Duplin County Allocated $104,000 For Road Paving During 1959-60

Duplin County, North Carolina's third largest county, has received but $104,000 from the State Highway Commission this year for the purpose of grading and surfacing highways.

The money will be used to grade and surface 0.3 miles in priority 1 (The Hill Street Extension) and 2.0 miles to finance the Baltic Road project (priority number 2).

F. W. McGowan, County Auditor, said the figure as released by the Highway Commission of $249,700 is incorrect and that the County records show that the Highway Commission had informed the County, and the figure is contained in the County Board of Commissioners' minutes, that the County's appropriation is $104,000.

The difference between the $104,000 being received this year and the $249,700 which the State Highway Commission reports is money needed for projects completed by the State over previous years.

Some of the projects which are to be completed were for as far back as 1957. Three of the previous projects will probably be completed in the spring of 1960.

McGowan points out that the reason these projects have not been completed in some instances is because of the excessive rainfall during periods when paving could be done.

Duplin will receive $47,750 for road improvement work. This work, however, is not leading to ward paving but rather just to put the roads in more passable condition.

According to the State Highway Commission report, Duplin will receive $335,049.00 for roadway maintenance; $17,689.51, the balance or overrun previous years roadway maintenance allocation; $50,000.00 for bridge maintenance; and $21,078.39, the balance or overrun from the previous year's bridge maintenance allocation. This totals $423,817.44.

Two Goldsboro Men Charged With Beating Woman

Two Goldsboro men are in Duplin County Jail in lieu of heavy bonds set as a result of a beating which they are alleged to have committed against Mrs. Eva James, of the Meadows section, near Warsaw.

William Kornegay is under $5,000 bond and Wilbert Glisson is under $2,000 bond according to Sheriff Ralph Miller.

State Highway Patrolmen Raymond Evans and E. W. Merritt arrested the two men after an hour-long search in Duplin County by Patrolmen and sheriff's officers.

Merritt and Evans had remained in Goldsboro while other Patrolmen searched for them on the highways. Evans said he spotted a car bearing the license plate of the car described to Patrolmen as being the get-away car. The car was parked in front of Glisson's home on Slocumb Street, in Goldsboro.

The James woman received several deep and painful wounds from the attack which occurred at her Country store.

Stock Split Approved

The stockholders of Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company at a special meeting held in the company's offices on Friday, October 23, approved a split of the company's capital stock. The split of the company's stock on a five for one basis was recommended by the Board of Directors of the company at its regular quarterly meeting held on September 11, 1959.

The effect of the stock split is to reduce the par value of the present common capital stock from $100 per share to $20 per share.

In presenting the recommendation of the Board of Directors President H. Dail Holderness said the proposal to split the stock was made in order to secure a wider distribution of its capital stock and added that no increase in the dividend rate was planned because of the change in the par value of the stock. He advised the stockholders that a petition had been filed with the North Carolina Utilities Commission covering the proposed change in the par value of the company's stock and an order has been issued by that agency authorizing the change.

Four additional shares will be issued for each share held by existing stockholders on October 30 and the par value of the old shares outstanding will be reduced from $100 per share to $20 per share. It is expected that the additional shares will be issued in late November or early December 1959.

David Kilpatrick Learns Fescue Is Profitable In Tobacco Programs

By Paul Barwick

David J. Kilpatrick, of near Kenansville, was persuaded two years ago to begin a two-year tobacco-fescue rotation program in order to build up his tobacco land and put more organic matter into the soil.

He has been searching for a way to make his land production more profitable than it was to put it in corn following tobacco.

This year was the first year he has planted tobacco following the two years of fescue, but he is completely sold on the method and plans to use in the future in his tobacco program. In addition to this, his neighbors have seen the results and have already begun this year a fescue - tobacco two-year rotation program.

The results, even in an adverse for tobacco production, are astounding.

Kilpatrick seeded six acres of his tobacco land in fescue two years ago. For that time, he grazed the land with pure bred Herefords. This grazing of beef returns more money per acre than did the corn plant-d behind tobacco in previous years.

This year, Kilpatrick planted tobacco on the six acres. It was a job to get the fescue cut under, but once it was turned under, the fescue on the land for the two previous years did not hamper the tobacco cultivation.

The results of the tobacco crop in 1959, which was a bad year for comparison with previous production, is astounding. Kilpatrick, on the six acres of tobacco behind fescue, had a total yield of 16,518 pounds. This represents a yield of 2,753 pounds per acre. The tobacco sold for a total of $10,985, according to ASC records. This is an average of 66 cents per pound. The land which Kilpatrick had measured out for 6 acres was officially measured by the ASC as 5.92 acres.

Kilpatrick has a total tobacco allotment of 12.08 On the remainder of his crop this year, on the same type land, but on having fescue for the two previous years, his average yield per acre was 1,919 pounds. The average price per acre was about the same, 66 cents per pound.

"The tobacco following the fescue would have done better," Kilpatrick said, "if we had had normal seasons during the growing season. I'm pleased with the results and I will now use the fescue on all my tobacco land in the two-year rotation program."

George A. Penney, Duplin Soil Conservationist, who has worked closely with Kilpatrick on the fescue - tobacco rotation program, said that such a program allows a farmer to graze the land while building it up and then turning under the fescue to put good organic matter into the soil in order that the fertilizer will have a good element onto which to attach itself.

The fescue - tobacco two-year rotation program is definitely on the increase in Duplin County - mainly because it has been proven a good practice by good farmers.
