GIVE DEATH A HOLIDAY

Let's give death a holiday on our streets and highways December 15. That is the date selected as "S-D Day" (Safe Driving Day) by President Eisenhower's Action Committee for Traffic Safety. Ordinarily, we could expect between 80 and 100 deaths to occur that day, but the President's committee and the other participating groups believe that a nationwide effort can cut the toll considerably. You, as a driver or as a pedestrian, are being asked to cooperate. As a pedestrian, you can help by looking both ways before entering the street, crossing only at crosswalks, obeying all traffic signals and being alert at all times. As a driver, you can help by following these Ten Commandments of Safe Driving which have been recommended by the Central Auto Safety Committee of the Kemper insurance group, the oldest organization in the nation devoted exclusively to traffic safety: 1. Always drive as if other motorists or pedestrians are going to do something foolish. II. Obey all speed limits and traffic signs. III. Signal for all turns, stops and lane changes. IV. Drive in and turn from the proper lane. V. Observe passing regulations and no passing zones. VI. Yield the right-of-way to pedestrians and observe mid-block crosswalks. VII. Stop when approaching a standing school bus. VIII. Use extra caution at all railroad crossings. IX. Do not drive after drinking. X. Treat others on the road as courteously as you would have them treat you. Your cooperation will help give death a holiday December 15. It will help prove that the observances of safety practices can make every day an S-D Day—and it may save your life, too.

PROGRESS REPORT

Various factors determine just how good the standards of medical care are in any nation. One is the number of doctors in practice, and the quality and extent of the facilities for educating physicians. In this, the United States is exceedingly fortunate. A report made by the American Medical Association tells the story. The record graduation of 6,861 doctors during 1953-54 brought the nation's physician population to approximately 220,100. This means there is a doctor for every 730 persons in the country—and that too is a new high record. Moreover, the situation is destined to become still better. Present enrollment in the medical schools is 28,277—the greatest in history. As for the schools themselves, more than $76,000,000 was spent in the 1953-54 year for new facilities, and for remodeling or completion of buildings for medical instruction. Their budgets total over $143,000,000 for 1954-55. And 10 new four-year schools are scheduled to go into operation within the next five or six years. An interesting and important commentary on medical education is found in the fact that 21,328 physicians taught without pay during the last school year, in addition to the regular full-time faculty members. The doctors, obviously, are vitally interested in giving us both more medical care and better medical care.

JOYFUL INTERLUDE

That interlude which precedes Christmas is a merry season indeed. It is the most loved and enjoyed of the year, for, among other good things, it lasts so long and makes one feel so joyous. We mark Christmas Day itself with the solemn thoughts and the religious observances appropriate to its deep significance as the birthday of Our Saviour, Founder of Christianity. But in the days and weeks which come before—in the fun and excitement, the bright anticipation and the joyous preparation which lead to the happy culmination of the opening of the presents—there is the goodwill and merriment of a season which, unfortunately, "comes but once a year."
