EDITORIAL Passage Of November 7 Bond Election Means Progress For North Carolina

Citizens of North Carolina have always been willing and able to see their potential and responsibilities when it is demanded of them.

North Carolina is on the brink of a revolution which has never before been experienced and Eastern North Carolina stands to profit most from the "already in progress" revolution.

One of the steps in the right direction is the November 7 Bond Election being placed before the people of North Carolina for their approval. It is true that $61,665,000 is a lot of money. But every bit of it will be spent in such a way that it will benefit the entire State.

Some people are against everything in the way of progress except motherhood. Some people never favor

Theodore Boykin Executed Friday

Barring a last-minute reprieve, a 31-year-old Negro farm worker was executed in the State's gas chamber at 10 a. m. Friday for rape-murder.

Gov. Sanford announced Thursday he did not plan to intervene in the case of Theodore Boykin, convicted in June of raping and killing a white woman, Mrs. Lena T. Barnes, in Duplin County last Dec. 24.

"He's resigned to his fate; he's ready to go," said Central Prison Warden K. B. Bailey. "He said he was sorry that it happened."

Bailey said the Rev. William H. R. Jackson, prison chaplain, visited Boykin's cell Thursday night and again Friday morning.

The last execution at Central Prison was on Dec. 5, 1958, when Matthew Bass, Raleigh Negro, was put to death for raping a white woman in the Occidental Insurance building in Raleigh.

Rivers D. Johnson Jr. of Warsaw, attorney for Boykin, said early last week he did not plan any further court appeal. He called on Gov. Sanford Wednesday to ask him to commute the sentence to life in prison.

The State Supreme Court recently found no error in Boykin's conviction. He was sentenced to death on both counts.

Mrs. Barnes lived alone at her farm home near Rose Hill. Her sister, Mrs. Mary Faircloth, testified she called Rose Hill Policeman Bill Quinn when Mrs. Barnes failed to show up at party at the Faircloth home.

Quinn and Deputy Sheriff Snyder Dempsey said they went to the Barnes home and found it locked. They forced their way in and found her body, half nude. In the basement, she had been shot twice.

Boykin was arrested Christmas day in Teachey. Police said a watch later identified as belonging to Mrs. Barnes was in his possession.

Ranging Hogs And Feeding Low Quality Feed Are Said Bad For Hog Production

Ralph Sasser
Assistant County Agricultural Agent

Many hogs will be gleaming waste grain in the fields this fall. Much of this feed will be moldy or damaged. This situation of hogs ranging over a greater area and consuming and unbalanced diet of poor quality feed will place more stress on the hogs and make them more susceptible to disease such as cholera, salmonellosis, swine flu and moly corn disease.

One way to reduce this disease hazard is to take as much stress off the hogs as possible. There are several practical things which farmers can do to reduce the strain on hogs gleaming the fields.

They are:
1. Make sure that all hogs have been immunized against cholera at least two weeks, if possible, prior to going into the fields with a modified live virus 20-30 ml of serum.

2. Deworm pigs with piperazine or sodium floutride. Heavily parasitized pigs are weaker and more subject to disease.

3. Provide warm, dry shelter during bad weather. Pigs need about 6 sq. feet of shelter space each.

4. Provide a balanced diet. If possible hand feed 2 1/2 pound of protein.

5. Provide a free-choice mineral mixture.

6. Keep lice and mange off hogs. Lendane or BHC is best treatment.

7. Use enough pigs to clean up feed as soon as possible. Keep close watch on pigs for any indication of disease. Hog prices are expected to start decreasing in October and reach a low in December. Plan to sell hogs as they reach market weight. Feeding hogs to heavy weights will cost more to produce and likely will sell on a weaker market.

Seeding Time Is Extended To Nov. 15 In Duplin Co.

The Duplin County ASCS Committee has voted to extend the seeding time for small grains from October 30 to November 15, according to Office Manager Rufus Elks.

Elks said the reason for the extension of the deadline is that it has been so dry that many farmers have postponed sowing.

He also said that farmers who have not signed up to participate have until November 15 to get into this year's program.

Tobacco Market Cards Due In Co. ASCS Office Now

Farmers are reminded they have 30 days after the close of the tobacco market in which to return their marketing cards to the County ASCS office.

Under the law, farmers who fail to return their tobacco marketing cards within the 30-day limit receive tobacco acreage allotment cuts the following year as a penalty.

Trial & Error

For any of you who have been like I have and have put off going to visit Tryon Palace in New Bern, don't put it off for another day. It is well worth your time. My uncle and aunt from California are visiting us, so I decided to take them down to see the restoration. We were wonderfully impressed. It is beautiful as well as remarkable to see what a marvelous restoration job has been done. I saw Miss Gertrude Carroway, a charming lady. All of you of "The Duplin Story Days" will remember what a magnificent job Miss Carroway did in helping us with our publicity. Miss Carroway came down to Kenansville and stayed for several days to write stories about the pageant. Some of the most impressive things about the Palace to me were the chandeliers, the mantels and the painted wood work which gave the impression of carved wood work a marvelous work.

Our Eastern Press Association meets this week end in Durham. Durham has planned a fine program for us. Harry Oswald of the Wallace Enterprise is president of the Eastern Press group and will preside at the meeting.

I can hardly wait for the Warsaw Veteran's Day Celebration. I wonder if everyone who was raised in Warsaw always gets excited about Veterans Day. It is strange that when I bump into some one from Warsaw who does not live there now, they always inquire about the celebration and want to know if it is still being observed. It would

Sewage Problems

Upon the recommendation of the Board of Health, the Town Board has passed a resolution calling for the citizens to cooperate with the Duplin County Board of Health on all matters regarding public health and safety.

The State Board of Health has regulations established concerning septic tank construction and maintenance and grease trap installations. In almost every case, private residences can be remedied to conform to these regulations in every way. It is true that we have need of a sewer system and the town board is working on a new regulation which was established last month that might make it possible to secure such facilities provided the citizens approve it.

Every citizen must cooperate with health officials to make our town a safe and healthy place to live. It would be embarrassing to be cited to court for violation of public health laws.

Let us prevent this happening. There is nothing the town government can do to abate these problems, as a governmental body, until a source of revenue is approved by the Local Government Commission of North Carolina and voted by the people.

Please cooperate with all authorities until other ways can be approved.

Revaluation Of Property In County Soon Completed-50% Assessment Prop.

The Southern Appraisal Company of Greensboro, N. C., who has the contract for appraisal of property in the county, is now completing the work. The revaluation is to be effective as of January 1, 1962.

As far as practicable property has been appraised at its true value in money. Sound appraisal practices and methods were used in valuing property. County assessors are completing checking property values as submitted by the appraisers.

The law provides that the assessor's body shall select and adopt some uniform percentage of the amount at which property has been appraised as the value to be used in taxing property. Municipalities in the county have recommended a 50% ratio. The percentage proposed by the governing body of the county is 50%. This 50% proposed assessment ratio is being applied to the appraised value of all property subject to assessment for taxes.

The revaluation program has equalized property valuations. Those who have had valuations on the low side will have increased values. Many whose values have been about in line in 1961 will have about the same values in 1962. Those whose values have been on the high side, due to depreciation, will get a reduction; thereby equalizing values.

Next week's news item on the revaluation will announce the date all property owners will be notified of their proposed 1962 tax assessment values.
