Uncle Pete From Chittlin Switch

Dear Mr. Editor:
 I see by the papers where some big General in the Pentagon has reached the retirement age and is leaving the Army to head a large corporation in New York. I've been suspicious all along that the time was coming when big business would have to get Generals and Admirals to run it.

Being on the firing line from Washington and all them Government tax agencies, it's gitting so's a business has got to have a man who knows how to handle barrages and tank attacks from the Capitol. The stockholders has been surrounded for 20 year by troops from the various bureaus in Washington, and the stockholders in deciding they need a field marshal that knows how to fetch up mobile units, air cover and such things to ward off the attacks all along the front. I predict that by 1970 ever big business concern in the country will be headed by a graduate of West Point or Annapolis.

For the last six or eight presidential campaigns the politicians on both sides has been advocating a policy to "prime the pump" and get more benefits for the voters. The fellers at the country store Saturday night was commenting that they ain't heard this slogan a single time during this campaign. Ed Doolittle allowed as how it was on account of them priming the pump so much they has washed the pump away. Clem Webster said that since the pump was gone, them Congressmen has started priming the people. But ole Isaac Confodder, who always sees a little good in ever-erthing, figured things could be worse. He says he's mighty grateful to them folks in Washington for allowing him to unbutton his shirt afore they take it off'n him.

See where city folks is still complaining about the price of boxes in the post office going up 50 per cent. We're still getting our mail delivered free out here in the country. How long it'll keep up, I don't know. But any day now I'm looking for Uncle Pete to put a fee on our rural mail delivery. That's when I take down my box and quit reading all them Government pamphlets and propaganda they send out from them agencies. On second thought, Mister Editor, I don't believe they'll hit us rural folks with this fee. It would do away with their channel for propaganda and take a heap of folks off'n the public payroll.

I got to close now and go see the finance company. My old lady is on the warpath this morning. Claims she ain't got the proper vocabulary to drive that run-down and beat-up car "another day." When a feller's old lady starts talking like that, Mister Editor, he'd better see somebody at once.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Pete

BIBLE FACTS OF INTEREST

BY: ELLA V. PRIDGEN

Last week's column left St. Paul a prisoner in his own hired house in Rome, preaching and teaching unhindered. Paul's heart was always aflame to tell to others the message of Our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, he knew how the Christians were being persecuted, and he wanted to save as many as he could reach, so they would carry the message to others.

It is generally believed that Paul was executed by command of the emperor Nero, probably in the year 64 A. D. Note, Acts 28th Chapter and the last verse does not tell as to the outcome, and stops with the report of his living in his own hired house. From this period of Roman imprisonment are to be dated the letter to the Colossians, to Philemon to the Philippians and perhaps to the Ephesians. Colossians and Ephesians.

The Epistles to the Colossians and the Ephesians are much alike, so much so that some scholars believe that Colossians was written by Paul and Ephesians by some one later in imitation. In the absence of evidence, the Pauline authorship is still a real possibility.

You and I sometimes write almost the same thing to different per-

I couldn't find the waterfalls. I remember clearly just where it was forty years ago when we boys and girls went there on hay rides. We would drive the mules across the bridge and pull the wagon off to the right of the road. We would carry the picnic supper down the path through the woods. It was only about a hundred steps from the road to the falls. We would swim in the pool at the foot of the falls. Sometimes we would crawl up under the falls, where tradition says Hershob Robinson hid from the British soldiers during the Revolutionary War. But yesterday I couldn't find the waterfalls.

I'd preached that morning in the old home church and was driving by on the way to Montreal. Just thought I'd pull off after I crossed the bridge and go down to the falls and sit and think a few minutes. The woods were there, but no path. And there wasn't any waterfalls. I rambled all around. I listened for the sound of the water. Finally I went back to the road and crossed to a new house to ask how I could find the waterfall. Nobody was at home. So I had to figure it out for myself. They had moved the road and built a new bridge. If I wanted to find the falls I'd have to go back and find the old road and follow it to the old bridge. The falls would or even next? The time to find out about the social security benefits payable to you and your dependents is now!

