Special Regulations Regarding Mixed-Up Tobacco Are Handed Down

The following telegram has been received by the Duplin County ASC office relative to the mixed-up tobacco seed which farmers in this area planted by mistake or misrepresentation this year.

Approval of special arrangements for handling certain stock of flue-cured tobacco received under the price support program when the tobacco contains not more than one-third of "limited support" varieties was announced today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The special arrangement announced today will have the effect of aiding those growers who inadvertently produced tobacco of mixed plantings containing a limited percentage of these three "limited support" varieties. Under the plan such tobacco will be handled by the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation as a separate "pool" under a supplement to its price support contract with the commodity credit corporation. Price support will be extended on this tobacco at the previously announced rates—30 percent of the rates for tobacco of other varieties.

However, the tobacco will be packed and offered for sale separately from other tobacco received by the stabilization corporation under the price support program. The special pool of this mixed planted tobacco will be sold as soon as practicable after the close of the season.

Any net gains resulting from such sale, after payment of the original price support advances plus actual packing and handling cost, will be distributed by the Stabilization Corporation to the individual growers who consigned tobacco to the pool. It is expected that this special pool arrangement will permit an early distribution to growers. Ordinarily distribution of net gains is not made until after disposition of all of the tobacco of any crop year. In making the announcement of the special plan, department officials explained that mixed planted tobacco containing limited percentage of the "discount varieties" should have a relatively higher value than crops consisting largely or entirely of these varieties. The special plan which has been authorized for handling this kind of mixed planted tobacco will permit its sale more advantageously since it will be concentrated and offered in packed form.

Notice

Relocation of a section of high-voltage power lines will necessitate a power interruption Sunday morning in part of Duplin County, according to L. A. Pearce, Local Manager for Carolina Power and Light Company.

Pearce explained that early morning was chosen as the time a power interruption is least likely to cause customers inconvenience.

The interruption will permit linemen to make repairs on the main lines; and crews will take advantage of the outage. Pearce added to perform maintenance work that would be dangerous with the lines energized.

Power will be off between 5:00 and 7:00 A.M., Sunday, August 4, 1957. The area to be affected includes Warsaw, Bowden, Turkey, Magnolia, Kenansville, Beulaville, Chinquapin, Rose Hill and Charity.

Renewed Capital Theatre Here Comes To Life For

Tree Seedling Applications Available Now At County Agents Office Here

Farmers who are planning to set out pine or cedar seedlings in the fall are urged to place their orders now with the State Forester.

Order blanks are now available at the County Agents office, in Kenansville.

"Last planting season, many landowners failed to get tree seedlings because they did not order them early enough," says Walt Keller, Forestry Extension Specialist.

Prices of all seedlings are increased this year 25 per cent above last year from State Nurseries.

Although ordering must be early for those wishing to set out trees this year, delivery will probably not begin until around the first of November.

The State's four nurseries' preliminary survey reveals that 75,000,000 seedlings will be available in 1957. However, this does not allow for possible destruction of seedlings because of insects, disease and storms.

Once an order blank is secured from the County Agent, farmers must mail them immediately to F. H. Claridge, State Forester, Box 2719, Raleigh, N. C.

More Entertainment To Visitors To Our County Seat

Duplin's County Seat town is reopening its theatre. Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Humphrey of Richlands have leased the Capital Theatre.

They have faith in Kenansville and Duplin County and to begin with, will operate the cool theatre on the week ends. You will find their program for August 9, 10 and 11 in an ad on the inside. Also on two pages on the inside, you will find ads from almost every business in Kenansville welcoming the Humphreys.

Kenansville is going all out in its effort to provide wholesome recreation for everyone.

Mr. Humphrey has a family connection with the Z. W. Frazzelle family in Kenansville. He has had many years of theatre experience, having operated theatres in Richlands, Jacksonville and South Carolina.

It is hoped this venture proves a success and the Duplin people will understand that Kenansville is doing its best to offer the people something to come to town for.

