

Bradham Brothers Would Now Know It Doesn't Pay To Fight With The Law; But Do They? Their Cases Are Appealed

William and David Bradham and Ellis Cottle are out of jail under bonds for attending Patrolman J. S. Briley at Chinquapin last week. According to reports Briley, accompanied by Constable Bob White of Wallace, took chase of the Bradham car on the Chinquapin-Beaufort highway and followed it into a service station in Chinquapin. The Bradham car attempted to leave the service station, hitting the patrol car. Briley arrested the driver, William Cottle, and as he was attempting to handcuff him Cottle attacked Briley, White, standing by, crowned Cottle with a black jack and aided Briley in handcuffing Bradham. The three were carried to jail.

Duplin Law Enforcement Officers Have Big Weekend - Bootleggers And Thefts

Duplin County law enforcement officers were plagued over the week end with bootleggers and thefts, one of which required the use of blood-hounds. It looked like a Fourth of July celebration Friday night at the Ward's Bridge home of Mattie Blue when a crowd of party-goers attempted to get rid of the evidence during a surprise whiskey raid. Officers said one-half gallon of non-tax-paid whiskey was thrown into a heater when they raided the Blue home. Flames not only enveloped the heater but abetted through the chimney and into the night air. An unidentified woman had her hair singed in the panic which followed.

Turkey Supper

Our apologies to the Methodists. Last week we reported they were to give a chicken supper in the local school lunch room on Friday evening, February 10th. We were in error. The supper is to be Friday evening February 17th and they will serve turkey instead of chicken. We made reference to the "Methodist chicken" but believe they do as good a job on turkeys as chickens. So we'll call this an old fashioned "Methodist Turkey" supper. Let's all go out and gobble up the turkeys and do our part towards the building program. Tickets are now on sale.
