

Orange Peelings

RESIDENTS OF THE KING'S Mill Rd. neighborhood in Chapel Hill appeared before the County Commissioners sitting as the Board of Education and Review on Monday to ask that their property taxes be lowered because of the heavy dust from the unpaved roads in their area. They've been hoping to get their roads paved on a participating payment basis. But some property owners are withholding their payments now pending settlement of the location of a bridge across Morgan Creek that would funnel more traffic into the development, the delegation reported.

ESCAPADES OF SCARLETT

Scott's ill-fated pink horse were revived Monday night when Chapel Hill police rescued Kemp Nye's tin elephant from two students who had it in tow apparently returning it to its station in front of the downtown music shop. Larceny charges were considered against the pair. But the issue was dropped at Kemp's request. He said the pachyderm model actually belonged to one of the boys anyhow. The animal had been painted pink and be-sloganed before the cops rescued it. Similarly Scarlett Scott's pink merry-go-round horse, which she intended as a front yard symbol for her curio shop, was several times swiped and painted up by college students before she gave it up in despair a few years ago.

SHERIFF'S DEPUTIES CAPTURE

a 1950 Dodge sedan and 20 cases of non-tax paid whiskey Friday afternoon on Highway 70, east of Hillsboro. Deputies Bob McCulloch and C. W. Riley became suspicious of the vehicle and tried to stop it for investigation when the two occupants jumped out, leaving it running down the highway. The deputies had to stop the car first to prevent a possible accident, enabling the two occupants to make good their getaway.

CARRBORO TOWN ATTORNEY

L. J. Phipps was kidded at a meeting Tuesday night by town Commissioners who said he had something to eat in a bag he brought to the meeting. "Here, I want you to start eating right now," said the "Judge," as he reached into the bag, pulled out some small white boxes, and handed one to each commissioner. They contained several books of matches with each commissioner's name imprinted on his.

MEMBERS OF THE CHAPEL

Hill police force are currently competing for selection on a 10-man emergency squad being organized within the Department by Chief Bill Blake. The members will be named in May. Each will be issued a special padded riot helmet and undergo intensive training in defensive tactics and handling of mob emergency situations.

POSTMASTER PAUL CHEEK

in Chapel Hill announces that the postoffice lobby is now being kept open 24 hours daily for the convenience of persons wishing to purchase postage at the metered machine or pick up mail in their boxes.

Circulation Today

7,009

99 PCT. DISTRIBUTED IN
ORANGE COUNTY

Mid-town ABC store location is petitioned for Chapel Hill

—Story on Page 2

The News of orange county

—Chapel Hill, Hillsboro, Carrboro—Between and Beyond—

VOL. 69 NO. 12

HILLSBORO AND CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1961

24 PAGES

Honing upon hobby....

ROCK HOUND AT WORK—Susan Calhoon of Chapel Hill puts the finishing touches of some of the lapidary work she'll display in her rock collection at the fourth annual hobby show in the Morehead Building today through Saturday. More than three dozen displays and demonstrations will be set up for the show, sponsored by the Association for Aging and Community Relationships.

News Photo

King takes surplus food job

—Story on Page 2

Almost two-to-one margin carries bond referendum

—Story on Page 4