It's bad when you think you might have a false friend, but it's much worse when you've been the false friend. Pleasant thoughts are the roots of most happiness—and it is not as much from what one eats—that gives them ulcers as it is what's eating them.

Our Wednesday night prayer meeting prior to the Revival next month has brought out a large number of interested folks at the Baptist Church. Last Wednesday night the program was led by Miss Elva Gresham. Revival will be rendered by Rev. Dowless of Kinston.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Huffman and Miss Betty Lou Huffman of Richlands were some of those attending the local Post Office Employees meeting held in Wallace last Wednesday night. Miss Huffman was one of the entertainers of the evening with one of her lovely songs.

Mrs. Eula Sanderson and Mrs. R. S. Rhodes and Mr. T. F. Sanderson spent last Thursday over at Topsail Beach sightseeing, and on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Parker of Goldsboro last week with her husband and expect to live here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. and Milton Parker went shopping at Goldsboro last week end.

Mr. Billy Register and mother of Rose and sister Linda were dinner guests of Mrs. N. E. Gresham last Tuesday evening and was later entertained by moving pictures by Mrs. A. F. Gatlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Adrean Teachey of Rocky Mount spent the week end here with Mrs. Ida Bostic and Miss Peggy Judge. Mrs. Teachey recently underwent a minor operation in a Rocky Mount hospital for a foot ailment. Getting along nicely.

Mrs. Hanchey who was burned last week on her eldorado, is still in the hospital in a critical condition, not expected to leave before Christmas, her burns are so serious.

Mr. Jean Sanderson of the ECC faculty was some of the local boys to be home over the week end.

CPO A. F. Gatlin of Bethesda, Maryland hospital was home with his family over the week end last week. Gatlin, who has been in the hospital with an injured leg since last March expects to get temporary duty next month.

Mrs. Guy Rhodes who has been ill recently and Mrs. Nettie Gatlin made a business trip to Kinston last Monday.

Little Wanda Francis Norris who has been ill for the past week with a cold is some better and up and around again.

Billy Brinkley who has been ill for the past week with Pneumonia is able to be out in the store again.

PFC and Mrs. Posey Hunter, son of Mrs. Killis Bradin has been spending several days here with relatives on leave from service. Mr. Hunter recently returned from Alaska and is expecting to leave for Korea, or other foreign arags.

The P.T.A. held its regular meeting last week with a good attendance. Mrs. Landen's room won prize for most parents—also gave program signifying Thanksgiving in the traditional way. A delightful program was rendered.

The Senior Play was given last Friday night with a well filled house, to witness it. The play 'An-Ron Slick From Punkin Creek' was well performed by a competent group of players. Credit to all who participated in the project.

Mrs. Mary Gladys Smith was a pop caller on Mrs. Emily Dall last week end.

Miss Ruth Ester James of Wilmington spent the week end with her parents and other friends here last week.

Mrs. T. F. Sanderson and daughter Thomsaine spent a delightful evening last Friday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Catherine Mearady and family.

Miss Gloria, her daughter, spent the week end with Nellie Sanderson.

church will not be able to serve as his resignation was not accepted by other commitments at Charlotte where he has been engaged. However, a pastor is expected to be here in the near future.

When life grows drab and grey, it's time to go fishing with your grandchildren. Many persons have said, 'A smile is a light in the window of the face that shows the heart is at home; yet, the smile is little good until it's given away.'

Mrs. Rodolph Futreal, Mrs. Eula Sanderson, Mrs. Raymond Brown and Mrs. Brown all spent Saturday in Wilmington shopping and exchanging former bought suits. Wonderful selling system.

Mr. Roy Smith who has been employed at Newport News, Va. recently was home with his family over the week end.

The weeks revival that was held at the Shiloh Baptist Church came to a close last Sunday night.

Sunday School here at the Baptist Church Sunday a.m. enjoyed 137 in attendance, large collection, several visitors, but the unhappy event was the climax of goodbyes to the Gresham family who moved to Norfolk Va. Monday. No words of regret in losing the family could describe here what the community feels, but we hope the Greshams will be as happy where they are going as we here, have enjoyed having them with us.

