Woman Marine Holds Top Enlisted Post

Camp Lejeune, N. C. — Holding down the top enlisted post in a military camp of over forty thousand troops sounds like a mammoth task—but it's not too big for Woman Marine Staff Sergeant Hazel A. Lindahl.

Lindahl's camp Sergeant Major here, and the administrative chief of the base. As administrative assistant to the Camp Adjutant she directs and coordinates the workings of the camp's vast administrative load.

A reservist from Malden, Mass., SSgt. Lindahl was recalled to active duty in August, 1950, and served as secretary to the Camp Adjutant until last April when she became Camp Sergeant Major.

Although she said it was difficult to leave her home in Malden, and her job as secretary at the Malden and Melrose Gas and Light Co., SSgt. Lindahl feels she has gained a lot of experience which will be useful in future civilian life—to which she expects to return early next year.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lindahl, 81 Claremont St., Malden, Mass., the Sergeant Major says that it's not always easy handling all sorts of problems of her male Leatherneck cohorts, but what could be more valuable to a woman than learning how to handle men?

She brings with her to the State office faith in the organization and a belief in its unquestioned future.

While in Rocky Mount, Miss Pritchard was a member of the Woman's Club, the Seaboard Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, and the Wesleyan Guild.

Miss Pritchard's appointment has been approved by Dean of Agriculture James H. Hilton, Chancellor J. W. Harrison, and President Gordon Gray of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

marketing is being added to the State College Staff. She is Miss Jola Florence Pritchard, who for the past three years has served as assistant home demonstration agent in Nash County. As a new staff member, Miss Pritchard will be working with Miss Rose Ellwood Bryan, who heads the department.

Miss Pritchard graduated from East Carolina College with a degree in home economics and science. Before coming to extension she taught both home economics and science in several eastern Carolina cities including Windsor, Weldon, and Nashville.

Miss Current says about Miss Pritchard, "She performed the duties of her position with great thoroughness, enthusiasm, and un-

Local Teachers Attending Duke Science Conference

DURHAM, N. C.—Miss Virginia Eastley, science teacher in the Warsaw High School, and Mr. D. B. Teachey, Jr., science teacher from Rose Hill are among the 33 high school teachers attending Duke University's second annual Science Teachers' Laboratory Conference this week.

Gathering at Duke from nine states and Cuba, the teachers are learning new experiments for use in their science classrooms, participating in workshops and informal discussions, and hearing addresses by well-known scientists.

Dr. Laurence H. Snyder, Dean of the Graduate College at the University of Oklahoma, and Dr. Joseph Beard, professor of experimental surgery at Duke Medical School, are two of the outstanding guest speakers.

Other conference activities include commercial and industrial exhibits in the Duke biology and chemistry buildings, open houses, field trips in the Durham area, and a special showing of teaching films.

Two From Duplin At Campbell College

Miss Sarah West Outlaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Outlaw of Kenansville and Patsy Carter Kornegay, daughter of Mrs. Gordon Kornegay of Warsaw are among the summer students at Campbell College this year.

In spite of the excessive heat which has prevailed this summer, life at Campbell College goes on about as usual. A number of the College boys are members of the Bules Creek baseball Club, coached by Hargrove Davis of the College staff and they have at least one night game a week on the illuminated Taylor Field of the College. Intramural sports are otherwise the order of the summer session.

Work is progressing rapidly on the magnificent new memorial gymnasium, the construction of which has been made possible by the generous gifts of thousands of Campbell College alumni and friends.

The first half of the summer session ended July 19th; the second half will close on August 27th.

FOR ALL KIDS WHO LIKE CATS

For my friend, Billy Craft, whose birthday is today, July 31, and for David Kirk and for Tommy and Erika who like cats and for Sibby and Gail who love them, this poem of Elizabeth Coatsworth called the Bad Kittens:

You may call, you may call, But the little black cats won't hear you, The little black cats are maddened By the bright green light of the moon, They are whirling and running and sliding, They are wild who were once so confiding, They are crazed when the moon is riding— You will not catch the kittens soon, They are not for saucers of milk, They think not of pillows of silk, Your softest, crooningest call Is less than the buzzing of flies, They are seeing more than you see, They are hearing more than you hear, And out of the darkness they peer With a goblin light in their eyes.

Personal

Houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Williamson during the past week have included Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Williamson of Richmond, Virginia and Mrs. E. L. Shepard of Wilmington.

Sgt. and Mrs. Robert Sykes of Fort Bragg and their two daughters spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Sykes.

Mrs. Emory Sadler, Emory Sadler, Jr., Mrs. Louise Mitchell and Miss Barbara Mitchell returned home on Friday after a trip to the mountains. While away they attended a performance of Horn in the West at Boone and Unto These Hills at Cherokee.

Mrs. Willard Johnson entertained at a large family luncheon on Sunday noon for the guests of the Southerland-Gaylor wedding. Mrs. Johnson is sister of the groom.

Mr. R. V. Wells has received word that his son, Lieutenant Colonel Robert Wells, met his family in Seattle. They sailed for Alaska last week. The Wells expect to be stationed there about two years.

Mrs. Wells and her children, Bobby and Sue drove to the West Coast from Kenansville.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Browder and their children, Billy Henry and Emily Sue Browder have returned from a vacation trip to Virginia. They visited Charlottesville, Natural Bridge and Lexington.

Colan Holland is home from the mountains for a few days. He will return this week.

Miss Mary Cooper is guest of Mrs. D. Dall and family at Carolina Beach.

Girl Scouts Give Formal Party

On Saturday, July 26, the Kenansville Girl Scouts gave a formal banquet to commemorate their thirteenth birthday. The girls wore evening dresses several of them for the first time. The Home-Ec. room of Kenansville was the scene of the festive occasion and was attractively decorated with crepe paper streamers and pine bows. After the banquet, the girls and their guests enjoyed dancing.

Among those present were Mrs. A. T. Outlaw, Mrs. W. M. Ingram, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sitterson, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Weeks, Mrs. G. V. Gooding, and Banks McNairy, III.
