Probably future historians writing about this era in U. S. life will devote some length to what may be called the Hoover story. He will probably be epitomized as first victim of the massive unseem campaign that has now become so much a part of American political life. By the time Great Depression struck, both Hoover and the country had been developed to point where a mass smear was possible. C. W. Haeder. This was a fact well recognized by professional political propagandists of that time, with result price of eggs, lack of jobs, and everything connected with depression were presented as deliberate machinations of then president, Herbert Hoover, for some ulterior motives never explained. A degree of reason has since prevailed and there still exists among politicians to take a stand on any measure endorsed by the ex-president. True, he is applauded on public appearances, but few Congressmen get up and say flatly "I have thoroughly read the reports of the Hoover Commission and am in full accord with their findings." The smear lingers on. For example, the recently adjourned Congress still continued to vote billions for new foreign aid, despite the fact that special task force of Hoover Commission found in well documented investigation money is thrown away. Report found since end of World War II until mid-1954, U. S. taxpayers had been wrong out of $46,874,000,000 to give away to foreign nations. National Federation of Independent Business. And report found many evidences of colossal waste. For example, it found U. S. taxes to tune of $2,500,000 were spent to increase production of an Italian coal mine in Sardinia. This grant was made in 1950 to increase production from a million tons to 2 million tons by October, 1953. Yet by latest date increase only amounted to a scant 32,701 tons. In addition, it was found large part of equipment sent over was unusable in the mine and has been warehoused for years. Also, mine is located in completely stronghold so in event of trouble, sabotage could be expected. Also 854 page survey takes issue with Washington stand way to defeat communism is to improve living standards. Report states "Communism, for example, is stronger in the high wage industrial centers of Italy." Report also states U. S. is paying for so many widely scattered projects throughout the world that "no one knows" number now in progress. Thus future historians may well point to this as an era when billions were continually thrown down drain despite lack of knowledge where billions had gone, plus positive proof that many billions that could be accounted for were foolishly spent. At same time, they will point out that because these matters were brought to light under the name of a great American politician, historians may well say that this marked end of the Age of Reason in America and start of the Age of the Big Smear.

Deaths RAYMOND EATMON MOUNT OLIVE Raymond Eatmon, 12-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Eatmon of Route 2, Mount Olive died Tuesday morning in a clinic here. Surviving in addition to his parents are his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Dixon of Grifton and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. T. P. Eatmon of Route 2, Mount Olive. Graveside services were held from the Brock family cemetery near the home Wednesday at 3 p. m. with the Rev. U. A. McManus officiating. JULIUS J. ANDREWS Julius Jasper Andrews, 78, died Friday at 7:45 a. m., at the home of his son, J. C. Andrews in the Cedar Fork community. Funeral services were held from the home Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Stephen Slaughter, assisted by Mrs. T. P. Ellis, Free Will Baptist minister of Fountain. Burial was in the Bryan Cemetery near the home. He is survived by one son, J. C. Andrews of the home; three grand children and one brother, J. G. Andrews. ARTHUR G. COOK Arthur G. Cook, Warsaw mechanic died unexpectedly Tuesday night in Sampson Memorial Hospital at Clinton after a few days illness. Funeral services were conducted from the Warsaw Baptist Church Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. Herbert N. Baker, pastor. Burial followed in the cemetery at Clinton. He is survived by his wife, the former Jodi Boyke and one daughter, Dianne Cook of the home three brothers, Emmitt Cook of Clinton, H. C. Cook of Mt. Olive and Hubert Cook of Sacramento, Cal. Three sisters, Miss Emma Cook of Clinton and Miss Gladys Cook of Raleigh, Mrs. S. H. Britt of Wilmington and several nieces and nephews. an additional $8,708. The tax laws treat people who are married or have dependants less harshly. But our single person would need a nominal prize of $107,000 to have and keep $32,000, and a nominal prize running to $48,711 to have and keep $64,000.

$64,000 Question SENT IN BY THOMPSON The television program, "The $64,000 Question," the most popular screen today, has attracted audiences estimated as large as 55,000,000. It has also brought to the notice of listeners, and most emphatically to the attention of participants, the heavy cut Uncle Sam demands from the winners of successful people. Since the program was launched, four months, four persons have successfully doubled their money up to the $32,000 mark answering questions on such varied topics as the Bible, opera, food, and baseball. Reaching $32,000 three of the contestants dropped out. It took the raw courage of a United States marine Captain Richard McCutchen, to attempt the $64,000 question. Excusing his imprudence, he explained: "I belong to a very proud organization." The participants have had a lot of good free advice. Hundreds of listeners from all over the country have written or telegraphed warnings that $64,000 is not, as it might seem to be, double $32,000 but only about half again as much. The rules of the income tax supersede the laws of arithmetic. To a single person with a $4,000 income from other sources, a winning of $32,000 gets assessed an additional federal tax of $15,400 leaving $16,600 as the actual prize. An extra $32,000 winning would get assessed a tax of $23,282, increasing the prize by no more than $8,708. Thus he is risking an assured $16,600 for a chance to win

This Farmer Is Just Starting At Age 67 While many farmers may be thinking of easing up from farming at the age of 67, Garfield Adams of Hamlet is just starting. Richmond County Negro Agent S. N. Shelton says that Adams, Negro landowner, spent 30 years as a fireman for the Seaboard Railroad. Now that he has retired from that job, he's undertaking the task of rebuilding and improving his 40-acre tract of land between Hamlet and Rockingham. Although his "quota" crops include only 1.3 acres of tobacco and three acres of cotton, Adams sees a challenge in all those idle acres. He's excited over the prospects of turning some of this acreage into improved varieties of wheat and oats. He already has five acres of corn. And he believes that he can step up the yields of his cotton and tobacco — especially with the new varieties of tobacco available. The "retired" man says "farming offers a great deal of personal satisfaction and after many years with the Seaboard Railroad, operating a farm is a real challenge.
