IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America.

IT WORKS TODAY—

AFTER A TEST OF 181 YEARS

Today we celebrate the 181st anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The decision to declare America "Free and Independent" began at the grass roots level with the individual who felt a need for improvement in the conditions which existed at the time. From that beginning it was merely a matter of the people getting together and taking action. That cooperative action, taken by the citizens of America in 1776, is responsible for the freedoms and benefits we enjoy today.

People in Finer Carolina towns are keeping alive today the spirit which moved the colonists to action. Individuals discover a need and, through cooperative effort, do something about that need. This acceptance of responsibility and willingness to perform a service to one's fellow man is what keeps the Declaration of Independence alive and working.

Join with your Finer Carolina Committee and help build a Finer Carolina in a Finer America.
