KIDD BREWER'S Raleigh Roundup

PARISON A lot of the news around here are coming from the 1955 session of the Assembly with the one in other time when the State has desperately to balance the budget. The session, however, nothing has been accomplished—and in the legislature came back to deal with affairs in worse shape than they left town two weeks ago.

Consensus among many of the members of the 1955 Legislature is that the session—although active for five months—has accomplished something which the session must carry to completion.

New tax patterns have been established as yet no tax schedule without drastic changes to carry the State over the hump of increased educational needs.

TAX North Carolina is right up against it when legislators came back to the session in 1955 for the 1956 session set no tax pattern to carry the State over the hump.

The sales tax was established as a "temporary measure" and it is no longer temporary. It brings to the State $10 million dollars per year. Some people doubt that it ever has "enough". That is the question of what is an interesting question.

you have answered that satisfactorily to yourself, you are answering this second question: Where can we get the money with which to pay "enough"?

ANSWERED These are the questions which will be left unanswered when the present session adjourns. No commission will study our situation between now and the 1957 Legislature begins. It may well be that the General Assembly will be able to do as much for the State as did the 1953 Assembly.

ER MIST Just when you are beginning to like Silver, they put signs on my property without permission. I cannot have confidence in the product of a company which signs on private property without authorization from the owner.

I got a letter from the other day via the post at Fuquay Springs. It was something about Jack and several weeks ago, telling me we used to know him. Well, he writes as follows: "Kidd: One of the Morning fans sent me a copy of Raleigh Roundup, and I certainly appreciate the nice you wrote. Stop and have a cup of coffee with us some day in Studio 41 when you are in New York. Kindest regards, Jack."

HATHAM While we are surrounded by bouquets, we will send one flying to Chatham of Elkin, son of Chatham Thurmond Chatham, boss of the huge Chatham Mills of Elkin.

congratulate Hugh Chatham for his wide-awakeness in Ralph Howland, Raleigh initiative for the Charlotte, as public relations man at Chatham Mills. Howland is scheduled to report at Elkin around

ANTLER-HIGH TO MOOSE—Seven-year-old Caroline Tyler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. "Red" Tyler, of Chapel Hill, can easily stand under the antlers of this mighty bull moose, bagged by Dr. I. C. Clark of Mebane on a recent hunting trip in Quebec. Mrs. Bob Logan mounted the head in her taxidermy studio near Chapel Hill. It's one of the largest animals she's ever mounted. Incidentally, Mrs. Logan is believed to be the first woman in the state ever to tackle a moose head mounting job. Mrs. Logan is the wife of Orange County Game Protector Bob Logan. Roland Giduz Photo

Farmers Warned To Comply With Marketing Program

40 & 8 Nursing Scholarship Plans Made

Full plans for awarding a scholarship for an Orange County girl to attend the Watts Hospital School of Nursing in Durham were announced today by Paul H. Robertson, Chief de Gare of Orange County 40 and 8. Voiture 1266, which is establishing the scholarship program.

Preliminary announcement of the Voiture's plans were made early in March and since that time, Robertson said, a committee from the 40 and 8 has met with Watts Hospital officials to work out plans for the scholarship. The recipient will be selected and announced early this summer and will enter the September, 1955 class at the hospital.

It is planned that the scholarship, which has a total value of $375, will be awarded annually, Robertson revealed. He added that the nursing scholarship program is in line with similar programs sponsored by 40 and 8 Voitures throughout North Carolina and in many parts of the nation.

The student selected as winner of the scholarship must fulfill two primary requirements, he said. She must live in Orange County and be a graduate of one of the three high schools in the county (Chapel Hill, Hillsboro or Aycock) in the respective year in which the scholarship is awarded.

In selecting the winner, consideration will be given to scholarship, citizenship, personality, aptitude for nursing, and need for assistance, Robertson pointed out.

"The student selected will be sponsored by the 40 and 8 with all tuition and other costs for three-year nursing education, except personal expenses," Robertson explained. "There will be no repayment expected, unless the student withdraws from the school of nursing before graduation, in which event we shall expect the money invested in her to be repaid."

Senior high school students wishing to apply for the scholarship may get full information from the principal of their respective high schools, Robertson added.

In a release received here from A. P. Hassell, Jr., Acting Administrative Officer of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, ASC at State College, County ASC Office Manager A. K. McAdams has been requested, along with other County Office Managers to "use every means at their disposal to impress upon growers the need for compliance with all phases of our Marketing Quota Programs."

McAdams has been urged to give County Committees an example that can be used to illustrate the possible consequences of violation of Marketing Quota requirements.

Referring to "Production Control," Hassell's report stated, "Our production control program on tobacco, peanuts, cotton, wheat and corn are a good example of cooperation by growers. In each of these programs the growers involved, voting in a referendum, elected to be assigned quotas."

