Strictly unofficial—County political trends

JAYCEES WILL HEAR . . .

Candidates for contested offices in the County Democratic primary election will appear before the Chapel Hill Jaycees next Thursday night . . . Each will have three minutes for his campaign talk, to be followed by questions from the audience and from each other . . . The initial one of these round-robins will be held tonight in the Negro Community Center at Chapel Hill under sponsorship of Young Adults for Community Improvement . . . Similar shows are set for the Democratic rally-barbecue in Hillsboro on May 12 and at the League of Women Voters candidates meeting May 15.

NO DOUBLE REGISTRATION . . .

It would not be legally permissible under state law for Chapel Hill persons to register for both the Chapel Hill (or Carrboro or Hillsboro) town elections at the same time as they signed up for the primary, school board and general elections beginning next week . . . This was ascertained by a check of statutes in Chapel Hill to see if the built-in confusion could be avoided. If and when, as is being more frequently proposed, Orange County adopts a loose-leaf voting registration, one registration would cover any and all elections in the county.

HOT AND HEAVY . . .

As of this Saturday—the beginning of registration period—the potential constituent will note more and more politicking on the part of primary candidates . . . There's be a big hello, handshake, and back slap for acquaintances long scarcely recognized. The honeymoon is on, in fact, in the final four-week count-down to the ballot box.
