James Kenan Resumes Basketball Activity Fri. Night

The James Kenan High School basketball team will resume activity Friday night of this week after enjoying several days of Christmas vacation. Coach Bill Helton's teams are host to the strong Class AA Wallace - Rose Hill Bulldogs. The undefeated James Kenan girls with a 3-0 record stopped the Wallace - Rose Hill girls early this season in a thrilling game played down in Rose Hill. The boys of Coach Helton lost a close contest to the Class AA Bulldogs early as they split the doubleheader. The game will be played in Kenansville and should be one of the best in this section this year.

Down in the B. F. Grady gymnasium, Coach Larry Stewart's forces will play their first County Conference game Friday night against the Rebels of North Duplin. North Duplin has played only one conference game losing a doubleheader to the strong Beulaville Panthers. B. F. Grady boys will go into the game with an over all record of 10-1 and one lost all non-conference games. The girls have come along very fast for Coach Stewart in their last five starts winning all five of them, after losing the first two games of the season. So look out for a ready thriller when the east meet the north.

Coach Jack Carr's Chinquapin teams will really have to step up their tempo as they are host to the strong Panthers of Beulaville this coming Friday night. This will be the second conference game for both schools. Coach Carr's boys and girls lost a real heart breaker to the fast moving James Kenan clubs. I can assure you of one thing and that being Coach Carr would give just about anything to have their star of last year back. In the name of Myrna Lanier, Myrna as you know set all kinds of records as she led the Chinquapin girls last year to the championship. The Chinquapin boys and girls have the same won and lost over all record with four wins and five lost. The Beulaville boys and girls are on that trail to the championship and you can rest assure that somebody where along the line somebody will be waiting.

Dr. Willis Returns To Kenansville Begins Practice January 1

Dr. Robert F. Willis is returning to Kenansville to practice medicine. He will re-open his office on Thursday, January 1, in the same office that he occupied before leaving Kenansville. Willis practiced in Kenansville in 1952 highly recommended for 5 years before leaving last December, and for the past year has practiced in West Virginia and Hope Mills.

Dr. Willis came to Kenansville following a year of internship in the Charleston West Virginia General Hospital. He chose rural general practice instead of a specialized line because he is a country man himself and has dedicated his life to the improvement of health and protection of the rural people. He had five years of successful practice in Duplin County. Thinking other fields looked greener, he decided to try them out. But according to Willis "He is very happy to get back home again."

For the first time a quality index has been developed for flue-cured tobacco varieties.

Meredith Students Return Jan. 5

The Meredith College Christmas holiday season, which opened Dec. 20, will close with the resumption of classes on Monday, Jan. 5, at 8:30 a. m.

First semester exams are scheduled for Jan. 24-30. Spring term registration will be held on Monday, Feb. 2, with classes beginning the following morning.

Prominent Wallace Citizen Passes

Funeral services were held on Christmas Day at 3:00 at the Rockfish Presbyterian Church for William Marshall Carr, prominent retired Duplin County farmer and businessman, who died after a long illness late Tuesday afternoon at his home near Wallace.

Mr. Carr was 80 years of age, he was born on May 22, 1878, the son of the late Jacob Carr of Wallace and Catherine Carr of Kenansville. He was a life-long resident of Duplin County and was married to Attie Boreaux of Burgaw who died about 12 years ago. They had 12 children, 10 of whom survive now.

He was a life-long member and officer of the Rockfish Presbyterian Church and was active in church work as long as his health permitted. Mr. Carr was forced to retire from active business several years ago because of failing eyesight.

He is survived by four daughters: Mrs. Pearl Blanchard of Rt. 1, Wallace; Mrs. Ralph Carlton of Wallace, and Mrs. Brantley Hawes and Mrs. Robert B. Lickson, both of Rose Hill; six sons, William J. Carr of Wallace, Currie T. Carr of Watna, and Marshall Carr, Julian A. Carr, Manley A. Carr, and Gibson S. Carr, all of Wallace; two brothers, the Rev. Eugene B. Carr and Snyder H. Carr, both of Route 1, Wallace; 31 grand-children and 32 great grandchildren.

Active pallbearers were six of his grandsons, Gibson Carr, Jr., Kenneth Blanchard, and Harry Carlton all of Wallace; George Hawes and George Robert Dickson both of Rose Hill and Marshall Carr, Jr., of Wilson.

Honorary pallbearers were officers of Rockfish Church and Dr. John D. Robinson of Wallace.

