

Application Deadline Is Today

School Boards Stand Firm On White Cross Area Policy

Students Must Apply To Attend In Chapel Hill

Today is the deadline for students in the White Cross school attendance area, who heretofore would have attended school in Chapel Hill, to file their applications for enrollment and deposit their tuition payment for next year.

County Superintendent G. Paul Carr yesterday emphasized that there has been no change of policy by the Boards of Education since the recent defeat of the annexation issue in that area and "warned" that pupils whose applications are not received, along with tuition deposit, by the Chapel Hill school authorities today will attend school either at Hillsboro High School or Central School in Hillsboro.

All Negro students in grades 1-12, and all white students in grades 7-12 in the White Cross attendance area heretofore have attended Chapel Hill schools. There is no Negro school in the district and the white elementary school serves grades 1 through 6 only.

Information yesterday from Chapel Hill was that applications and tuition had been received from some 15 white students who would be in grades 10 through 12, but no applications had been received from the 60 to 70 Negro students.

Prior to the election the Boards of Education issued a joint statement indicating what would happen in the event the merger election passed and in the event it failed. It failed by six votes.

"That policy now becomes not only a policy, but an obligation to be carried out," said Mr. Carr yesterday.

He said persons in the area had requested that classes be set up for the 7th and 8th grade students at White Cross and that this would be considered, but an investigation would have to be made to determine if it is legal and feasible. He said it would probably be up to the state department which assigns the teachers.

JUNIOR FOOTBALLERS

Coach Hugh Burch has issued a call for junior high football practice to begin at Hillsboro High on Monday at 4:30 p.m. at the Old Gym for 7th, 8th and 9th graders who wish to come out for the team.

THE HISTORIC NASH-HOOPER-GRAHAM HOUSE . . . IN NEW HANDS

Historic Home In New Hands

Dr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Engstrom of Cobb Terrace, Chapel Hill, have purchased one of Hillsboro's historic landmarks in one of the largest private real estate transfers in many years.

It is the well-known Nash-Hooper House on Tryon street, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Herman H. Brown since 1933. The house has been virtually unoccupied for the past few years since the Browns moved to Arizona, where Mr. Brown was sent because of his health and the necessity for dryer climate.

Dr. Engstrom is a professor of French at the University of North Carolina and has resided in Chapel Hill for many years.

Both he and Mrs. Engstrom are interested in the historic aspects of the property because of their special interest in 18th century history. They also "fell in love" with the place at first sight, however, and Mrs. Engstrom is particularly appreciative of the spacious grounds and fine shrubbery and trees on the three acre lot. They plan some modernization of the home, especially a new heating plant, and hope to move in October or November.

The Engstroms, nearing retirement, have no children, but said they need the large place to house the thousands of books in their collection. Both are collectors and wall space throughout the home will be used for books.

The old home, finished in the elegant Williamsburg manner, was built in 1768 by Isaac Edwards, secretary to Governor Tryon. It was later occupied by Colonel Francis Nash, the Revolutionary hero, William Hooper, the signer of the Declaration of Independence, in the 1780's. Still later it became the home of Governor William A. Graham, the distinguished Hillsboro native who was a Senator and Secretary of the Navy in the Confederacy. Other owners have been the E. G. Snow and C. G. Rosemond families before it was purchased by the Browns in 1933.

Papers have not yet been filed in connection with the property transfer, but the purchase price is understood to be in the area of $30,000.

X-Ray Unit To Be Here

Dr. O. David Garvin, District Health Director of Orange County, announces that the x-ray unit will be in Hillsboro all day Tuesday from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the courthouse.

All food handlers, teachers, and interested persons are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to have a chest x-ray. The unit will not be back to Hillsboro until the latter part of September and there will not be special clinics in the immediate Hillsboro area.

32 Gridders Begin Work At Hillsboro

By HARRY W. LLOYD
Thirty-two schoolboys turned out Monday as the first workouts were held for the upcoming Hillsboro High School football team. After physical examinations on Saturday, the prospective athletes set into a rigorous four-week schedule of pre-season drills.

