Resigns

An elder of the Howard Memorial Presbyterian Church in Tarboro, Sadler has been an active church worker for many years and has held the position of Treasurer of the Home Missions Committee of the Albemarle Presbytery. He has been a member of the Telephone Monarchs of America since we are playing an important part in the scientific successes, since the money raised through the sale of Dimes Campaign by volunteer workers are shared with the National Headquarters on a fifty-fifty basis. The success in the fight against Polio in a few short years has changed from a fight based on our hopes and dreams to one based on a practical scientific reality.

But we do not live and work for the future alone. Long after polio has been conquered we will be concerned, as we are today, with the huge problem of caring for the thousands who know the tragedy of polio, and who must be aided in their fight for maximum recovery and self-reliance. Parent care continues to take the lion's share of every March of Dimes dollar. The tremendous load of carryover cases from recent epidemics continues to drain our Chapter funds and places a heavy burden upon the national office in meeting the needs of hard-hit communities.

That there will be more epidemics in a foregone conclusion. We cannot relax our efforts at this moment just because the future looks bright. The enemy is still with us, and will be with us for years to come. Your 1953 March of Dimes Campaign must be based on a practical evaluation of today's problem, rather than our hopes for future success. The fight against polio has reached a critical stage — perhaps a turning point. We must be equal to our responsibilities, ready to exploit the advantage which we have gained and for which we have labored so long. The 1953 March of Dimes must solidify those gains. It must be our greatest effort.
