

KIDD BREWER'S Raleigh Roundup

MANDELECT... plenty of talk around to that the Board of the University of Carolina will accept Governor's resignation as president they meet here in a few weeks.

University alumni say that the Trustees will accept the Gray resignation will name a president of University of North Carolina.

consensus seems to be an acting president elected, the business of recommending a permanent will be assigned to special committee.

The Charlotte Observer reaching out and into its fold some of newspaper talent in the past two or three years has lost at least two men.

Bob Page, who has observed to go with John Tom Watkins and their North Carolina State Association. Page worked at one time for Advance in Elizabeth other papers, and has State background.

be outdone, Coleman and Ed Pickard reached Observer and made off Pitts to handle public for their Carolina Motor title of Director Affairs.

Keep an eye peeled for more sharp changes in a number of other big North Carolina dailies.

GOAL... Your memory not go back that far, but remember that our State Fair, which last year had a half million visitors, twenty years ago was not that big. That was in 1935, and it was not that big.

this year, our Fair was with those of Ohio and among the top ten in the country. If we are not mistaken, one of Kerr Scott's planks on his platform when he ran for Governor in 1936 was to make the State should take in the operation of the fair and place it on a pay-off basis.

what happened shortly after he became head of the State Department. He reached over into Shelby as manager of the Fair as a man who had to get out of practice because he became energetic to animal dust and a type of dandruff which is a part of horses, mules, and dogs. Dr. J. S. Dorton man.

ay as manager of the fair is now about $8,000. I don't know for many weeks how much the State fair deducting the expense money and all operating the Fair this year our gross income. But since Dr. Dorton took over, it has seemed to do a lot better.

aren't saying much about officials of the State Agriculture Department—now led so recently by L. Y. Ballentine there is an outside possibility that the profit may reach well that magic goal of $100,000.

men chiefly responsible for success are Seg. W. Kerr Agriculture Commissioner Ballentine, Manager J. S. and Assistant Manager Bobby Shuffner.

Scouts In Orange Gold Rush Earn $60 In Prizes

Boy Scouts of Orange District earned about $60 for themselves or their troop treasures in Saturday's second annual Gold Rush field day event.

Eighty-three Scouts participated in the all-day scoutercraft contest held near the old iron mines two miles north of town. The members of the 15 competing teams were given imitation nuggets, redeemable at $1.10 apiece, depending on their proficiency in performing assignments at each of the nine stations on the Gold Rush.

Arthur Bennett, chairman of the event for the sponsoring Kiwanis Club, presented the participating award, a large nugget trophy, to Robert L. Hawkins, Scoutmaster of the Baptist-sponsored Troop 826, for his troop's having had 83 percent of its members entered in the Rush.

The individual team prizes were awarded as follows by Mr. Bennett: First place, earning 44 out of 45 possible nuggets, team led by Mike Culbreth, Troop 39, whose team received sheath knife prizes; second place, team led by Chips Weaver, Troop 39, flashlight prizes; third place, team leader Terry Stapleton, Troop 9, small flashlight awards; and fourth place, Harvey Reinhardt, Hillsboro, team leader, waterproof match case prizes.

Falling School Ceiling Injures Carrboro Girl

An 8-year-old girl received 10 stitches in the forehead Tuesday after a portion of the ceiling fell in at the elementary school in Carrboro.

Cynthia Riggsbee was rushed to Memorial Hospital when cut by falling plaster in the 3rd grade classroom of Miss Agnes Andrews.

The accident happened about 12:30 o'clock, shortly after the children returned from lunch. Miss Andrews said she looked up and saw part of the ceiling fall.

"Run," she screamed. The children rushed from the room as a large section of the plaster suddenly gave way. Several were hit but only Cynthia suffered serious damage. Miss Andrews sustained a sprained ankle in trying to get out of the way.

She was recovering from a broken leg severed earlier and was on crutches.

The children have been moved into the library while all the plaster is removed from the ceiling and replaced with beaverboard.

Three Orange Women Arrested On Assault, Kidnapping Charges

Kidnapping and assault charges have been filed against three Orange County women in connection with the beating of an Orange Grove woman Sunday.

Dairy farmer Hugh M. Wilson Sunday swore out warrants alleging the felony and misdemeanor against Mrs. Sally (George) Atkinson and her two daughters, Mrs. Cora (Stanley) Bejester and Mrs. Alice Ince. According to information given Sheriff's Deputies Earl Bush and W. E. Clark Jr., the trio allegedly enticed Mr. Wilson's wife to leave her home by a fraudulent reason and then held her by force in their auto, taking her to the Atkinson home where they whipped her. Mrs. Wilson is now in the University Infirmary recovering from shock and minor injuries from having been beaten.

The cases were scheduled for trial in Orange County Recorder's Court at Hillsboro Monday morning.

DESPITE WORK ON SUPERHIGHWAY:

7th Division Highway Program Is Balanced

The Seventh Highway division has carried on a balanced road building program despite the huge paving program embraced in a single highway, the Highway 70-29 superhighway which extended in the district from near Guilford's wester border to Efland in Orange County.

Figures just released in a summary of the division's projects during an 18-month period ending July 1 show that around $9,000,000 was spent in construction (including engineering fees, contingencies and right of way costs.)

Chief Engineer W. H. Rogers Jr. said the Seventh's program has been a balanced one and larger than the programs of the divisions generally because of federal funds for the interstate system of highways.

Major paving contracts during the period other than the costly Highway 70 project in Orange County included these:

Roadway and structures on 2.78 miles of Calvander road $148,274.
Roadway and structures on 2.8 miles on N.C. 86-A between New Hope Church and Hillsboro, $111,480.

Maintenance crews in Division Seven have been on routine maintenance work during September and October, conditioning unpaved roads for the winter season, maintaining shoulders, and opening side ditches on paved sections for protection during the winter months, the State Highway Commission reported.

This fall, the road oil department has completed 28 miles of drag seal retreatment and 18.1 miles of mat and drag seal retreatment on roads in the Seventh. Recently, 2.52 miles of new pavement prime, mat and seal have been completed by State Highway forces.

The Sign Department has painted 270.5 miles of white lines and 206.25 miles of yellow traffic lines in the Seventh. In addition, route markers and signs have been placed on new US 29 & 70 which runs from Efland through Alamance and Guilford counties to the Thomasville bypass in Davidson County. New US 29 & 70 was officially opened to traffic October 7 from See ROADS—Page 4

Man In Jail After Motor Court Robbery

Earl Edward Thrower, 23, is being held in county jail in Hillsboro for the early Sunday morning robbery of the University Lodge Motor Court. Thrower surrendered Monday morning to Laurinburg police.

His bail has not been set, pending a preliminary hearing on a charge of highway robbery Monday.

Thrower stole $20 when he awakened night clerk Stephen Hardy, a UNC student, at 1:45 a.m. Sunday and under the guise of a prospective room occupant, he pulled a gun on the clerk, said police. The clerk handed over the money and then was forced into the vacant room, where the thief attempted to lock Hardy up. However, Hardy caught a glimpse of the thief's car heading towards Raleigh.

Hardy phoned Charles Nottingham, owner of the motel, who called the police.

Deputy Sheriff Walter Clark brought Thrower back from Laurinburg after he surrendered at 11 a.m. Monday.

Thrower used the name of James Martin of Charlotte in registering at the motel prior to pulling a gun on the clerk, said police. Hardy said he was quite scared, but that he did not realize just how scared he was until after the robbery was over. "I didn't think anything like that would ever happen to me," he said.

Thrower will probably appear for trial when Superior Court next convenes.
