Farmers who sold flue cured tobacco under the government price support program in 1946 and 1947 will share in a 5 1/2 to six million dollar profit on the crops.

L. T. Weeks, general manager of the Flue Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corporation, said today the distribution will be made in January.

It will be the second distribution made since the cooperative was formed in 1946 to purchase tobacco under the price support program. The first was in January, 1951, when about four million dollars was sent to 288,000 growers as net gains on the 1947 crop.

Using Commodity Credit Corporation funds, the Stabilization Corporation purchases tobacco at price support levels. The tobacco is stored and later sold at a profit. The net gains on the amount left after all expenses, including repaying government loans with interest—are distributed to farmers who sold tobacco to the corporation for that crop year.

In the scheduled January distribution, approximately 190,000 growers will share in about two million dollars from the 1948 crop, and approximately 225,000 will divide about four to 4 1/2 million from the 1949 crop. Some growers of course, will get refunds from both years, while others will share in only one.

The Stabilization Corporation has 450,000 grower members in the five flue cured producing states. Excluding purchases from the 1952 crop, the corporation has on hand about 74 million pounds of tobacco. Measured in dry weight—this represents about 60 million pounds purchased from the 1950 and 1951 crops.

"Swing Your Partners" To Feature Lunsford At State Fair Next Week; Greatest Fair Ever, Say Officials

Raleigh—It will be "Swing your partners and circle to the right" again this year at the 1952 N. C. State Fair which opens here next Tuesday, October 14, for five days and nights. Dr. J. S. Dorton, Fair manager, said in calling attention to the Fifth Annual State Fair Folk Festival. The event will be directed by Bascom Lamar Lunsford, the famed "Minister of the Appalachians" from South Turkey Creek in Sumner County.

Dr. Dorton said three performances daily will be presented in the Folk Festival, those at 11:00 a. m. and 2:00 p. m. being scheduled on the big outdoor stage in front of the Fair's main educational building, and a 5:30 p. m. performance in the new State Fair Arena (coliseum). Lunsford has sent out a call to all the top talent in folk festivals which he also conducts at Asheville, Chapel Hill and new Eastern Carolina Folk Festival held this year at the first time at Kenansville in Duplin County. "But I may have missed a few," Lunsford said, "and church choirs, Gospel quartettes, string bands, dance teams, fiddler, banjo pickers, ballad singers, and clog dancers from all over the State are invited to participate."

The festival director said prospective competitors for the $1,000 in cash and trophy prizes offered in the State Fair festival should notify him in advance of the day and time they prefer to perform. "However," he said "this is not absolutely necessary because it is usually possible to put performers on the program who show up at the stages and request permission to compete."

Lunsford said those who enter the competition in advance will
