AUXILIARY INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS

The Presbyterian Woman's Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. L. E. Beard Monday afternoon, March 18. Reports of the year's work were given by the officers.

Outstanding work of the year was the organization of a Young Girls' Circle, the redecoration of the living room of the Manse and the donation of $207.61 to the building fund by the circles of the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Beard, retiring president, thanked the members for their cooperation during the past two years and introduced the new president, Mrs. N. G. Barbour. The new officers were installed by Mrs. S. Strudwick.

After the meeting was adjourned the members were invited into the dining room where refreshments carrying out the St. Patrick's Day motif were served.

BLALOCK-AIKEN RITES PERFORMED

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Mildred Blalock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Blalock of Timberlake to Eugene Edison Aiken, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Aiken of Rougemont.

Vows were performed on March 9 at the home of Rev. Don Whitfield in West Hillsboro.

Designed for Junior Wearers

TODAY'S juniors know their fashions—and can have them too.

Proof that the important Spring trends have been adapted to junior requirements was underscored in a recent showing of such clothes by the newly-organized Junior Fashion Creators of New York, an affiliation of the New York Dress Institute. Styled for age as well as size, the fresh young fashions just launched reflect such outstanding influences as the rounded look, the bosomy long torso with a full skirt below, midriff emphasis, the skirt-and-top look, the vogue for stripes and the vogue for grey.

Pictured today is one of the outstanding suit silhouettes of the new season—the bolero—smartly adapted for the shorter figure and shorter waistline. Other important suits for juniors are the basque suit featuring the new rounded look, the peplum suit and the capelet suit.

Two main silhouettes in dresses—rounded contours with "barrel" skirts, and the slim torso look with elongated waistline—are equally represented in junior fashions. Typical of the former trend is the dressy date dress shown today, youthfully tied with a bow at the throat above a keyhole neckline.

Grey and white checked woolen makes the Junior bolero suit, above, with Kelly green stripe down the sleeves and matching midriff band on the skirt. The blouse is white crepe. Right, navy and white checked taffeta cut in waikit style for a one-piece dress with navy crepe skirt.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY MEETS TWICE

On Thursday afternoon the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Matthew's parish met at the rectory for their Lenten study group. Mrs. Thomas Dula reviewed "The Area of Contributions" of the continent of Africa as reviewed in Newell Booth's book, "The Cross over Africa."

On Monday afternoon, March 25, the Auxiliary met again at the rectory to continue their study. Mrs. Donald S. Matheson reviewed "The Area of Responsibility" to Africa.

Mrs. Robert Masterton, auxiliary president, presided, and led the devotional at each meeting. There were eight members present for each of the studies.

This year the Auxiliary is again selling Easter eggs. These eggs are decorated as ladies' wearing Easter bonnets, or as Easter rabbits. They may be secured from members of the Auxiliary at 25 cents each.

HAROLD STRAYHORN CELEBRATES FIFTH BIRTHDAY

On Tuesday afternoon, March 19, little Harold Walker Strayhorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Strayhorn, celebrated his fifth birthday with a party given at his home by his mother. When the young guests had arrived they were led in playing games by Peggy Strayhorn and Mrs. James Allred.

Following the games the children were invited to stand around the dining room table, which was centered with a large birthday cake, beautifully decorated and lighted with five tiny candles, and to sing "Happy Birthday" to Harold. The children were served ice cream and cake by Mrs. Strayhorn, assisted by Mrs. W. H. Walker, Mrs. James Allred and Mrs. L. W. Strayhorn. Opening of the gifts then took place and was enjoyed by all.

The following children were present: Jimmy Lawrence Strayhorn, Pat and Ann Clayton, Joe Crawford, Geraldine Murray, Herbert Singletary Jr., Beckie and Billie Turner, Jack Dowdy, Louise DuBose, Susie Dinmore, Laverne Thompson, Sylvia, Peggy, Carolyn, Vivian, Hilda Ann Strayhorn and the honoree Harold Strayhorn.

Partner To The Medical Profession In Caring For Your Health . . .

In the never-ending battle against sickness and disease the Pharmacist is a trustworthy, efficient, responsible and practical professional member of your community.

Trustworthy because to become a Pharmacist in North Carolina you must, since 1936, be a graduate of a four-year School of Pharmacy, spend one year internship under a Licensed Pharmacist, and pass the North Carolina Board of Pharmacy examinations.

Efficient because the Pharmacist has in his prescription department, or within quick accessibility, the multitude of drugs which might be needed.

Responsible because the laws of North Carolina place the blame on the Pharmacist for an over-dose of a potent drug even if the Pharmacist fills the prescription as written.

Practical because the drug store is conveniently located and is open an average of 12 hours a day at least six days a week.

Know your Pharmacist better. He is an important man in your community. He will always perform a high professional service in improving the health of North Carolinians.
