusual features and its construction will be of national interest. That is because the pavement scheduled to be completed by mid-June will lead to Oregon Inlet, one of the most famous sportfishing places along the east coast. The completed road will give motorists a chance to not only drive direct to the ocean's surf at the inlet to match their skill against channel bass with rod and reel, but it will also be the longest paved road in North Carolina that leads directly to a lighthouse.

Bodie Island Light, 163 feet high and marked with lavish black and white horizontal stripes is located near the inlet, and the marshes of the area are a favorite winter feeding ground for migratory wildfowl. Hunters, fishermen and sportsmen from all parts of the nation come to Nags Head for trips to Oregon Inlet and in a few more weeks it will be possible for them to drive their automobiles there without chartering a boat or a jeep for the trip.

Every State Accepting National 4-H Programs

For the first time in 4-H club history, the national 4-H Dairy Achievement, Leadership and Meet Animal awards programs are being accepted by every state in the union in 1951.

In all three programs, medals of honor are awarded to county winners and 17-jewel wrist watches to state champions. Sectional winners picked from the latter will receive all-expense trips to the National 4-H club congress in Chicago next November. National winners receive $300 college scholarships.

Beans Reported Selling High On Mt. Olive Market

Mount Olive's auction market is being operated this season by the Mount Olive Chamber of Commerce, Inc. The market project is headed by chairman E. F. Sutton, secretary and treasurer, Clay E. Casey, E. C. Casey, N. F. Holloman, H. D. Andrews, K. S. Warner and J. J. Thigpen. The committee is appointed by the Chamber of Commerce.

The local brokers, S. L. Warren and Son, Andrews and Knowles and English and Oliver are doing much buying on the market. There are some foreign buyers.

Brokers have been buying on the Mt. Olive market since April 30. About 3600 crates of strawberries were sold here this year. This is about twice as many as last year.

Volume of beans has been good so far this season taking into consideration the dry weather. Approximately 2300 baskets of beans have been sold on the market since last Monday. The average price has been good. The dry weather has not hurt the quality of the beans, but it has cut off the volume.

The cucumber crop looks good right now, but if the farmers do not get some rain within the next week, the crop will be short and the cucumbers in bad condition. Cucumbers are not expected to show on the Mt. Olive market until the second week in June. T. R. Ellis is the auctioneer.

Now Inspecting F. F. A. Forestry Projects In N. C.

RALEIGH, N. C., Beginning Wednesday, May 23rd, an inspection was begun of Future Farmers of America forestry projects throughout North Carolina to determine the winners of the cooperative FFA forestry program. It was announced today by A. L. Teachey, State Supervisor of Agricultural Education.

Assisting in the inspections of the forestry projects will be: R. J. Peeler, Executive Secretary of the FFA; P. A. Griffiths, Management Assistant, N. C. Department of Conservation and Development; M. E. Coleman, Educational Director, American Turpentine Farmers Association, Valdosta, Ga., and R. N. Hoskins, Industrial forester, Seaboard Air Line Railroad Company, Norfolk, Va.

Mr. Teachey stated that each year marks greater participation by future farmers on their individual woodlots. He pointed out that the state winner will be given a trip to the National FFA convention at Kansas City, Mo., this fall. Last year's Future Farmer from North Carolina to receive this trip was Egan Plyler, of Wesley Chapel. The district winners receive cash awards and will be eligible to compete again in the contest so long as they are enrolled in vocational agriculture.

Donors to the cooperative FFA forestry program are: Biegel Paper Corporation, Acme; Halifax Paper Company, Roanoke Rapids, N. C., an d the Seaboard Air Line Railroad company.

Technical assistance to foreign countries is expected to require the help and cooperation of a large portion of trained specialists in the United States, some of whom will be needed to fill responsible positions abroad. Applicants should have degrees in agriculture or home economics as well as several years of professional experience. Preference will be given to candidates 30 to 60 years of age.

Farm Group Plans Point IV Meeting

Agricultural and home economics specialists throughout North Carolina are invited to attend a meeting on the Point IV program for aid to underdeveloped countries at N. C. State College on Friday, June 1.

The meeting will be held in the auditorium of the new Niddick engineering laboratories building beginning at 1:30 p. m. Principal speaker will be Dr. Ross Moore, assistant director of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations.

Point IV has been described as the greatest opportunity of our time to help the people of the world.
