Lovely Party For Seniors

A lovely red and white color motif was carried out in both decorations and refreshments when several mothers of the graduating class of James Kenan High entertained last Friday evening at the National Guard Armory here.

Lovely white stands were filled with red and white roses and dainty flowers and greenery at the entrance of the building and red carnation, backed with white net, and boutonnières were pinned on guests upon arrival.

The room was arranged with card tables, covered with white cloths and centered with red candles, ivy, and red carnations. The room decorated throughout, carried out the red and white color motif. Attractive dolls, dressed as graduating seniors in gowns, were used in the windows with red candles and ivy.

Bingo and dancing were enjoyed during the evening and a most entertaining class prophecy, written by the class president, Mac McNeil was read by his mother, Mrs. Walter McNeil.

Guests were invited for refreshments at a lovely serving table which was covered with a white cloth centered with a graceful arrangement of white and red roses in a five-branched silver chandelier.

From one end of the table Mrs. DeWitt Lewis served red punch from a silver punch service and at the opposite end, Mrs. Paul Potter served a three tiered cake decorated in white and red. Toasted nuts and mints were served in silver serving pieces.

Hostesses who entertained the approximately fifty seniors attending were: Mesdames Paul Potter, DeWitt Lewis, Walker McNeil and Fennell Frederick.
