Western N. C. Has New Attraction

Asheville, N. C. — The little town of Ela, in western North Carolina, has a new musical pageant that has been claiming rave notices all through its summer season.

Ela is just west of Asheville in the scenic "Land of the Sky". Parks Hunt and Gaty Bookel, producers of the Fountains of Living Waters, title of the show, have gathered some of the finest young talent available from all over the United States. By ensemble and individual voice, they depict the history of America in such well loved music as "Yankee Doodle," "Wagon Wheels," "Swanee River," "Old Man River" and many other songs indigenous of the Pilgrim era, the western expansion, the War Between the States, the Gay Nine-

Crippled Children's Society Gives Grant To 2 Drs.

CHAPEL HILL — A check for $4,000 from the National Easter Seal Research Foundation has been presented to a team of medical scientists in the University of North Carolina School of Medicine who are working to relieve the problems of people crippled by diseases of the bone.

Albin Pikulis, executive director of the North Carolina Society for Crippled Children and Adults, announced today that the Society was presenting Dr. T. Franklin Williams and Dr. Mary B. Arnold with the grant in support of continued research in bone disease problems.

W. E. Thompson, treasurer of the society, presented the two doctors the check here yesterday.

The National Society has committed $16,754 in support of the next two years of a research project here which may contribute to the prevention and treatment of rickets and other disease of the bone. Previous society contributions for the study have also been made. The current amount represents a preliminary payment of a combined $9,137 which the Society is awarding the two medical scientists this year.

The project under research by Dr. Williams and Dr. Arnold is called "Studies of Calcium and Phosphorus Metabolism." The two investigators are studying the kidney mechanism for reabsorbing and excreting phosphate. They have attempted to determine if improper function in reabsorbing the salt may be responsible for certain types of rickets, other bone diseases and disorders of the parathyroid glands.

Dr. Williams is an associate professor of medicine and preventive medicine in the School of Medicine here. A native of Belmont, North Carolina, he came to UNC in 1936.

Dr. Arnold, who came to UNC in 1937, is an assistant professor of pediatrics in the School.