Quiet Christmas

The Sheriff's Office reports a fairly quiet holiday season, in spite of the fact that the jail is loaded to capacity. To date 13 less people have been jailed than in the month of November. However, most of the charges are for minor offenses as bad checks, selling whiskey and various other charges.

No shootings were reported during the Christmas holidays, and there was no murder in Duplin.

On Tuesday of this week Bob Powell and Snyder Grady, constables of Duplin found a still with one barrel of mash near Wallace. This was a small still and had just started operating.

The Sheriff's office commented that business seemed to be picking up now, but hoped that the New Year's holidays would not be too strenuous.

Premeasurement Begins Jan. 2

The Sign-up for 1959 Premeasurement will begin on January 2, 1959 and close on February 15, 1959. This service will be offered in 1959 for all allotment crops if requested by the farm operator. This service will not be available on an acreage to be planted under the marketing quota provisions which permit the harvesting of one acre of peanuts or 15 acres of wheat on a farm, or when an acreage of wheat will be planted in connection with a feed wheat agreement. The cost for premeasurement will be $3.00 plus $1.00 per acre, with a minimum of $9.00 per farm. The county office will furnish stakes for this premeasurement.

Lab Technician Joins Duplin General Staff

Gene Harrison of Kinston has joined the staff of Duplin General Hospital as Assistant Laboratory Technician.

Harrison comes to Duplin General well recommended. He is a graduate of Jones Central High School at Trenton and attended Lenoir College. He recently graduated from Dell School of Medical Technology at Asheville and this is his first job.

Harrison is single and is rooming in the home of Mrs. John A. Gavin in Kenansville.

INDUSTRIES GIVE BOOST TO CP&L AREA ECONOMY

ter Fabrics are evidence of continued prosperity in the area, Stewart added.

The largest single industrial project for the CP&L service area was the announced $12 million nuclear research center to be developed by a North Carolina corporation, Industrial Testing Reactors, Inc. near Wadesboro.

"It is significant," Stewart said, "that two new plants which are the first of their kind in North Carolina chose sites in the CP&L service area. They are the Laurens Glass Works to manufacture glass containers at Henderson and Inghram Company to manufacture electronic timing devices at Laurinburg."

Stewart cited continued growth of the poultry industry in both states. Three new processing plants, to cost an estimated $36,000, were announced in 1958. Hatcheries and feed mills to serve the industry accounted for an additional $1 million in plant expenditures.

Not included in the year's $66 million industrial growth figure is the Air Force plan for a $10 million S. A. G. E. base at Calypso in North Carolina.

Major expansions by existing industries such as B. B. Walker Shoes, Keartott Company, Sarco-Lowell, American Enka, Pacific Mills, Coble Dairies, McCanall

Needs Of Homeless Children

By Sarah Lee Casewick with Duplin County Department of Public Welfare.

The home is usually the place where children feel a sense of love and belonging. In a home with mature parents, children gain strength and confidence to meet the responsibilities of daily living because it is through their home and parents that they receive guidance to meet their responsibilities.

Our homeless children do not have these advantages and their young lives are void of so many of the things which produce a well-adjusted adult. Homeless children have physical and emotional needs and the satisfaction of these needs are necessary for the children to develop into worthwhile adult citizens.

A home is certainly a need of homeless children but it has to be more than a physical structure to meet the real needs of children. Many of our children have access to makeshift home but it is not sufficient to call a home, so the children are classified as homeless. Parents are physically important to homeless children because through them, the children are supplied with shelter, food, schooling, medical care and other physical needs.

Parents are most important to homeless children from an emotional standpoint. Good parents are the one real need of our homeless children and as they do not have parents of their own who can supply their physical and emotional needs, it is necessary for substitute or foster parents to be found for them. Our homeless children have been wholly and partially deprived of the emotional needs which contribute to good mental health. As our children without homes which they deserve, it is our responsibility to make every effort to make-up for this lack.

Homeless children need to believe that they are loved and wanted and that someone cares what happens to them. They need to know that they are accepted just as they are and that they are liked at the time and not only when they act good. All children who have no real home need to feel that someone will protect and keep them safe from harm. Someone needs to let homeless children know that they have confidence in them and believe in their ability to do worthwhile things. Homeless children need guidance in learning how to behave toward people and things around them and that there are limits to what they are permitted to do in relationship with these people and things.

There must be people in Duplin County who are willing to open their homes and their hearts to our homeless children and make an effort to supply them with the security which they so desperately need.
