PLACE RAT BAIT

Baiting is the most effective anti-rat measure. Outbreeding among the available poisons is warfarin, discovered at the University of Wisconsin. It causes no "hair shyness," kills both rats and mice, and is comparatively safe. Warfarin has proved to be a rat poison and bait.

Sara Joiner's Column

Form Your Own Opinion—Heaven Can Wait You Dew!

A certain middle-aged woman whom I have known for some time knows a great many people that I do not. So, for years, I was foolish enough to take her evaluations of others as my own. I was—that is, until recently.

My friend assured me that Mrs. X was a shrewish and common person, a discredit to any neighborhood. She told me that Mrs. Z was gossip, lazy and irresponsible. When my friend spoke of either of them it was with a condescending manner for as she declared, she had no use for that class of people.

So it was that when I eventually became acquainted with both of these women, I received a most pleasant surprise. Mrs. X was the overworked mother of a brood of five, but she would nevertheless stop and bake a cake for you if you had burned just when you were expecting company. I found Mrs. Z to be casual, frankly sincere, took you at your word and asked no questions about anything you didn't care to tell her. Both had their faults, but don't we all? But the faults that these women had, were entirely hidden by their many virtues.

What surprised me the most—and should have, I'll admit—was the fact that my holler than thou friend had never met either of them. So please profit by the great truth that I learned, form your own opinions.

Joyce Ann Jones Wins V-C $750 Scholarship

Joyce Ann Jones of Warsaw, N. C. has been announced winner of one of the four $750 college scholarships awarded annually by Virginia-Carolina Chemical corporation to sons and daughters of the employees.

Miss Jones is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Jones of Warsaw and is a senior at the Warsaw high school. Her father has been V-C fertilizer salesman for the Wilmington office of the Richmond firm for six years. The scholarships are awarded on the basis of scholastic achievement, leadership in school and community affairs and moral character.

Winners are selected by a committee composed of Thomas Long, president of the bank of Virginia; Dr. Douglas B. Freeman, Pulitzer prize winner, author and former editor of the Richmond News; Dr. George Modlin, president of the University of Richmond and Dr. Paul Sanders, editor of the Southern Planter.

Miss Jones, throughout high school, has been engaged in many activities. F.H.A. for four years; secretary of both junior and senior classes, and a Freshman class officer; cheer leader four years; chief marshal at last year's graduation exercise; a member of the Music club, three years in the Glee club, in both Junior and Senior plays; a member of the Honor society last year and president of that organization as a senior.

Because of her outstanding abilities she was selected to keep the Principal's office during the first and second periods.

In the recent superlative contest held by her class, Miss Jones was selected as the most popular girl.
