speed, we can think of as in many age a Christian home. Jesus was elecome there; he dropped in any me, he felt at home.

New Christ is most at home (no any one is) where people are congusint, where the sittends to the things men live by—week, play, leve, wership—is the same as his attitude.

Also in the Bethany home they lisped to Jesus. It is well to have and to Jesus. It is well to have Bible in the house; but that alone read? Do the children when grow-ing up hear the words of Jesus from the Gospels? Do they hear his voice as often as they hear the voice of Mr. Cassidy or the Lone Ranger?

How the Home Can Serve

HERE are three ways in which home of today can serve One is in connection with the church. Except in rarest cases, every Christian home should be an setual part of some Christian ion from the homes in its mity will be a dying church.

to livest churches, on the re hand, are those where see and church de the best n-work. To take only one mpier Does your home work ther with your church in recruiting of ministers?

Ministers have to come from omewhere, and the best ministers on't all come from preachers' omes by any means. How about the boys in your home? If one of them felt an urge to be a minister er a missionary, would the rest of you laugh him out of it?

ther way for the home to serve Christ is in treatment of strangers. When strangers move into your community, or live there for ort time as school teachers bem? Is your house a "home way from home" for lonely people?

When you have a party, do you havite always only those who can on being "exclusive" has forgotten Jesus' words—"I was a stranger, and ye took me not in."

Serving the Children

Christian home, moreover, will A serve its own children in Carist's name. In it children will sear about Christ, not as a past figure in history but as a Living One. Parents will teach them Christian patterns of living.

This will not be merely some-hing they hear about in Sunday chool it will be the pattern of t it will be the pattern of life in which they are trained from day to day, beginning even before they can remember. This home, if it serves its children as it should will show them how to help Christ. The children will know about the ch ("His body," said Paul) and what it is doing in his name around years they will be helpers in this work. They will not grow up think-ing of "missions" in some vague but they will know and be hrilled by the great story which hat single word carries.

And the children in a Christian home will be helped by lease for more than they help him. Even at the beginning of childhood they will learn to say "Dear Jesus, help me," when he mean word or the angry act are just aimest exploding. Even no children they will learn sensetting of what in older pears will mean much more, he "wrocites of His pres-

Middleton Gardens Celebration Features Opening Of Charleston Gardens' Season

(Special To The Times)
Charleston, S. C., — Principal feature of the 1952 season for Charleston's world-famous gardens is a series of ceremonies planned for Middleton Gardens, which this year begins its third century as 'America's most important gardens.

America's most important gardens.

The quoted phrase was used by the head of the Garden Club of America when its most cherished award, the Bulkley Medal, was be-stowed on Middleton "in commem-oration of 200 years of enduring beauty."

J. J. Pringle Smith, lineal descendant of the Middletons and present owner, says: "Although the garden was begun in 1741 by Henry Middleton, President of the First Continental Congress, it was not completed until late in 1751, when the small army of 100 workers put the finishing touches on the world-renowned terraces, Butterfly Lakes, and the floral path laid out through the 65-acre 'botanical paradise," His son, Arthur, signer of the Declaration of Independence, added the first camellias to be brought to the New World."

Mr. Smith announces that schools throughout the South are planning to send busloads of pupils to visit the gardens at special rates during the historic year. He adds that receptions are also contemplated for parties of distinguished visitors from the United and abroad.

As usual, the other famous gardens in the Charleston area will be attracting thousands of visitors—last year their registers were signed.

B. R. Kittredge, Jr., owner of Cypress Gardens, reports that his famed water garden suffered no damage from the freezes of 1950, and that, with the addition of countless flowering plants last year, Cypress should offer a record season of blossom.

At Middleton, Mr. Smith reports that the planting of 35,000 azaleas on the bank rising from Rice Mill Pond has been completed and provides perhaps the most breath-taking blaze of color in the horticultural world. This year he is also mening a Complete of the land of the opening a Cypress Lake develop-ment, where banks of azaleas shim-mer in the inky waters; and a New Camellia Garden, where the con-noisseur may study the much-sought varieties which have given the camellia the name of "aristo-crat of flowers."

Horses are not considered dangerous. Yet records of the National Safety Council show they account for more accidents than any other farm animal.

This is pointed out by Lacy Weeks, county farm agent for the State College Extension Service, who says all livestock should be handled kindly but with alertness, since even gentle animals may kick or strike when startled.

Clean Farm Shop Is Safer To Use

Winter is a good time to make your farm shop safe for 1952 re-pair and servicing work, suggests County Agent Lacy Weeks of the State College Extension Service.

A quick inspection says the agent, will show if your shop is orderly and safe or cluttered with accident hazards. The National Safety Council points out that orderliness, good lighting, and safe tools and equipment make shop work much easier and safer.