Be sure you get all the social security checks to which you are entitled. Speed up the receipt of your social security benefits by knowing your rights and being prepared when you apply for your monthly payments. Inquire 2 or 3 months before you retire.

At the time you file for benefits you should bring with you:

- (1) Your social security account number card.
- (2) Proof of your age. A birth or baptismal certificate is the best proof of age. However, certain other documents or records are acceptable. Your social security office will give you specific information on what types of proofs are acceptable and how they may be obtained.
- (3) A copy of Form 4-3, "Statement of Wages Paid" for the preceding year. If you are self-employed, you should furnish a copy of your last year's tax return, Form 1040 and Schedule "C" (or Schedule "E") if a self-employed farmer and proof of the social security tax payment of that year (cancelled check or a receipt).

It's important, too, that you know what you have earned in employment or self-employment in the year you apply for your payments. For example, if you should retire the end of September, 1960, and then apply for benefits in the same year, you should be prepared to give an estimate of your total earnings for 1960 (January through September).

Never delay in contacting your social security office if you do not have any of these records of proofs available - this could mean loss of benefits to you and your family.

Almost every worker attaining retirement age becomes eligible to old age insurance benefits upon his retirement. The latest amendments to the social security law, signed by the President on August 28, 1950, provides higher monthly benefits to you when you retire and increased allowable wages while drawing social security checks.

You will prevent any possible loss of payments - you will avoid delay in getting your first check - you will know exactly how social security will fit into your retirement plans - when you inquire before you retire.

THE THINGS THAT MAKE FOR PEACE

There are other bad motives for desiring a world at peace; but you can think of them without too other point. Let us look at another point. We do not hear of Jesus whispering often; but hear of the rare occasions when he did cry when he looked on his own capital city and wept over it. He saw in his mind's eye "the days... when your enemies will... surround you... and dash you to the ground" (Lk. 19:41-44). And why? "The things that make for peace are hid from your eyes." Peace does not glide down from heaven on a moonbeam. Peace has to be made and kept.

Prince of Peace

Nations neglecting these things are going down the road to war. But the most important thing remains to be said: The nation that neglects Christ is shutting itself off from peace, while the nation that is Christian is a strong force for peace. This is not just a matter of theology. It is not saying that if you believe articles one, two, etc., you will never have a war. It is saying that the nation with an increasing number of citizens whose lives are truly Christlike, who honor him and follow him, is a nation which is more and more able to lead other nations in the way of peace.

WHAT'S NEW IN BOATING

EVINRUDE BOATING FOUNDATION

By RUDY EVINS

You can save yourself a lot of time, trouble and money next spring if you take a half hour out to prepare your motor for winter storage.

Here is a list of simple procedures offered by the Evinrude Boating Foundation, that will help you protect your rig this winter.

Put your motor on a motor mount or wooden horse. Remove the hood and the spark plugs and turn the flywheel by hand several times by pulling on the "red" starter cord. This will drain out all of the excess water from the pump and cooling system.

Remove the sediment bowl and clean it. Squirt a little oil into each of the cylinders and rotate the engine a few more times. Internal parts are also protected by squirting a lubricating oil directly into the carb.

Remove the drain plug from the lower port, after the lower drain plug has been replaced, and pour out the oil. Be sure that no air pockets have formed in the gear case by pouring the oil in very slowly. Replace the screws and you're almost finished.

Put the hood back on, clean it and, while you're cleaning up, check the propeller to see that it's not cracked or bent. Store your motor in a dry place and in a vertical position. As an added measure give your starter rope a crank or two about three or four times a month. This moves the cylinders and keeps the cylinder walls well lubricated with oil.

Happy boating... and fishing, too.
