

Orange Peelings

THERE HAS BEEN A FAIR amount of talk out in the boondocks and around the filling stations about County Game Protector Bob Logan running for sheriff in the Democratic primary next spring. Incumbent Buck Knight will be up for election to his first regular four-year term at that time, and it could be a battle right royal. Bre'r Bob won't confirm or deny the rumors. But it is known that he is planning to retire from his 23 years in wildlife work imminently. For three years before coming to Orange in his present capacity Logan was a sheriff's deputy in Durham County.

IN AN ALLIED POLITICAL realm it is understood that Watts Hill Jr. of Durham has very finally told confidants that he will not run for Congress this go-round. This leaves the situation at least momentarily clear of any political patriots who might oppose first-term Dagwood Kornegay. The freshman solon from Greensboro has been making fast criss-crosses of the four-county district lately to solidify his budding political organization.

RAMESES VIII, THE SYMBOLIC spirit of Carolina's gridiron determination, has fared pretty well this season, according to his keepers out at the H. S. Hogan farm. There were a few carloads of Duke students cruising around the Hogan farm last Thursday and Friday night, but nobody has yet accepted the traditional pre-game challenge of all Dookies to actually try to steal the ram.

CHAPEL HILL FIREMEN ANSWERED a frantic telephone alarm to come to the Chapel Hill Weekly office at 3:05 p.m. Tuesday. Smoke from paper burning on the newspaper press poured throughout the building, but the flames were quickly doused. It was understood that a spark from a pump motor beneath the press ignited cleaning fluid which in turn caught the paper web on fire. Damage was reported to be negligible.

SANTA CLAUS WILL BE ENSCENCED in a workshop on wheels along Chapel Hill's downtown sidewalks during the Yule season, according to latest, but yet tentative, plans of the Merchants Association Trade Promotions Committee. Erection of the downtown illuminated decorations is to begin next week and the lights will be turned on beginning Friday evening, Dec. 1.

CLAUDIA CANNADY, PATRON saint of athletes, entertainers, and Western Union in Chapel Hill for the past 15 years, left last night for Nashville, Tenn. Though actually on leave from her Western Union managership here, she insists it's final. First off in Nashville she plans to try to help Demetriss Tapp, young singer from Roxboro, get a start with the Grand Ole Opry.

Circulation Today

7,267

99 PCT. DISTRIBUTED IN ORANGE COUNTY

County's poultry producers plead for federal controls over egg, broiler industry

—Story on Page 2

The News of orange county

—Chapel Hill, Hillsboro, Carrboro—Between and Beyond—

VOL. 69, NO. 46

HILLSBORO AND CHAPEL HILL, N. C., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1961

24 PAGES

New school for Orange...

Here's the architect's perspective of the new Orange High School for which plans are now being drawn for contract letting early next Spring. In the center of the layout leading from the entrance lobby is a 1,000 seat auditorium, flanked by a student union and auxiliary rooms. Immediately to the left are the two 2-story classroom wings. The small building to the far left between the classroom wings is the library. To the rear of the auditorium is the lunchroom and kitchen on the left and the band room on the right and adjacent thereto is the boiler room, easily identified by the smokestack shown here. The area to the right of the entrance foyer and auditorium is the gymnasium and the building at far right is the industrial arts and vocational agriculture shop. The dotted line area near the center of the photo represents additional future classroom and lunchroom construction when they are needed. A football stadium in a natural contour is shown at top of the layout. A planned parking area is located just outside the pictured area to the left and a baseball diamond to the right. The physical plant contains over 114,000 square feet with the two classroom wings, the library, auditorium, lunchroom, and shop areas receiving priority for the first phase of construction.

Suggestion on school name causes walk-out at meeting

—Story on Page 2

POWER LINE PARLEY CALLED

—Story on Page 3