

'A ragged performance' . . .

Gridders' line-up changes seen in walloping Chapel Hill squad for Chapel Hill-Roxboro game

By BRICK OETTINGER
Chapel Hill's battered Wildcats journey to Roxboro tomorrow night in an attempt to bounce back from last week's 27-7 setback handed them by Hillsboro. Both teams are among the conference co-leaders with identical 3-1 marks. The contest is therefore an extremely important one to both the Rockets and the Wildcats.
Roxboro is a perennial league power, having lost only on conference tilt in the past three seasons.

See Line-Up Changes
The Cullon-coached Hillians gave a ragged performance last Friday, and it is entirely possible that several changes will be made in the starting lineup. Tom Meiter might step into the fullback slot, while Wayne Yancey may see action at halfback. Tiny junior Ronnie Pendergrass probably will get an opportunity to perform some at quarterback. Vernon Davis is a probable starter at end, and there may be other changes among the linemen.

Roxboro's powerful squad has been led by halfbacks Sammy Green and Mac Morris, and quarterback Donnie Lamb.
Chapel Hill's junior high team was defeated by Northern last Thursday 4-0. This evened the baby-Wildcats record at 1-1. Next Thursday they meet Southern's junior high squad in Chapel Hill.

The old king of Orange County football won back his throne Friday night as the Hillsboro Wildcats defeated the previously unbeaten Chapel Hill eleven by 27-7. As a result of the game, these two teams and two others are tied for the District III lead with identical 3-1 records.
Big end Jimmy Ray, a near miss for all-conference honors last year and almost a sure bet this season, paced the revengeful Hillsboro crew. Ray sparked on defense, led the game in rushing, and scored thirteen points for his team.
TD on blocked punt
Hillsboro's first touchdown came early in the second period when Ray blocked Bobby Larsh's at the Chapel Hill 30 and carried over for the score. Walter Swaney converted with a run over left guard.
The Chapel Hill touchdown came after the recovery of a Hillsboro fumble just 27 yards from paydirt. Quarterback George Cannafax' passes helped to cover most of the distance to the goal. The final two yards was made by Wayne Yancey, the fullback. Larsh kicked the tying point.

Joe Barnes was the workhorse in the second touchdown drive for the winners. He accounted for 49 yards in the march before Swaney bucked over from the three. Ray ran the end-around for the point.
Ray again brightened the Hillsboro picture with a 21 yard center for a TD. Marvin Dickey added the third point after touchdown.
Intercepts pass
Later in the game Barnes intercepted a Cannafax aerial near the Hillsboro 35 and galloped back the distance for the score.
Much of the credit for the win in the mud goes to the staunch Hillsboro line, with Jim Ray, Marvin Teer, Clifford Raynor, Bliv Mishoe, Nicky Kenyon, Jack Knight, Tom Sprouse, Odas White, David Walker and Wayne Davis as the big guns. The Chapel Hill attack was led by George Cannafax, halfbacks Dave Henry and Terry Stapleton, and Fullback Wayne Yancey.

The Wildcats play the winless Red Devils from Oxford Orphanage at Oxford tonight in another transplanted game necessitated by the failure to complete lighting installation at the new Hillsboro field at Orange Speedway.

Carrboro asks to dump trash in Chapel Hill

The Town of Carrboro wants to unload its garbage in the Chapel Hill sanitary fill disposal dump. A request for this was received by the Chapel Hill aldermen and deferred for study until next month. Mayor R. B. Todd of Carrboro reported that neighbors were complaining about the town's existing dump at Smith Level Road where garbage is burned.
He said about six tons a week would need to be dumped in the Chapel Hill sanitary fill. In this disposal method garbage is unloaded in a trench and then covered with a heavy layer of dirt.
Cost of disposing of each load of garbage was estimated at a little under a dollar on the basis of the municipality's annual operating budget for this purpose.

MORE PROOF...it pays to feed PURINA

John Marks is manager at Williams Dale Farm, Wallace, N. C. The 62-cow Holstein herd is homebred. There are 440 acres on the place, producing oats, soybeans, and lespedeza hay.

Purina dry and milking rations help top Carolina dairyman produce

1500 pounds more milk per cow

First of this year, Williams Dale Farm, managed by John Marks, started feeding their 62-cow Holstein herd Purina milking rations.
Up went milk production, just as it has for other successful dairymen as cows respond to the carefully balanced quality ingredients from which Purina milking rations are built.
DHIA records indicate the herd will produce 1500 pounds more milk per cow this year, a substantial boost in milk production that's bound to result in a more profitable operation at Williams Dale Farm.
Dry cows conditioned on research-backed Purina rations freshen easily, reach full production quickly, stay up in milk late in their lactations, helping increase still further the 11,000-pound average now being produced.
