John Rice Is Held For Murder Of Girl

A scuffle with a .22 rifle resulted in instant death for Bertha Bynum, 22-year-old Negro resident of the Knolls development, early Saturday.

Her boy friend, 23-year-old John Rice, who lived close by, has been charged with murder and was to be given a preliminary hearing in the County Recorder's Court in Hillsboro next Monday. He told Police Sgt. Coy E. Durham that the gun went off accidentally after he grabbed it away from her when she tried to hit him on the head with it. A single bullet through her heart killed her, according to doctors at Memorial Hospital.

Funeral services are to be held tomorrow afternoon at Hamlet's

Chapel Church in Chatham County. The slaying was the first to occur here in almost four years, the last one having been the unsolved bludgeon murder of Miss Rachel Crook in August, 1951.

The death occurred in her bedroom about 1:15 a.m. Saturday. Sgt. Durham said he first talked with Rice and Clarence Bynum, brother of the dead girl, at the Hospital emergency room shortly after the tragedy. He said that Rice told him "It was an accident and couldn't be helped."

His Story
Here is Rice's story as told to the police officer and investigators from the county sheriff's department: He came to the house about 4:30 p.m. Friday to see the Bynum girl, but left shortly thereafter, returning about 7:30 p.m. Several of them spent the evening drinking a quantity of "white" liquor. Shortly before the fatality Bynum walked into his girl friend's room, and she grabbed the rifle off the wall behind her.

They were scuffling with it when it went off, he said. A witness to the scene was her brother and companion of his, Nelly McCauley, was in an adjoining room.

Dogwood Acres Water System Approval Sought

Approval of the Dogwood Acres water supply by the State Utilities Commission is being sought by Kemp B. Cole, owner and developer of the suburban community.

On request of the Commission Mr. Cole has applied for a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate an official water supply system. A formal hearing on the matter will be in Raleigh on April

1. Actually the matter isn't expected to affect the Dogwood Acres water situation at all since it's already being inspected through the State Board of Health each month and will continue to be operated as it has been in the past, according to Mr. Cole.

The supply is furnished by three natural springs, each of which have a 1,000-gallon storage tank at their pumps. Mr. Cole planned to tap a fourth spring a similar matter soon. Residents of the area pay a flat month for their water which is un-metered.

Mr. Cole said he felt his water system, as he planned it for the future, will be quite adequate for the community.

Yes, indeed... biscuits go like hot cakes when you pour on plenty of delicious dark Karo... there's nothing like it for good eating. Satisfyin' flavor. So rich it stands right up on top of biscuits (keeps 'em light and fluffy). Keep Karo on your table morning, noon and night... it tops anything!