Coaches Glenn Auman and Fred Claytor welcomed back twenty boys with experience on last year's team, which had a 5-3-1 record. One returnee was absent due to sickness.

Of the eleven footballers who graduated last June, nine were starters, thus there are nine positions waiting to be occupied by those who are capable of filling them. The only starters back from last year's eleven are right end Jimmy Ray and left halfback Walter Swainey. The first hurdle that faces the Wildcats is that of inexperience.

Two quarterbacks are in the running for the job of directing the Hillsboro T. Senior Richard Black-

A former pastor of Eno, Fairfield, and Little River Presbyterian Churches; and Siler City and Mount Vernon Springs, Presbyterian Churches, Mr. Misenheimer is present pastor of Park Avenue Presbyterian Church in Burlington. TAKES OATH, RESIGNS, THEN BACK — Henry Brandis Jr., dean of the University of North Carolina law school, Chapel Hill, has admitted in effect he made a legal mistake when he said he'd resigned from the Chapel Hill school board, shortly after being sworn in. Shortly after taking the oath of office for a six year term, Brandis walked out of the meeting when the board rejected his proposal to admit a Negro pupil to a white school. Since then he's admitted his resignation wasn't legally effective and has asked to sit with the board at an appeal hearing on the de-segregation attempt on August 31. North Carolina law, it seems, clearly indicates that a public official can resign, but without acceptance his resignation is nothing and he remains in office. Brandis, however, has said he hasn't changed his mind in the least about the case itself.

Coach Hugh Burch has issued a call for junior high football practice to begin at Hillsboro High on Monday at 4:30 p.m. at the Old Gym for 7th, 8th and 9th graders who wish to come out for the team.

Band Begins Work Monday For New Year

The Hillsboro Band begins its first full year under the direction of Bob Haas on Monday, August 24.

All past members of the band, including summer students this year, will work from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. each Monday through Saturday morning until school starts in order to prepare the band for performance at football games this year.

In outlining the band program for this year, Haas pointed out that he expects to have between 35 and 40 students in the "A" band. He mentioned that many of the members of previous Hillsboro bands have arranged to participate this year and that all high school students who participate in band will receive credits toward graduation as well as a monogram. Plans are for three classes: the "A" band (See BAND, Page 6)

Sacred Music Concert Set By Kimbroughs

This coming Sunday afternoon at 5 p.m. Rev. S. T. Kimbrough, baritone soloist and pastor of the Hillsboro Methodist Church, will join with his mother, Mrs. Dorothy Kimbrough, organist, in presenting a program of semi-classical and well known sacred music.

Rev. Kimbrough received his vocal training at the Birmingham Conservatory of Music, Birmingham, Ala., under Andrew Gainey and has studied this past year under John Hanks of the Duke Music Department. Before coming to North Carolina, Rev. Kimbrough was heard in many churches of Alabama and appeared on radio and television. Since coming to the Tarheel State, congregations in the surrounding areas have heard him in evangelistic services, and he is scheduled to give some sacred concerts in the fall.

Mrs. Kimbrough received her musical training in Mobile, Ala. where she was at one time concert pianist with the Mobile Symphony Orchestra. She has been heard in concert halls and many large churches throughout the South. While she is a superb organist and pianist, Mrs. Kimbrough is also an excellent choral conductor, having conducted many large church choirs throughout Alabama.

The Hillsboro Methodist Church cordially invites you to attend this inspiring program.

Fire Causes Heavy Damage At Carr Farm

Guernsdel Farm, five miles south of Hillsboro on Old Highway 10, owned and operated by Dr. H. C. Carr and Frank Spencer, suffered a serious loss when two of their large barns and a machinery shed burned last week.

Nineteen purebred heifers and one cow, together with several thousand bales of good alfalfa hay, went up in flames.

Mr. Spencer thinks the fire started from spontaneous combustion in some green hay. He was high in praise of the Hillsboro volunteer rural Fire Department, whose prompt action prevented the flames from spreading to several other nearby buildings.

Grounds improvements are being made at Antioch, Clover Garden, and Bethlehem Churches in White Cross.
