E. Earl Rives Throws Hat Into Sixth District Ring

Greensboro.-E. Earle Rives, on leave of absence as judge of Municipal-County Court here after Opposes Durham completing service as an Army lieutenant colonel in the European theater, announced today that he will seek nomination in the Democratic primary this May as representative from the Sixth Congressional District.

Rives came back to the United States in November after 21 months overseas as a member of the Judge Advocate General's Bepartment. He completed his terminal leave as an army officer last month and postponed immediate return to the Greensboro bench in order to survey the political field.

Judge Rives said today that he will conduct a vigorous campaign for the congressional seat now held by Carl T. Durham of Chapel Hill.

Those interested in politics will recall that Rives announced in September of 1941 that he was planning to become a candidate in the congressional race. The war came along, however, and the judge withdrew his name and later volunteered for service with the Judge Advocate General's department of the army.

First appointed to the bench in Greensboro by the city council in 1929, Judge Rives was reappointed successively by Governors Ehringhaus, Hoey and Broughton after jurisdiction of the court was extended to include 15 of Guilford's 18 townships in 1933. On leave of absence until July 1 of this year, his present term as judge expires January 1, 1948.

The 47-year-old jurist and civic leader was born in Winston-Salem. He graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1922 and began a successful law practice in Greensboro. In November 1922, he married Miss Mary Wheaton Tankersley of Chapel Hill, and lough with his parents, Mr. and they have three children.

Judge Rives, in making formal announcement of his campaign for the seat in Congress held by Carl Arthur Wright, after receiving a Durham since 1938, said "I feel discharge. the job is an important one—a job that will give me an opportunity to be of genuine service to the people of this district and of the

Ground Hog Casts Shadow' On Spring

Six more weeks of bad weather were predicted here Saturday when the ground hog came out of his winter hole at 12 o'clock noon and saw his shadow. He immediately went back in his hole where he will stay for six more weeks while winter weather continues. In spite of the fact that the weatherman stated Saturday to be partly cloudy, the sun rose at 7:16 A. M. and sunset was at 5:42 P. M. and not a cloud appeared in the sky during the day.

In most parts of the United States, February 2 is known as Ground Hog Day, because of the old superstition that if on this day at 12 o'clock noon the ground hog or woodchuck comes out of his winter hole and sees his shadow, he will go back for six more weeks of sleep while winter weather continues.

If, however, the ground hog sees no sunshine when he comes out at noon-which was not the case Saturday-he knows that spring is just around the corner and he stretches himself for a real awakening.

Old folks in certain sections of the country say that the direction of the wind on Ground Hog Day determines the prevailing wind for the next two months. For not more than 48 hours at a time, they declare, will the wind change from what it was on February

Look out for bad weather, say others wise in weather matters, if on February 2 the prevailing wind is north or northeast.
