Be Gracious At Table

Every homemaker wants her family adequately nourished. At the same time, she should know how to serve nourishing food in a simple and attractive manner so that her children may learn at home how to be at ease on all occasions. Children learn, through experience an appreciation for good food, nicely served, how to handle the knife, fork and spoon and how to participate in table conversation. Table service should never be evident but should keep the meal proceeding smoothly, without those at the table being especially conscious of it. Being natural and at ease is important in gracious table service.

Things To Remember At Table

Do not concentrate on eating to the extent of not entering into conversation.

Never reach in front of people or across the table for a dish. Ask the person nearest that dish to pass it to you.

If you are asked your preference as to a food, express some preference whether it matters to you or not. This will help the one who is serving.

Toothpicks, like toothbrushes, should be used only in the privacy of one's own room.

If an accident occurs, express your regret and attend to it as quietly as possible.

To Remove Lead Pencil Marks A soft eraser sometimes will remove the marks, especially on stiff or starched materials. If the material is washable, rub soapsuds into the stain and launder as usual. Sponge woolen materials with clear water or with a solution of equal parts alcohol and water.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank each one for every thought of kindness shown us at the time of the death of our husband and father.

—Mrs. Shad Kornegay and children.

AUTUMN

The mornings are meeker than they were,
The nuts are gettin' brown;
The berry's cheek is plumper,
The rose is out of town.

The maple wears a gayer scarf,
The field a scarlet gown.
Lest I should be old-fashioned,
I'll put a trinket on.

—Emily Dickinson.
