Orange Peelings

TIGHT SECURITY PRECAUTIONS — in the form of a half-dozen all-night guards in strategic campus and stadium locations — thwarted any possible pranks and vandalism on the Carolina campus in advance of the football game with N. C. State last week. Only official report of attempted sorties by Wolfpack advocates was late Friday night when a guard stopped a carload of students and headed 'em back toward Raleigh. However, most of the highway signs between Chapel Hill and Raleigh were thoroughly mommicked up with crude "NCS" paint daubing.

PROOF OF HARMONY IN THE Orange County Democratic ranks was cited by Chairman L. J. Phipps in remarks before the party rally in Hillsborough Tuesday morning. It must be nothing less than harmony, he said, when Lucius Cheshire, Bob Satterfield, and Sandy Graham will all ride in the same car to a Democratic affair. They did this after meeting Dan Moore on the highway, Phipps said, adding that he was in the back seat to referee, while Sheriff Buck Knight was official peace officer in the driver's seat.

CHAPEL HILL FIREMEN were summoned by remote control alarm to Memorial Hospital at 3:45 p.m. yesterday. While workmen using an acetylene torch immediately behind the hospital his hose line broke somehow and the escaping gas caught fire, in turn igniting the fuel in the tank. There was quite a blaze for a while, but damage was limited to the tank controls and the hose.

CHAPEL HILL POLICE ARE interested in buying a tranquilizer rifle rig for use in capturing bothersome stray or vicious dogs. The County Dog Warden has for several years employed such a tool, which many humane society officials strongly endorse. Need for improved equipment was underlined yesterday morning when several police had to spend nearly three hours in flushing a dozen dogs from beneath a local resident's house after they'd kept the family awake all night. It took two tear gas grenades at a total cost of about $26 to do the job, finally. Shoot- (More PEALINGS, Page 4)

Caravan comes to Orange . . .

FROM RALLY TO RALEIGH — Democratic gubernatorial nominee Dan Moore, seen above and below, invited his listeners to attend his anticipated inaugural in Raleigh next winter as he addressed a crowd of about 100 at a party rally on the County Courthouse steps in Hillsborough Tuesday morning. He also invited the Orange High School band, which played for the occasion, to march in the inaugural parade.
