Meredith Students Have Say In Their Support Of Recent Action By Baptists

Immediate reaction by the 647 member student body at Meredith College to the recent rulings of the N C State Baptist Convention was expressed in an enthusiastic and dignified student convocation at which two letters were formulated. By unanimous action the students assented their president, Miss Inez Kendrick, write a letter to President Campbell; and also by unanimous action they gave consent to a personal letter which she, as their president, wished to send to all the State newspapers. The letters are appended; both were signed, Inez Kendrick, President of the Student Government Association, Meredith College.

(1) We, the Student Body of Meredith College would like to express our deep appreciation of and confidence in our President and our Board of Trustees for their wisdom, courage, and understanding.

and (2), 'Dear Editor, I came to college to learn. I came to Meredith because I knew that there I and families at the church beginning at 6 o'clock on December 11. Mrs. Thel Overman of Raleigh, district secretary of youth work will speak. There were 10 members present.

would receive a Christian education which involves the academic, the social, and the spiritual realms of learning. I have been at Meredith for almost four years. I have visited other schools. I have talked with students from all sections of the country concerning the attitudes and the conditions to which they have been exposed and I have realized that my college background is unique, for I have attended a school which has achieved a rare combination. Meredith demonstrates and teaches the basic principles of Christian Living and still attempts to prepare us by these principles to make our decisions in our world, and our age. We must face the problems of our age before we can begin to contribute to our world. It is time the majority of North Carolina Baptists faced these problems with us.
