THE CULPRITS WHO BROKE into Wood's Department Store in Chapel Hill this week and stole $1,000 out of the store safe (story on P. 3) almost made a simpler, but possibly more disastrous entry. After getting inside the building via an air vent they walked along in the attic on beams to which the ceiling celotex was tacked. Several times their feet apparently slipped, knocking down the celotex, finally tumbling the interlopers untimely onto the counters 12 feet below.

MRS. GEORGE NICHOLSON of Chapel Hill (Westwood Precinct) has been nominated by the Orange County Democratic Women's club as its choice for Democratic Woman of the Year. Her name will be entered in the running for the Sixth District title, and the state winner will be announced at the group's N. C. convention in Asheville on Oct. 5. Who will dispute that Virginia Nicholson has been a compulsive, contagious, and competent Democratic party stalwart?

ANOTHER DOWNTOWN AUTO dealer will soon move to the outskirts of Chapel Hill. Colonial Motors will move from its W. Franklin St. home of the past 10 years sometime this fall into remodeled quarters formerly occupied by Southern Motors on the east side of the Durham bypass highway across from Eastgate Shopping Center. The new trend was started lately with the announcement of Harriss - Coopers Chevrolet that it'd move to a new site on the Durham Boulevard. Construction of the garage building there is planned soon.

A LOCAL FAMILY PHYSICIAN passes the word that he is now prescribing a vitamin preparation for expectant mothers, which preparation contains fluoride in an amount necessary for the protection of the teeth of the unborn child. An obviously fine idea, this is; yet one that laggard University officials could do better at a cost to each water customer of approximately 10 cents a year via general fluoridation of the local water supply.

FINISHING TOUCHES — Beth Hunt, collegiate daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Hunt of Chapel Hill, is one of 196 Tar Heel lovelies who'll make their formal bow to society this weekend at the annual debutante ball sponsored by the Terpsichorean Club in Raleigh. Above, in final preparation for the big event, Beth — and the News cameraman — both use her mirror to good advantage as she applies the "finishing touches."