Island Creek Baptist Church last week held a Bible Study Friday night where a large group of women from the Sharon Church here attended; also giving the Gresham family a hearty and well wished send off to their new abode in Va. Tears and laughter was the theme of the whole affair here. We hope good luck will follow them all. We feel here we are not actually losing them—but their presence will ever grow, even more stronger as their absence increases.

This 'Grandparent' Score—being brought out—(Even compared by Mr. Sikes of the Morning Star) being let known to the public, has gone too far now to be stopped. The Chinquapin writer, was mother of seven in eight and a half years, her mother, Mrs. Eula Sanderson of Chinquapin, mother twelve times in twenty four years, even reaching back to Civil War days. She is 77 years old, ten of her twelve living, and twenty eight grand children with 16 great grand children.

Mrs. Sanderson appears younger as years go by—saying she has no intention of leaving this Atomic Age—yet. She has just returned from a month's vacation in New Smyrna, Florida with her daughter, by National Air Lines, and says no other way to go these days but fly—Isn't it grand to be 77 years young?

Mrs. Bessie Hunter and son, Chester, Robert and Nelson of Wallace was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hunter in Richlands last Sunday and stopped over at friends in Chinquapin Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Lydia Bostic and Mrs. G. O. Parker were some of the Goldsboro shoppers from here last Thursday.

A great and immortal speech is one that is short enough for school boys to memorize.

Trouble with learning to drive by experience is that few are alive for the last part of course.

Not many complain about the loss of personal liberty involved in stopping for red lights.

MORE POWER TO EASTERN CAROLINA—This is the seed bed of which Carolina Power & Light Company will raise a mighty big plant—a 300,000-horsepower generating plant. The job started this month with formal ground-breaking ceremonies along the edge of the Cape Fear river, right foreground. A boiler 17 stories high and a 200-foot smokestack will be located within the rectangle. (Aerial Photo by John Brownings).

CP&L Ups Plans For Wilmington

This depends, he said, on the future growth of southeastern North Carolina, whose future potentialities, he said, justify his enthusiastic predictions.

The same optimism was voiced also by Congressman F. Eitel Carlyle, who made the principal address, and by Wilmington's Mayor E. L. White, who acted as master of ceremonies.

After the utility president had broken ground officially by operating a power shovel, the occasion ended with a barbecue lunch. About 400 officials, newspaper and radio men and civic and business leaders from the old Tide Water area attended the ceremonies.

They met on a bluff overlooking a scenic sweep of the Cape Fear River. Prior to the official 'ground breaking,' the company had cut a highway to the once isolated area and cleared the trees on the spot where the plant will stand. Picnic facilities for visitors already have been built along the river's edge.

The 75 piece junior high school band from Wilmington played a concert before and after the official ceremony, which was broadcast over a network of radio stations in eastern North and South Carolina.

Describing the project, which was first announced as 185,000 horsepower Mr. Sutton said 'I believe when this first unit is installed it will really have a capacity of 150,000 horsepower. It is my pleasure to announce at this time, even before ground is broken, that we have ordered a second unit of similar size for this plant.'

In addition to new generating at Lumberton and Goldsboro Sutton said his company plans to spend about $40,000,000 in the next four years in old Tide Water territory on plants, transmission lines and other facilities.

'We are keeping faith with the people who were instrumental in effecting a merger of the Tide Water Power Company with Carolina Power and Light Company' he said. 'It is also an expression of our faith in the future of this area.'

Engineers indicated that the job would require about 400 workers, drawn mainly from the Wilmington region. It will involve big figures and gigantic structures. The first boiler, for instance, will stand as tall as a 17 story building. It will rest on a concrete slab supported by over 900 cast in place concrete piles. The smokestack will be 200 feet tall.

To cool its condensers the plant will pump more water out of the Cape Fear River and back every day than the city of Wilmington uses in a month. Its huge boilers will burn enough coal in a single day to heat the average home for 236 years.

This will be the seventh steam plant for CP&L, which has nine hydroelectric plants. Commenting on the recent preference for steam plants, Mr. Sutton said they were more flexible and dependable and that their modern efficiency has cut operating costs. He said the new Wilmington plant will be able to generate almost four times as much power as the much publicized Buggs Island project during an average year and over seven times
