WHILE THE 120-ACRE SITE

for the proposed new $1.4 million Chapel Hill Senior High School is considered quite simply a proper and adequate site by school authorities, it is interesting to ponder that this acreage is considerably more than the total of the old main campus of the University — and almost double the size of the Georgia Tech campus in Atlanta. Doubtless other such prima facie startling cases could be cited, too.

THE GALA FIREWORKS DISPLAY

was the feature attraction for the evening. But those tiny heat-propelled wax-flame lamps stole the show at the Fourth of July celebration on Emerson Field last Saturday night. The kid who set 'em out said they cost about 10 cents each and came from Brazil. Constructed of a light translucent paper, the lamps had a wax-fueled wick in the base, and were propelled by the candle-like heat across the depth of the field until they burned out.

MISS ORANGE COUNTY, ANN

Sikes, went to the state beauty pageant in Raleigh Tuesday noon with a surprise party sendoff. Her fellow office workers at Memorial Hospital joined with a mixed bag of scholars in greeting her for a brief Coke break as she departed with Jaycee escort Tommy Gardner. Merchants Association President Joe Augustine presented her an engraved good luck bracelet and Mayor Sandy McClamroch gave her the $250 scholarship check she was due for winning the local pageant . . . Finally, she was handed a gift-wrapped bottle of bath salts —to replace the one she broke in packing up!

MISS LESLIE McCracken

of Glenn Heights in Chapel Hill writes in to add two more strange parallels to those cited between John F. Kennedy and Abe Lincoln in a letter from Robert Hooker of Hillsborough, published last week: Both John Wilkes Booth and Lee Harvey Oswald were shot in the stomach several days after the slaying of each president. And both Lincoln and Kennedy were shot in the back of the head!

THE REV. KIMSEY KING,

formerly of the Aldersgate Methodist Church in Chapel Hill and son of Prof. and Mrs. A. K. King of Chapel Hill, has been transferred to Ahoskie where he is pastor of the Methodist Church there. He has been Associate Pastor of the Edenton St. Methodist Church in Raleigh for the past three years.

QUICK! HOW MANY KNOW

the name of the new brick apartment development for married students in the University. No, it is not Victory Village. It's "Odum Village," and is so designated by formal action of the University Trustees recently. The 306-unit development is in shouting distance of the home of the late University sociologist. His residence is on the crown of what's called "Odum's Hill," facing Brierbridge Lane.

'Joker' & 'Miracle Whip' win, also . . .

Elkhound, 'Inga,' and also her pet toad (in bowl in front) 'Joker,' who lives in the back yard of their home at 321 Woodhaven Rd.; and six-year-old David, with 'Miracle Whip,' the crawly bug he picked up under their house for his pet entry. (See story on pet show, Sec. II, Page 9.)
