People, Spots In The News

HARTING A HEAT WAVE—Olga Bogach, Boston poster girl, checks her body heat with a new electronic device for recording room temperature in various sections of a hospital, but sensitive enough to react to the touch of a hand. This display model was shown by Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co.

AMERICAN SCENE—Nonchalantly Jean Smedley of Philadelphia bubbles her gum while taking a shot during the national marble tournament at Wildwood, N.J., and her adversary, cowboy-booted-and-hatted Walter Gowan of Havre, Montana, is almost afraid to look.

TEARING HERRING is more than a figure of speech in Holland, as this typical street scene in The Hague shows. Herring-vending carts are as commonplace there, and as well patronized, as hot-dog stands in the U.S.A.

AAA Is Authorized To Take Orders Again

A. K. McAdams, secretary of the county AAA office, was authorized by G. T. Scott, state AAA director, Monday to resume ordering contract lime and issuing purchase orders for other materials and services.

A telegram from Scott to McAdams said:

"House action yesterday reduced Senate appropriation bill to 228 million dollars plus 37 million carryover which provides 265 million dollars for 1947 program including 22 million for administrative expenses. You are authorized immediately to resume ordering contract lime and issuing purchase orders for other materials and services. G. T. Scott."

McAdams said this meant that 18,082 was now available for materials for the farmers in the county. These materials include lime, phosphate, mixed fertilizers and all kinds of pasture seed.

On May 23, when it became apparent that the future of the program in Orange county and other farming areas in the United States was in danger of being stopped by the refusal of the Congress to appropriate the necessary funds, McAdams, on word from the state office, ceased taking orders for the materials.

$29,000 ALREADY TAKEN
Prior to that date a total of $29,000 in orders for the materials had been taken, most of which has already been delivered. Orange county received an allocation of $47,772 for materials at the start of the year.

McAdams said Monday that several carloads of super phosphate were expected to arrive in the county in the near future. He urged all the farmers interested in securing some of the material to place their orders in the county AAA office.

W. B. Coleman, Hillsboro: "They sold him a ticket, so he was entitled to the car."

Health Nurse Urges Shots For Children

Miss Elizabeth Robertson, nurse in charge of the Hillsboro office of the district health department, this week issued a reminder to parents of children entering school for the first time in September to make certain they are vaccinated.

Following is the announcement from Miss Robertson:

Even though this is the season for enjoying vacations, we must not forget that school will be opening early in September. I would like to remind all the parents who have children entering school for the first time to get their immunizations completed before they go to school.

The North Carolina state law requires that every child have protection against whooping cough, smallpox and diphtheria before he enters school.

The diphtheria vaccine is given in two doses a month apart. The whooping cough vaccine is given in four doses a week apart. In case a child has had neither of the two above (whooping cough or diphtheria), there is a vaccine which can be given combined for whooping cough and diphtheria in three doses—the second dose is given a week after the first and the third dose a month later.

In the case of the children who have had all their immunizations from their private physician, it is important for them to take a complete record to their teacher when entering school.

Please try to attend to this matter before the opening of school. For anyone who wishes to come to the Health Department office in Hillsboro for immunizations, the hours are:

Friday p. m.—1:00 to 4:30.

Saturday a. m.—9:00 to 12:00.

Execution of the six-months road sentence was ordered imposed by Judge L. J. Phipps within the next two years on order of the prosecuting attorney should Barrett violate any laws or consume any liquid containing more than one per cent alcohol.

Barrett was charged with entering the house and room of Ethel White on the night of July 11 and cutting her and her bed. He testified on the witness stand that he did not remember the deed. He said the first thing he remembered was being behind bars in the Orange county jail in Hillsboro.

Falling Tree Kills Cow Near Calvander

Carrboro—Electric linemen, cutting a tree at Calvander near the home of Mrs. Nellie Hutchens, accidentally killed Mrs. Hutchens' fine milch cow last week.

The tree in falling must have killed the cow instantly, for the men working did not hear the cow or know that she was nearby. Neither did Mrs. Hutchens realize that the cow was dead until she went out to do the night's milking.

After calling in vain for the cow, Mrs. Hutchens went on a search and found her. Her legs and neck were broken and her horns broken off.

No one at any time, according to the reports, heard any sound to indicate the cow was hurt or in pain.

The reports further stated that the electric company would pay Mrs. Hutchens the value of the cow.

John Brown of the Walnut Grove community, according to Don S. Matheson, county farm agent, is among the first in the county to get a barn cured out.

He attributes his early start to his success in controlling blue mold on his plants.

NEW BARN

In making plans for curing out this year's crop, farmers in all sections of the county have installed more new types of heating systems than at any time since the war, Matheson said.

Alvin Hawkins of the Walnut Grove community has recently completed one of the most fire-proof barns possible. This 20' x 22' barn has concrete sidewalks six feet high. The remainder is frame with aluminum sheeting. The barn is fitted with an automatic coal stoker and will hold 1,100 sticks of tied tobacco. Ample sheds are provided on three sides for work space.

In the same community a number of other coal stokers are being installed.

Josh Parker is installing four and John Hawkins and Weldon Berry are putting in one each. A large number of oil burners have also been installed in all parts of the county.

CROP PREDICTIONS

As curing started in all parts of the county, the federal state crop reporting service in the State Department of Agriculture estimated in releasing its first production forecast of the 1947 crop that the flue-cured tobacco in North Carolina would decline 47,985,000 pounds from its all-time record production of 1946 when 912,970,000 pounds of tobacco was produced. The drop in the number of pounds of production represents a decrease of five per cent.

This forecast, of course, is based upon conditions as of July 1 and is subject to change each month until the crop is sold, depending, naturally, upon weather conditions and the development of the crop.

The late, dry spring, the report points out, caused delay in getting the crop to the fields and most fields show an uneven growth. The crop, however, the report continues, has made much progress in recent weeks.
