Magna Carta copy is now at Library

Remember the Magna Carta? That's what King John signed when they stopped his carriage (no one was riding shot gun) at the bridge at Runnymede.

A copy of that famous document, in color, now rests in the Hanes Collection in the Louis R. Wilson Library in the University of North Carolina. It is several hundreds of years old and was made by the famous English printer, John Wittaker.

It is the latest acquisition in the University Library and was given by James G. Hanes of Winston-Salem.

Ashworth, 403 Weaver St., Carrboro, recently arrived in Germany and is now a member of the 4th Armored Division. Ashworth, a truck driver in Company A of the division's 4th Quartermaster Battalion in Goppingen, entered the Army last April and completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C.
