

The Christian Viewpoint

Freedom and control are basic cornerstones of a free society. Unless a man can control his movements he cannot be free. Unless a football team obeys the signals called by the quarterback, it cannot win any games. When people live and work together there must be some kind of control or else chaos results. On the other hand, too much control destroys freedom. If a man's nerves freeze up on him his body will not function. Stammering and stuttering are really due to tightness of the muscles which control speech. Our forefathers believed George II was choking their development by drastic laws and regulations and so they said, "Give me liberty or give me death." Our objection to Communism is that all life is regimented and the commissars dictate to people.

All of us need to obey these laws and regulations which are necessary to our common life together. All of us need freedom to live happy and effective lives. There is where the problem comes. Who shall decide what laws and regulations are necessary and which are excessive. The answer for a Christian is that he shall obey all laws. At the same time he should earnestly try to change, in a proper way, all unwise or unjust regulations. We as Christians should never be rebels, but we should be promoters of good government.

Paul said, "Let every soul be in subjection to the higher powers; for there is no power but of God; and the powers that be are ordained of God. Therefore he that resisteth the power, withstandeth the ordinance of God; and they that withstand shall receive to themselves judgement. For rulers are not a terror to the good work, but to the evil. And wouldst thou have no fear of the power? do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise from the same; for he is a minister of God to thee for good." (Romans 13:1-4).

Knelling will keep you in good standing.

The highest reward for man's toil is not what he gets for it, but what he becomes by it.

— John Ruskin.

One of the hardest secrets for a man to keep is his opinion of himself.

An inferiority complex could be a blessing if the right people had it.
