Farm Income Tax Circular Issued

Up-to-date information on filing farmer's income tax returns for 1951 is given in a new circular just published by the State College Extension Service. Prepared by an extension farm management committee representing all the Southern states, the circular has been approved by the U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue. It's title is "Farmers 1951 Income Tax and it is issued in North Carolina as Extension Circular No. 366. Persons desiring a free copy should see their local county agent or write the Department of Publications, State College Station, Raleigh.

The circular covers such topics as who must file a return, date return is due, forms used by farmers, reporting on cash or accrual basis, figuring depreciation, sale of timber development costs, and other subjects, as well as several pages of questions and answers. Several illustrations are used to show the correct method of filing in the various forms. The bulletin points out that if two-thirds of a person's gross income is from farming and his business year starts January 1, he has two choices in filing returns and paying the tax. He may file pay the balance or before January 31, or he can file an estimate of the tax and pay the amount by January 15, and then file his return and pay any balance due by March 15.
