Hope for the Holidays

Hospice of the Piedmont's Grief Counseling Center is hosting a Hope for the Holidays workshop on Tuesday, to help bereaved families prepare for the holidays ahead. Discussion will touch on how to manage grief, care for yourself and remember loved ones during the holidays. Hope for the Holidays finishes with an outdoor candle lighting and refreshments. School age children and teens participate in their own Kids Path program during the workshop. Babysitting for pre-school children is provided upon prior request.

The workshop runs from 6 to 8 p.m. in Hospice's community conference room at 1801 Westchester Drive in High Point. There is no fee to attend, and it is open to anyone in the community who has experienced the recent death of a loved one. Space is limited and registration is required by Nov. 5.

For more information or to register, call (336) 889-8446. If unable to attend Hope for the Holidays, download helpful tips and information about holiday grief at www.hospice-careconnection.org in the 'Materials' section.

This Week in History Nov. 7-13

Nov. 8, 1978

The State Health Planning and Development Agency, a branch of the North Carolina Department of Human Resources, announced approval of a proposal by Community General Hospital to obtain funding for the purpose of leasing a shared computer services system to be utilized within the facility.

Nov. 9, 1996

WASHINGTON - With his second-term shakeup gaining speed, President Clinton chose North Carolinian Erskine Bowles to be chief of staff. Bowles' first task was to help Clinton fill yawning holes in his staff and cabinet. A flood of high-ranking officials had left for greener pastures or had fallen victim to presidential housecleaning.

Nov. 11, 1885

Mills Home, the first campus of Baptist Children's Homes of North Carolina, opened in Thomasville.

Nov. 13, 1978

BAGHDAD, Iraq - Leftist-ruled Iraq was emerging from a decade of isolation from the West and many of its Mideast neighbors with the apparent aim of assuming a role as conciliator and leader in the Arab world. The Iraqi government, whose relations with the Soviet Union had cooled perceptibly in recent months, had given no outward sign that it wants to restore full diplomatic ties with the U.S., at least not immediately. But some knowledgeable Iraqis, speaking privately, didn't rule it out.
