

WHAT HAH-VUHD DIDN'T! UNC DOES: A-OK 'DR.' JFK

—The News welcomes President to the Land of Orange

Orange
Peelings

The News of orange county

—Chapel Hill, Hillsboro, Carrboro—Between and Beyond—

VOL. 69, NO. 41

HILLSBORO AND CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, OCTOBER, 12, 1961

32 PAGES

COUNTY DOG WARDEN CASHE

Boggs did pretty well as a cow catcher here recently, using his tranquilizer dart gun. His quarry was a wily runaway bovine that Piedmont Packing Co. bought at auction. Day after day the free-grazing cow would lope off whenever anybody approached to corral it. Then casual Cashe walked wide around behind the animal and closed in from the rear, walking slowly till the cow turned to look at him. Then as Bossie started to run Cashe fired his dart gun from the hip for a bull's eye in the flank at 60 feet. The cow trotted off a short distance, then sat down and allowed her captors to load her up into a truck for return to the new owners.

WCHL'S MIGHTY $200 OLD Milwaukee Treasure Hunt came to sudden and successful end yesterday at 3:30 p.m. UNC chem students William Lewis Young III and Kenneth A. Lundstrom, who teamed up on the hunt 30 minutes before, found the loot in the ground on the Stancell Motor Co. wall of the Gas Co. Incidentally, the winners lucked in on a mistaken clue. They thought the final clue was "Kendall," meaning motor oil at Stancell's, instead of "candle" for the gas-burning candle posted outside the Public Service Co. office.

DR. AND MRS. ROBERT J. McMullen, who recently moved to High Point, received a surprise tribute from their fellow Chapel Hill Presbyterians at a congregational supper last Sunday. As a token of appreciation for their life and service in Chapel Hill the congregation gave them a check for $375—the cost of an air trip to visit their five children in Atlanta, Fulton, Mo., Washington, and Richmond. Dr. John Graham read a tribute from the congregation. And at the request of the elders, Dr. McMullen's son, Rob. Jr., gave on "loan" to the church a portrait of "Dr. Mac."

DO YOU HAVE ANY IDEA the extent of the security measures that are being taken with regard to the President's visit here today? Weeks of painstaking work on the part of University people and Secret Service agents have been put into this matter. Every culvert, every manhole, every possible danger spot has been sealed off or will be manned by a guard—from the big drain pipe under the Stadium to the top of the Bell Tower.

THE RALEIGH ROAD BETWEEN Chapel Hill and Nelson was given an absolute manuevering yesterday by gangs of convicts and highway workers, all preparatory to JFK's private trip over that stretch going to and from the airport this morning. The grass and right-of-ways were clipped almost carpet smooth, and every beer can and chewing gum wrapper in sight was picked up.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE press in connection with JFK's

More Peelings on page 2

$51,457 damages awarded Lloyds for highway losses

—Story on Page 2

'Whammy' may get you...

...if you don't watch out!

SPEEDERS BEWARE!!—Checking out the new 'whammy' onto the sweep hand of the dial in the box being held by radar speed indicator being tried by the Town of Chapel Hill this week are Police Chief William D. Blake (left) and Sgt. Amos Horne. The twin-pronged plastic antennae, mounted on the side, or anywhere on a patrol car, will send out and receive instantaneous impulses to any moving object in alignment with them. These are transmitted traffic safety.—News Photo

Citizens group is proposing alternative to civil defense

—Story on Page 3