THE HEROISM OF BILLY Cotten Tyler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Red Tyler of Chapel Hill, will be related in a full-color comic strip form in the March issue of Boy's Life, the national Boy Scout magazine. The regular full-page feature, "True Story of Scouts in Action," will tell how on March 16, 1959, 13-year-old Billy Cotten Tyler saved his younger sister when her clothing caught fire from a stove. Billy smothered the flames and applied first aid for burns and was later awarded a certificate of merit by the Scouts' National Court of Honor.

WILL THERE BE A CITIZENS advisory committee for the soon-to-be-appointed Public Housing Authority in Chapel Hill? The question was put to Mayor McClamroch at Monday night's Board of Aldermen meeting. His honor great for citizens advisory committee replied dead-pan "This town's mittees but I don't know if we'll need one for the housing authority yet. (Federal law provides that a five-member authority be appointed.)

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS and PTA leaders in Chapel Hill will be watching very closely the response to the PTAs' $25,000 fund campaign for relief of the local schools' financial pinch. If the response seems strong enough they'll likely plump for a supplementary tax increase referendum this spring rather than next fall as earlier planned. If response is less than overwhelming they will likely lay the groundwork more carefully and shoot for the fall election. If the legal machinery were put into action by April it would give barely enough time to get the referendum held before the end of this fiscal year.

A FIRE THAT STARTED FROM a defective chimney caused modest damage at the home of Mrs. Mildred Council on N. Merritt Mill Rd. in Chapel Hill early Tuesday afternoon. Fireman Marvin Morrow sustained a minor injury. About 5:30 p.m. Monday the Department was called to the building site of Craige Dormitory where a loaded dump truck owned by Elmer Pendergraft was destroyed by flames. Driver Bill Campbell said the fire started when a spark from a battery ignited a five-gallon can of gas in the cab of the truck. Fire Chief J. S. Boone put out the flames using a water fog from a booster hose line.

TO DATE THERE HAVE BEEN two speeding arrests made on the basis of the newly-purchased radar speed-detecting "whammy" lately purchased by the Chapel Hill Police Department. In both cases, it is reported, the offending drivers readily admitted their guilt.
