Thanksgiving

Reddy Kilowatt, the farmer's best hired hand, works in hundreds of ways to lighten the farmer's day. At the flip of a switch, Reddy takes over in the farm work shop, the dairy barn, the milk shed, the hen house and all those other spots where dependable electric service can free the farm owner for other important jobs.

In the farm house, Reddy is the homemaker's servant, heating water, cooking meals, doing the laundry, keeping food fresh. He saves time, money and work. He's on the job twenty-four hours a day, every day of the year. His wages are one of the smallest items in the farm family's budget.

No other servant does so much for so little on today's farm.
