Board Decides To Condemn Site

Hillsboro — The Board of Education has decided to institute condemnation proceedings if necessary to obtain the Roulhac property in Hillsboro for an elementary school site.

The secretary of the board was instructed at Monday's session to advise W. S. Roulhac of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., owner of the site at the Northern end of Churton Street, of this decision in a final effort "to see if he would agree to sell under such circumstances." The property, long known as the Ruffin property from its former owner, the distinguished jurist, Judge Thomas Ruffin, was selected last Fall as the most suitable site for the proposed new elementary school. A proposition to purchase it was submitted to Roulhac but the latter has ignored all correspondence relative to the matter. The site was selected as most suitable for the purpose by a special committee appointed by the school board and was approved by both local and district school committees.

1,000-Person Goal Set For Teen-Age Benefit Supper

Chapel Hill — Over 1,000 persons is the attendance goal set by Mrs. George Shepard for the Teen-Age Club benefit box supper to be held in the University Tin Can next Thursday night, March 15.

Mrs. Shepard, acting as chairman of the affair for the recently organized Chapel Hill parents' teen-age advisory committee, pointed out this will bring a profit of at least $500 to the Club, and make it possible to erase the current year's deficit of over $300. "With these added funds," she said, "We should be able to continue the girls' Teen-Age Club, and expand the organization into a town-wide teen-age program for boys as well."

Tickets are now on sale at both adults and children's prices ($1.50 and $1.00) in all stores holding membership in the Chapel Hill Merchants Association which is acting as a co-sponsor for the fund-raising picnic. Several civic clubs here and in Carrboro have voted to forego their regular supper meeting in order to attend the affair as a body.

A full program of entertainment has been planned to follow the supper with Roy Armstrong, University Director of Admissions, to act as master of ceremonies. Following these events a square dance is to be held, with music by Eddie Norwood's local string band.

Entertainment numbers, including a skit by the Teen-Agers Club, will be presented by talented townspeople and University faculty members. This schedule has not yet been completed, Mrs. Shepard said.

As added enticements five or six merchants have consented to give valuable prizes -- of merchandise values around $50 each -- to luck ticket holders. Desserts of pies and cakes prepared by Chapel Hill housewives will be packed in with the half of a fried chicken in each box supper.

MINSTREL PROGRAM

Baptist Survey Finds 16,699 Potential Members For Sunday Schools Of Area

Hillsboro — The results of a survey concluded last week by the Mt. Zion Baptist Association, reveals that there are 7,631 persons attending Sunday Schools of the 22 churches in the Association, with a total resident membership of 6,358.

The Association comprising Baptist Churches in Alamance, Orange, and Chatham, in its Sunday School Enlargement Campaign, learned that there are possibilities of a total of 16,699 members in the areas served by the churches.

The campaign was conducted by L. L. Morgan State Sunday School Leader, and Rev. John Lambert, Association Missionary. Special workers were brought to the area by the State Convention to assist in the campaign. It was also learned that approximately 9,068 prospects for church membership. Rev. Lambert stated that the data compiled will be turned over to the churches concerned for an intensive campaign to follow for increased Sunday School enrollment.

During the week special Sunday School study courses were held with an average attendance of 875.

Churches participating in the campaign included City Lake, Fairview, Graham, First in Hillsboro, West in Hillsboro, Haw River, Mars Hill, First in Mebane, Moore's Chapel at Saxapahaw, Mt. Adair at Mebane, Mt. Carmel at Chapel Hill, Swapsontonville, Cane Creek at Hillsboro, Bethel of Carrboro, Brookwood, First of Burlington, Glenhope, Grove Park, Hocutt Memorial, Southside, Calvary, and Carrboro.

Officials described "natural indifference" and "bullheadedness" as some of the reasons for the failure of many dog owners to get the vaccinations, and the Sheriff promised an intensive effort to enforce the law in cooperation with the Health Department's rabies inspectors, who are the county's veterinarians. It was agreed among the conferees that it might be necessary to make "an example of a few people" in order to get the cooperation of dog owners in every community.

Dr. O. D. Garvin, health officer, said that "rabies were reported in practically every month of last year" and the worst spots were in the Southern part of the county. In Glen Lennox 13 people were taking the anti-rabic treatment at one time, he said, but residents in all parts of the county have been affected at various times.

The costs of the vaccination at the county-sponsored clinics to be conducted in April at convenient locations and at various times during the month is $1 per animal but credit for $1 is later given the owner in the payment of his dog taxes, making the cost for a male dog nothing since tax on a male dog is $1. Tax on a female dog is $2. Funds derived from dog taxes are used to pay claims for damages incurred by citizens from dogs in the county and any excess annually goes into the agriculture fund. Payments for damages in the fiscal year 1949-50 was listed at $143.

Legal Whiskey In Orange Must Be For Own Use-Phipps

Hillsboro — If you've been transporting whiskey in Orange County for your friends even though you did not exceed the legal limit allowed you, you have been violating the law.

Or, so ruled Judge L. J. Phipps in Recorder's Court this week when he fined Numa Riggsbee, Carrboro man, $10 and costs for delivering a pint to another Carrboro man who the evidence showed had given him the cost of the bottle two days previously. The Judge's ruling held that the whiskey could be brought into a dry county from a wet county only if it was for use by the purchaser, and his bona fide guests, in his own home.

In another case involving a Carrboro man and whiskey, Sam Maynor proved himself not guilty on a public drunkenness charge when Judge Phipps decided the defendant could qualify as an "expert" witness as to his own drunkenness. Maynor declared he was not drunk but was having "stomach spasms." The police, he said, would not believe his story and locked him up for two days in the Chapel Hill jail.

Other cases were as follows: Foy R. Pendergraph, driving while drunk, $100 and costs, two days in jail and loss of driver's license; Leroy Collins, reckless driving and no driver's license, $25 and costs; Arthur Thompson, failure to bury dead animals, 60 days in jail suspended, $50 and costs; Eddie D. Laws, reckless driving and speeding over 75 miles per hour, 60 days on the road suspended, $75 and costs, loss of driver's license; James R. Burch, reckless driving and speeding over 75 miles per hour, 60 days on the roads suspended, $75 and costs, loss of driver's license; June Cates, assault with a deadly weapon, 60 days on the roads suspended, and costs; Robert Gates, drunken driving, requests jury trial, transferred to Superior court; Joe Kite, public drunkenness, costs; Clinton Thompson, speeding, $10 and costs; Dr. John R. Bender, speeding, $10 and costs; Frank Stutts, public drunkenness, costs; Everette E. Carter, speeding, $15 and costs; Charles M. Kirkpatrick, speeding, $20 and costs; William H. Scott, illegal possession and transporting whiskey, $10 and costs; William Charles Mercer, called and failed, capias ordered; James Alston, pleas nolo contendere to disposing of mortgaged property, costs and $27.25 for W. H. Senter; Louis Atwater, assault on a female, not guilty; James Lewis May, failure to stop for stop sign, costs; Carnell Hester, failure to make support payments, capias ordered issued.