French I.F.Y.E. Student On Visit In Duplin

Francioli Grenier De Monner, I.F.Y.E. student of Bourges, France, arrived in Duplin last Saturday, where he will live on various farms in the county. On these farms he will join in the activity of farm life and observe the various methods of farming and harvesting.

Frank, as we will call him, comes from a 750 acre grain and cattle farm. He is a high school graduate and has attended two years of law school. When asked what he was most interested in he was quick to answer, the white turkeys. He stated that he wanted to learn all about our farm machinery, livestock and grain.

We were not surprised to learn that tobacco is grown in France, but found it interesting that they have a tobacco control, in that the growers are controlled on the number of stalks they can set out. No stalk can have more than 10 leaves and if the stalks bear more than the designated amount, the farmer is prohibited from growing tobacco for two years.

It was also interesting to learn that sugar beets are another money crop. These are graded and sold according to the sugar content and not by the quantity. Beets are grown in 30000 to 42000 plants per acre and are harvested by hand. Wheat and barley are also grown on Frank's father's farm.

Arriving in America five weeks ago, Frank made the trip by air, from Paris, and made stops in Boston, New York and Washington. He spent one week in Washington and arrived in Raleigh, where he attended 4-H Club Week and two weeks in 4-H Camp.

His visit to the United States is sponsored by the National 4-H Club Foundation and the U. S. Agriculture Extension Service. The International Farm Youth Exchange is to promote international good will throughout the world. There are 51 countries participating including the U. S. Those countries are: Africa, Asia, Europe, Latin America, The Pacific and Middle East.

In 1956, 125 I.F.Y.E. students of the U. S. visited other countries of the world with 181 visiting the U. S. from various countries.

Since the I.F.Y.E. program began in 1948, eight hundred and forty delegates have visited this country. They spend approximately 6 months here.

Frank's first visit is in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edd Korngay.

Saluda, N. C. — Helping the tuberculosis victim regain and maintain his health will be the focus of an institute on problems in tuberculosis control to be held here July 28-31 on the Southern Pediatric Seminar Grounds.

Sponsored by eight North Carolina agencies, eighty tuberculosis control workers representing official and voluntary agencies in six southern states and the District of Columbia have registered for the institute.

EDITORIAL Wake-up Kenansville

By J. R. Grady

Bells do not a heaven make, walls do not a prison make, Honest, daring men will make a prosperous community.

The following story was received by the Duplin Times from the Employment Security Commission in Raleigh, dated July 29, 1957 signed by Roy Brantley:

Raleigh — A study completed by the E. S. C. estimates that in Duplin County there are some 2500 workers available for new or expanding industry.

The bi-monthly survey covers not only workers actively seeking employment, but groups not now in the labor market.

Included among those persons who would become job seekers should more job opportunities exist are: housewives, workers now commuting to other areas, young people recently completing school, older workers and handicapped workers who could qualify for a number of jobs in industrial plants.

After reading the above statement and looking at our county seat town, and looking at the possibilities, we wonder why no small industry has come to Kenansville. Only recently I rode through the towns of Woodland and Rich Square, no larger in population count than Kenansville, and saw two nice industries, that employ several hundred people. Ride down the main street in Kenansville and you see an uncompleted building that would be ideal for a small industry that would employ some of the 2500 unemployed in Duplin and give Kenansville an attractive payroll. I feel that Kenansville has failed in its business men not taking advantage of their opportunities. I criticize no one, each person has his own reason for deciding as he does, but look about us at what southeastern North Carolina's other communities are doing. We can do it in Kenansville, if we only make up our minds.

You Better Pay Your Taxes

By J. R. Grady

I want to commend Duplin County's two attorneys, Russell J. Lanier, of Beulaville; and Kenneth W. Turner, of Rose Hill; for their efforts in collecting unpaid taxes.

I am saying this because I have not paid my taxes on two lots in Kenansville for 1946. I am afraid I am in the same boat with a lot of people who just simply postpone paying.

And in so doing, we run up penalty and interest. I am paying mine today (Monday) because they told me if I did not pay it by August 15, my property would be advertised for sale at the Court House door.

