County Burials-Out

"We are frequently asked to help in the burial of some relative," says Mrs. Taylor of the Duplin County Welfare Department. "Most times it is for a coffin, but some few times the family feels that it cannot provide anything, so come to us for help. There has been a recent change" Mrs. Taylor continued, "and now if a family is not financially able to make arrangements the funeral home is to call the State Board of Anatomy requesting that the board make plans for the body."

Mrs. Taylor suggested that each family begin to plan to obtain insurance that will take care of the burial of any indigent relatives.

We quote from the North Carolina General Statute "G. S. 90-12 provides that public officials and undertakers having possession of a dead body having possession of a dead body must immediately notify the State Board of Anatomy. If the Board requests it, the body is to be delivered to the Board for distribution to the medical schools of the state. All expenses are to be borne by the medical school receiving the body (G. S. 90-205)."

"Thus the only bodies which may be buried at county expense are those the State Board of Anatomy refuse to take and only rarely will the Board refuse a body. Counties should therefore be sure that the Board has been notified and has refused the body, before spending county funds for burial."

Ray Rowe of Beulaville, who has served this district many times in both House and Senate, announced this week that he will forego his race for Congress in the interest of area unity and that he will support Dave Henderson, of Duplin for the seat being vacated by the retirement of Congressman Barden.

In making his decision not to run, Rowe stated that "Congressman Barden had had the Congressional seat for almost a half century and it's time for the western part of the district to provide a winning candidate. He believes the young able and popular Dave Henderson from nearby Duplin County is a candidate most of the population can agree upon and heartily support."

"In making my rounds of the district," Rowe said, "I found Duplin's Judge Dave Henderson to be the candidate most folks hoped we could get behind to win. After talking to Dave, and his many friends, I'm convinced this young man of 39 years has had sufficient training and experience to make us a fine Congressman - young enough to develop seniority in Congress which is so important to usefulness in Washington."