"For many years our Production Adjustment Programs have proved to be a benefit to all farmers; however, in this cooperative joining of hands, if one farmer breaks the chain, he is jeopardizing the position of his fellow farmers—the ones who DO cooperate." (See WARNING, page 5)

He said he had no information whatsoever when the vaccine might be made available to this county, but hoped it would be before school is out. The Eli Lilly company which supplied the first batch used in this county has received government approval to continue manufacture.

PRINCIPAL RESIGNS Principal Daie Davis of the Aycock High School has resigned his position there to return to the University for further training, according to an announcement by Superintendent G. Paul Carr yesterday afternoon.

41 Acres On Eno Deeded By Koon Heirs

Developments in the program to provide a more adequate water supply for the Town of Hillsboro occurred this week. Last Saturday morning town officials and representatives of the J. W. Koon estate completed negotiations for the purchase of 41 acres of land on which will be built a dam on the Eno River to provide much needed water storage facilities. Today, the town published advertisements calling for bids on the dam construction job and set June 7 as the day for their opening. Mayor Ben Johnston said every effort was being made to get the dam built as soon as possible. The 41 acres of land bordering on Eno River in the area of the old Dimocks' mill west of Eno Mill village, was purchased by the town for $4,500 following negotiations which have been underway for some time. Representing the Koon heirs here was Reid D. Koon, acting as agent for himself and eight others, residing from Puerto Rico to New York. Commissioner F. E. Joyner handled the negotiations for the town. Circulation of papers among the heirs leading to the sale required as much as six weeks to accomplish, leading to the delay in getting the final settlement. According to Attorney Paul Ranson the property was deeded to the Koons by the Dimocks in 1919. The Dimocks had obtained it in 1877. The town of Hillsboro recently voted to issue bonds in the amount of $50,000 to buy the land and build the dam. Engineer Thomas D. Rose of Chapel Hill was scheduled to meet local officials today to discuss the specifications for the dam. Previously, Mr. Rose has estimated that a dam which would store about 20,000,000 gallons of water and provide a supply of 100 days at the current rate of usage without rainfall could be built for approximately $39,000, including clearing the land, excavations and construction. Flash boards would be erected at the top of the main dam and add 50 per cent more capacity to the lake, according to Mr. Rose. Proposed to the Board was a cavity-type concrete masonry dam. Action To Break Dorsett Will Being Heard In Court This Week

Testimony began in Superior Court yesterday in an action brought by four children of the late Clay Dorsett of Efland to set aside the will in which he left the bulk of an estimated $15,000 estate to John Smith, Route 1, Efland. The action was brought by Bill Dorsett, a son, and three daughters: Mrs. Lizzie Dorsett Long, Route 2, Hillsboro; Mrs. Mae Dorsett Ward, Route 3, Thomasville; and Mrs. Janie Dorsett Teachey of Pleasant Garden. Defendants are Smith and John Efland, Jr. who was named administrator et al. The protesting children alleged that the provisions and signature were obtained through "undue and improper influence and duress." In his will, Mr. Dorsett described Smith as his "friend and constant companion." When three jurors failed to appear for Monday's session Judge William Y. Bickett, presiding, ordered capias issued to bring them in and fined them $25 each. They were C. J. Gentry, Roland McRae and T. E. Jones. It was the first time such action had been taken here in recent years. The early part of the week was consumed with divorce actions and an action brought by Addie Lillian Smith against Universal Construction Co., Chapel Hill, in which the jury ruled Mrs. Smith was injured as result of the negligence of the defendant and awarded her $5,000 damages. On Monday, divorce decrees on two years separation were awarded the following: Mable Potat Isley vs. James William Isley; Haywood T. Edwards vs. Mollie Jones Edwards; Warren H. Hall vs. Jean H. Hall; Caroline R. Mullis vs. Clyde E. Mullis; Claire Russell Easty vs. Edward D. Easty. In the Dorsett case papers filed by the children, the following was alleged: "At the time of the purported execution of the paper writing," according to the caveators, "the said Clay Dorsett by reason of old age, disease and both mental and physical weakness and infirmity, was not capable of executing a last will and testament." This will was made on April 6 this year and death came to Mr. Dorsett on June 18. In his will now being contested, Mr. Dorsett left $100 each to his four children and to John Smith, his "friend and constant companion," he left "all remaining property of ever kind and description including the farm of 200 acres, livestock, chickens, hogs, cattle, farming tools, machinery and equipment and all personal property both tangible and intangible." Mr. Dorsett, under the terms of the will, explained his bequest as follows: "I make the above disposition of the bulk of my property for the reason that for many years John Smith has worked for me with little or no pay and had it not been for his efforts in my behalf I would not now have the farm and machinery which I own, and in view of the services rendered to me by John Smith I think it right and proper that I give and devise to him the bulk of my property as partial payment of his great service to me."
