The trouble with most of us isn't ignorance what ails us — as much as most of us being able to know so many things that just isn't so! But one can always throw up both hand in despair and say, "Well, that's what I heard anyway." A sincere learner becomes a secret master of his labors which is God's way of educating us I think. Most of us could use a good size cemetery to bury our faults in too. They say, a little "Alert" saves a lot of "Alas." A stitch in time saves nine—but when time flies so fast these days who has time to sew?

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Watson of Tifton, Ga., was an honored guest at the home of Mr. Johnny Hollingsworth and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parker recently. While there they were visited by Mr. and Mrs. David Kilpatrick and children, Miss Catherine Kilpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Brock and Mrs. Preston Bostic and little son, all of near Rose Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Murrell of Louisville, Ky., arrived here last week after an extended study at the Theological Seminary at Louisville for the past year. Mrs. Murrell is expected to participate in the Bible School which is going on this week at the Baptist church here. They are at home with their parents Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Grasham and the Van Murrells at Jacksonville.

Mrs. R. W. Treharne and little son "Ricky" left last Saturday for Pittsburgh, Penn. where she resides. She was expected to be met in Washington, D.C. by her husband's parents while her husband is away on business in the western part of the states. Mrs. Treharne has been visiting her mother and other relatives here, Mrs. Milloy.

Mrs. A. F. Gatlin, Mrs. V. Milloy and Mrs. Hazel Treharne and children all visited down at Sneads Ferry last week and delighted in the surf waters and sightseeing for a day of relaxation. Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Sanderson and several others went deep sea fishing last week with good results; also making their selves at home while there in their new cottage on the beach. All the ne wisherzien became sea-sick—uhmmm.

Little Thomasine Sanderson, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Sanderson was reported "lost" one day last week while on a little shopping tour in Wallace. I don't think the Militia was called out, but when she put on the loud speakers—in her way of bawling to the tops of her lungs—it was not long before she was noticed and brought in to safety. Don't know what she was buying.

Mrs. Haze Dall, who has cheated death by moments or inches, is reportedly doing well and is expected home from a Kinston hospital most any day now. Hope and prayer could have had untold miracles to do with her recovery.

Mrs. Mabel Thomas Dall returned home to Norfolk, Va., last week after spending several days with her mother while in danger of slipping away. All are so glad of her impending home — coming along with all her family and friends.

The Bible School has been well attended all week and the weather has been fine.

My pet peeve of the week is to

Mother and Daughter in Iron Lungs

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—Helpless! Mrs. Agnes Jones, 60, foreground, and her daughter, Martha, 30, in iron lungs at General Hospital. The daughter was stricken first with a muscular atrophy (Lou Gehrig's disease) a year ago. Recently the mother joined her in an iron lung, afflicted with the same disease.

Malaria Controllers Expert In Giving The Bugs A Blast At Camp Lejeune

Camp Lejeune.—Operations against insect invasion of Camp Lejeune continue at a stepped up pace as wigglers warm-up to summer suns. Holding the line in the battle for freedom from disease-bearing pests in the Camp's Malaria Control Unit. Under Commander F. K. Harder, 3 officers, 5 enlisted men, 1 secretary and 34 laborers take the field against insects daily. Breeding grounds of mosquitoes, in swamps, puddles, and stagnant pools are sought out by survey parties. Shock troops in the form of work parties are then dispatched to the larger points. Armed with knapsack spraying tanks, aero-mist sprayers and allied sawdust bags they destroy the larva before it develops. Fuel oil is spread on the water, the area is sprayed and the allied sawdust bags are deposited in the water. This triple attack destroys and discourages breeding bugs.

For full-grown insect pests, the units' fog machine is a wholesale killer. A mixture of fuel oil and DDT is sprayed from the fog machine on the back of a truck. Under heat and pressure, massive clouds of insect-killing fog are spread over wide area. Two fog machine equipped trucks operate 6 nights a week in camp, weather permitting. Research and classification of insects for Malaria Control is done by Lt. (jg) Ted Tibbitts, base Entomologist. In his laboratory Lt. Tibbitts collects and identifies most of the insect types to be found in the area. Approximately 6 light traps for insects operate from 1800 to 0600 every night. A light attracts the bugs, a fan then sucks them down into a jar containing cyanide. During winter months a program meet an acquaintance on the street and start talking to them to find out later that I was talking to the wrong person—things which do not concern the person I thought I was talking to in the first place, or the high cost of living. The way things sometimes turn out—we were all better off when prosperity was reportedly just around the corner.

Church services were conducted Sunday night at the regularly quarterly meeting by the Rev. N. E. Grasham with a very large attendance. Sunday School was rated a good attendance also Sunday.

Wright Brothers Memorial Museum

Raleigh, N. C. — A $1,000,000 Wright Brothers Memorial Museum is going to be erected at the birthplace of aviation near Kill Devil Hill on North Carolina's Outer Banks. Sponsors are aiming at completion of the project by December 17, 1953, the 50th anniversary of the historic first flight by Wilbur and Orville Wright. The museum will house scale models of gliders and other aircraft built by the Wrights, and the workshop and hangar they used will be reconstructed. Plans also call for a landing field for light planes.

Plans for the project were drafted here at the organizational meeting of the Wright Memorial Committee of the Kill Devil Hills Memorial Society with the honorary chairman, Gov. W. Kerr Scott, Brig. Gen. Frank P. Lehr of Mansfield, Ohio, is president of the society, and Miles Clark of Elizabeth City, N. C. is chairman of the board. Governor Scott appointed a committee headed by David Stick of Kill Devil Hills to make arrangements for financing the museum. Funds would be raised by the aviation industry and from private contributors, with the National Park Service cooperating in the construction and maintenance of the building.

Committee members include Adm. Dewitt C. Ramsey, president of Aircraft Industries Association, Washington, D. C., Paul Edward Garber, curator of the National Air Museum, Washington; Merrill C. Meigs, vice president of Heurt Corp., Chicago; T. H. Davis, president of Piedmont Airlines, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Fred C. Kelly of Kensington, Md., official biographer of the Wright brothers; Ronald F. Lee, assistant director of the National Park Service, Washington;

TO THE PEOPLE OF DUPLIN COUNTY:

I wish to express my sincere gratitude for the vote given me in the Democratic Primary last Saturday for the office of Register of Deeds of Duplin County.

I know that it is going to be a real challenge to maintain the office on the same high level as it has been operated in the past. I have pledged to keep the present efficient force and pledge to give my best to the task. I trust that Duplin County can continue to point with pride to the office of Register of Deeds and that it will continue to serve the best interest of all our people.

It was a pleasure to be in a fine, clean race for this office and I trust that this campaign will long be remembered as one of the cleanest ever conducted for a county office. The only really hard part of the race for me has been my sincere respect and admiration for the two fine gentlemen in the race. I am a firm believer that The Master does not record who wins or loses a race—but rather HOW WE PLAY THE GAME!

I congratulate Mr. McKay and his staff of election officials on the fine manner in which they discharged their duties Saturday. I visited 18 of the polling places while voting was in progress, and, at every place I was much impressed. 8:30 p.m. came before I got around to the other two places. I really feel that Duplin County can well be proud of Saturday's Primary.

May God add his blessings to the decisions we made and may not a single citizen ever have cause to regret the outcome of any of the races. This is my earnest prayer.

Mrs. Christine Williams
