Revelle Named To Succeed Boone

By Sheriff Ralph Miller
In the recent death of Chief Deputy Norwood Boone, I have been faced with the responsibility of appointing a man to succeed him. Boone knew law enforcement as well as any man with whom I have ever been associated and to replace him is a gigantic task. However, the office of Sheriff of Duplin County poses certain duties and obligations which must be fulfilled. For the past few days I have been swamped with requests to appoint this man or that man. I have tried to weigh the qualifications of each applicant in an endeavor to appoint the best qualified person. With all the applications I have received, each has his qualifications, but there is only one vacancy and I can make only one appointment. In considering applicants and in making an appointment I have tried to do what I thought was best for the people of Duplin County. Therefore, I have elevated T. E. Revelle to the position of Chief Deputy Sheriff, the vacancy created by the death of Boone. He has been a deputy for several years and is well qualified for the place. Also, I have appointed Snyder Dempsey as a Deputy Sheriff. Dempsey has a worth of experience in Law Enforcement and it is my firm belief that he will fulfill the duties of the office to which he has been appointed. I trust that the people will give him their loyal and continued support in his new duties.

Grain Storage On The Farm To Be Talked March 16, At Meeting In Kenansville

A meeting to discuss Grain Storage will be held in Kenansville on March 16, in the agriculture building. The meeting will start at 7:30 p. m. Agricultural leaders point out that Duplin County produced 4,500,000 bushels of corn and over 500,000 bushels of small grain and soybeans in 1959. About 2,750,000 bushels of corn was sold at harvest time when corn was selling for about $1.00 per bushel. Corn is bringing about $1.30 per bushel now, which means that Duplin County farmers lost about $825,000 by selling grain early. Everett Nichols, Jr., Extension Grain Marketing Specialist; Ed Coats, Extension Agricultural Engineering Specialist, and other State College and State ASC officials will be on hand to discuss the grain storage aspects of farming. Some of the points to be discussed are: Advantages and profits from grain storage, loans for bins and dryers and support price, insect control in stored grain, metal storage bins and drying and how to use dryers. The increase in livestock and poultry in Duplin County has created a great demand for grain. This is one of the major factors involved in encouraging farmers to store their grain on the farm. All grain producers in the County are urged to make a special effort to attend the March 16, meeting, in Kenansville.

$900,000 More Farm Income Could Be Had By Duplin Farmers, Planting Cotton

Duplin County cotton farmers can increase their gross cotton income $900,000 per year by planting all their cotton allotment and producing two bales of cotton per acre. That estimate of increased income comes from Vernon H. Reynolds, Duplin County Farm Agent; and Rufus Elks, Jr., Duplin ASC office manager. In an effort to promote cotton production in Duplin, a special meeting of all cotton producers in the County has been called for Tuesday, March 15, 7:30 p. m. in the Court House courtroom, in Kenansville. A concerted drive is being made throughout North Carolina to have all of the available cotton acreage planted this year. Farmers who do not plan to plant, are being encouraged to release the acreage to the ASC committee in order that the cotton can be planted. Under existing laws those farmers who planted cotton on their farm (to which the cotton is allotted) in 1958, can release the cotton this year and not be penalized. The law states that at least 75 per cent of the cotton acreage on any one farm must be planted on that farm at least one year in three. At the meeting on March 15, Frederic H. Heidelberg, Executive vice president of the N. C. Cotton Promotion Association, Dr. E. H. Collins, in charge, Extension Agronomy at N. C. State College, and P. H. Slade, Assistant Marketing Quota Chief, State ASC office will be on hand to discuss the cotton program and the advantages which will be realized by farmers who plant their cotton acreage.

EDITORIAL The Reason For This Farm Edition Is To Encourage Better Farm Management

This is the Duplin Times' Farm Edition for 1960. The farm copy has been edited by Paul A. Barwick, Editor of the Weekly Gazette and Associate of the Duplin Times, who is also associated with the Farmers Association and is past-president of the Association. A great deal of thought, time and effort have been given to this Farm Edition, which has a theme of "Better Farm Management . . . for Bigger Farm Profits." The reason this theme has been selected this year is because of the "squeeze" which farmers find themselves in so far as prices received for their products and the cost of materials for producing food and fiber for the United States. Last year was not a good year for farmers. A major factor was adverse weather conditions coupled with lower prices received and the higher cost of materials. Because of this, The Duplin Times feels that farmers must begin the 1960 farm season realizing that cost of operation must be kept at as low level as possible, that more thought must be given to farm expenditures, and more attention must be given to quality production. It is his newspaper opinion that through "Better Farm Management" farmers can in 1960 realize "bigger farm profits".

In order for farmers to stay in the business, it is our opinion that farm management must receive more attention throughout the decade of the 60's. It is not just for a selected few, but for every single farmer who wants to remain on the farm. The Duplin Times wishes to express its deepest appreciation for the cooperation which has been given in making this Farm Edition possible. The Gazette especially wish to thank the Agricultural News Service at State College for their assistance. Special articles have been prepared by many individuals and agencies. The advertisers who have made this Farm Edition possible join with the Duplin Times in encouraging Better Farm Management. It is our hope that you, the readers and farmers, will read every single page contained in his Farm Edition. It contains much valuable information. So, as we begin another year of farming, it is the hope of the Duplin Times that for farmers this year, it will truly be a "more profitable year of farming, through Better Farm Management."

BEAUFORT WINS DISTRICT II PLAYOFFS

The Beaufort Sea Dogs, defending state champions, defeated a very fine Midway team last Saturday night in the huge Kenansville gymnasium 56-36. The game was much better than the score indicates as the Midway Raiders went out front twice during the contest, once 23-22 in the first half and again in the third period 23-21. But as the saying goes
