Theater integrationists told Varsity dependent on Carolina

By BILL DOVER

The Citizens Committee for Open Movies voted 72 to 40 last Friday night to continue picketing both Chapel Hill theatres.

They thus defeated a motion submitted by their executive committee to suspend picketing of the Varsity and to expand picketing of the Carolina Theater.

The Rev. Charles Jones presented the motion drawn up by the executive committee consisting of Mary Mason, John Brent and the Rev. W. R. Foushee and himself.

Proceeding the vote, the results of the negotiations with the managers of the two theatres were explained.

Jones said that materials supporting the integration of the theatres were submitted to the managers.

These materials consisted of a petition containing the names of 350 UNC faculty members, letters to the editors of The Chapel Hill Weekly and the News of Orange County, a poll of Carolina students showing 87 per cent of 1,800 contacted in favor of open theatres, a petition containing the names of 170 high school students, letters of support from churches, and letters from individuals.

The members of the executive committee reported to the group that both managers "were very nice and courteous."

However, they reported that the two managers had very different attitudes toward opening their theatres to everyone.

According to the committee, Andy Gutierrez, manager of the Varsity, was in favor of desegregating his theater. The committee quoted him as saying that "he did not have the authority to act, however, and that permission would have to come from Charlotte (chain headquarters)."

A student who reported on a recent meeting with H. F. Meiselman of Charlotte, owner of the theater chain to which the Varsity belongs, said that Meiselman told him he would not be able to follow a policy any different from the other Chapel Hill theater.

"I will not vary one inch from the decision of the management of the Carolina," Meiselman was quoted as saying.

E. Carrington Smith, manager of the Carolina theater, was not impressed by all the statements and letters presented to him, the committee spokesmen said.

According to the committee, Smith said his business was good, and that he would not change his policies.

He refused to try integrating his theater on alternate days and segregating it on the other days, and then change back to complete segregation should his box office receipts decline, the committee reported.

Smith said he would not integrate the Carolina if the Varsity was integrated.

Unemployment bill praised by Kornegay

Sixth District Rep. Horace Kornegay yesterday praised the passage by the House of Representatives of President Kennedy's proposal to extend unemployment compensation benefits.

"This is the first step forward in the economic recovery and stability of our country," said the freshman Congressman from Greensboro, "and I am glad to have had a part in promoting this program to alleviate unemployment distress and to increase purchasing power."

In voting for the bill, Rep. Kornegay cited "the humane and economic benefits which will flow from this operation," which he called "reassuring to all those who have been concerned by the high and sustained unemployment level of recent months."

It would extend on a temporary self-supporting basis for 13 more weeks the compensation granted workers who have exhausted their benefits, up through June 30, 1962. The additional funds would come from repayable advances from the federal treasury repayable by an increase of .4 of one per cent in the federal unemployment tax on the existing wage base of $3,000 for 1962 and 1963.

YOUNG CAROLINA CAGE fan came home from school during the height of the sports scribes' diatribes against Coach Frank McGuire. "Momma," he sobbed. "They can't do this to him. Why he's somebody like, — like Abe Lincoln." — A direct quote from life's daily dramas — in Chapel Hill, natch.

THE SATURDAY MORNING fire alarm was close by on the fourth floor Memorial Hospital. A fourth floor laboratory was suddenly filled with smoke and the general fire alarm was turned in by remote control from the Hospital. On examination it was found that the smoke stemmed from a defective balance in a fluorescent lighting fixture. The difficulty was cleared up when the unit was replaced.

Comparison Tests Offered To Teachers

Orange County teachers will have an opportunity to find out how they compare with teachers in other parts of the country, says G. P. Carr, Superintendent of the Orange County School System.

County school employees who are applying for either (1) a higher class of certificate, or (2) a certificate in a new field or capacity will be required to take a test April 15 which quizzes them on professional knowledge, various aspects of general education, and subject-matter preparation.

All college seniors or college graduates who are applying for the first time for a North Carolina teaching certificate are also required to take the examinations. All professional public school employees certified prior to June 20, 1959, may volunteer to take the examinations at State expense.

Orange County teachers planning to take the tests can most conveniently do so at either Duke University, or North Carolina College in Durham.

The April 15 examinations are being given as part of a statewide study of teacher preparation being made by the State Board of Education.