This seems to bear out the fact that when a large majority of our people know they are going to be advertised for back taxes, they will come through and pay.

The Duplin Times has contended for years that if Duplin like many other counties in North Carolina, would publish the delinquent tax list each year it would be cheaper on the tax payer and less work on the office personnel.

Last week a prominent man in Duplin County approached us on this same subject. We believe it would be well worth while for our County Commissioners to give some serious thought to this suggestion.

Son Of Duplin County Honored In Kinston

Charlie Herring, a son of Duplin, on July 29 was honored over Radio Station W.F.K.C. when Charlie McCullers delivered a eulogy to him. Charlie is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Herring of Glisson Township. The following is the story honoring Mr. Herring.

KINSTON — Charles Jack Herring is a name synonymous with the tobacco industry all over Eastern North Carolina and particularly in Kinston where a large portion of tobacco sold on the Kinston market is auctioned off on the floor of Kinston's Star Warehouse owned and operated by Charlie Herring.

Charlie has been an expert in the production and sale of tobacco since he was a lad of 12 years and worked as a grader in the tobacco pack house on his Daddy's farm in his native county of Duplin. Charlie was reared and educated in Glisson Township, Duplin County, and spent his boyhood days down near Goshen Swamp and N. E. River in the B. F. Grady section of Duplin.

Charlie resides here in Kinston at 1211 W. Vernon Avenue with his lovely wife, the former Della Britt from Newton Grove in Johnson County. Charlie and Della Herring have four fine sons who bid fair to inherit their father's tendencies to succeed in the tobacco warehousing business. His eldest son, Charles, Jr., is 22 years old and is engaged to marry the charming Miss Rachel Barber of Moss Hill on August 9. Their other three sons are Leroy 20; Jimmy, 18; and Dortsch, 16 years old. Charlie first entered the warehousing business in Whiteville more than 20 years ago and since that time has operated tobacco auction houses in Georgia and Virginia as well as Clarkton and Kinston. He is now proprietor and manager of the Star Warehouse here in Kinston and has been a big factor in the growth and development of Kinston's tobacco market for the past 10 years. In fact, his Star Warehouse, with its 127,000 sq. ft. was a major factor in the growth of our market from fourth place in the Bright Leaf Belt 6 years ago to 2nd place today. The Star Warehouse can accommodate more than a quarter million pounds of tobacco every day during the selling season, and this house alone has exceeded 10,000,000 lbs. in one year.

As we said, Charlie Herring is also interested in two tobacco warehouses in Metter, Georgia in addition to his present local interests. Following his attendance from school and his childhood experience in growing and selling tobacco, he was a speculator for some 4 years before entering the warehousing business on his own. Charlie Herring says he chose his job as a kid was grading in preparation for shipment to market and during this time he gained a keen desire to operate his own warehouse. His reasons for moving to Kinston from Whiteville in 1947 are many, but his foremost reason was because of his faith in Kinston as the best tobacco market anywhere and the many fine farmers with whom he was already acquainted during his years of selling tobacco on the Kinston market before operating the Star Warehouse as owner and manager.

The Charlie Herrings are staunch members of Kinston's Queen Street Methodist Church where Charlie serves on the official board. He is also a member of both the Elks and Moose Lodge, a 32nd Degree Mason, and is Vice-President of the Kinston Shrine Club and is slated to be elevated to the presidency in the next few weeks.

Charlie Herring's tobacco interests just about consume all of his time, yet he likes to engage in golfing occasionally at the Country Club course and occasional weekends of boating and fishing at his cottage on Atlantic Beach where he also owns commercial properties.

Charlie Herring is very complimentary about his adopted home town and in addition to being affectionately attached to his lovely home is now engaged in building a new home for his eldest son and his wife to be after August 9.

Charlie Herring, as we said, is a leader in the tobacco auction business, and on behalf of the Kinston Chamber of Commerce it is a great privilege to spotlight him and honor him as our KINSTONIAN FOR TODAY.
