MUSIC AT A DEATH BED.

O! sing to me sweet sister, sing The song I love to hear, And when I'm gone, Oh sing it still And think I'm lingering near.

Oh let me hear before I leave This world for yonder skies, The trembling tones of thy rich voice. On sighing zephyrs rise.

Oft whilst we've watched the weary sun Behind the mountains hide, Casting his soft and parting light, On Susquehannah's tide,

And standing by our mother's side, Or by our father's knee, That song has risen on the prayers; Oh! sing it now to me.

In fancy then will rise the scenes Of my loved childhood's home : Again I'll pluck my favorite flowers. And through my loved haunts roam.

The forms of those in childhood dear, Before me I shall see; And present sorrow 'll be forgot; Then sing that song for me.

The deep, rich tones so richly rose Upon the evening air, They seemed to stay the hand of death, And angels lingered there.

The song now ceased-the wail of grief Succeeding that sweet lay, For with the loved and dying strains, Her spirit passed away. Herald

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Remarkable Man.

At a temperance meeting, held in Alabama, about six years ago, Col LEMANOUSKY, who had been twenty three years in the armies of Napoleon Bonaparte, addressed the meeting. He arose beglow of health upon his cheek, and said:

You see before you a man seventy years old. I have fought two hundred battles, have fourteen wounds on my body, have lived thirty days on horse-flesh, with the bark of trees for my bread, snow and ice for my drink, the canopy of heaven for my covering, without stockings or shoes on my well as all our other publications.

In the desert of Egypt I have marched for days with a burning sun upon my naked head; feet, blistered in the scorching sand, and with eyes, nostrils, and mouth filled with dust-and with a thirst so tormenting that I have opened the veins of my arms, and sucked my own blood! Do you ask, how I survived all these horrors? I answer that under health and vigor, to this fact, that I never drank of drop of spirituous liquor in my life, and,' continued he, 'Barron Larry, chief of the medical staff of the French arms, has stated as a fact, that the 6,000 survivors, who safely returned from Egypt were all of those men who abstained from ardent J. "If we are all on the right track," said another, and must bring up at the right port, what is the use preaching and praying about ?"

"If we trust this doctrine, and it don't turn out to be true, there'll be hell to pay," exclaimed a third.

These sentiments were shared by the whole crew, and soon became known to the newly appointed chaplain, who was wise enough to resign his commission. Rev. Walter Colton.

TRUE PHILOSOPHY. I saw a pale mourner stand bending over the tomb, and his tears fell fast and often. As he raised his humid eyes to heaven, he cried.

'My brother! oh, my brother!' A sage passed that way, and said,

'For whom dost thou mourn?' 'One,' replied he, 'whom I did not sufficiently love while living; but whose inestimable worth now feel ?' 'What wouldst thou do, if he were restored to he was going to marry his daughter?' The young man denied the "soft impeachment.

Books of our Book Concern. HE cold winter is almost past, and the spring season will soon be here, when we expect a large return of old customers, and many new ones to buy books of our Book Concern. We are preparing to furnish our friends with all of our old denominational works, to which we shall add some others now in process of publication. One of these is the "Christian's Gift Book," designed as a gift from parent to child, from child to parent, from friend to friend, from Sabbath-school teacher to their loved pupils. Two fore the audience, tall, erect and vigorous, with a others are two Sabbath-school question books, one for small children, and another for those of more advanced age-both excellent. Another work is a new and much enlarged edition of our "Christian Church History." To these we are adding new editions of our "Christian Sunday-school and Rev. JOHN PHILIPS Prayer-meeting Hymn Book"—"Bible News" &c. &c. We shall also have the recently published life of Elder Shaw—our Sub-Agents will be supplied with this, as of the town of Suffolk; and is acknowledged by all to be one of the most lovely and healthy situations in the county of Nansemond. Parents and guardians are assured that every attention will be given to the morals and manners of the pupils of this school, and no pains will be spared to make them comfortable and happy. No sectarian or denominational influence will be exercised either by the Proprietor or Teachers in the school. The terms are as moderate as any similar institution in Eastern Virginia, or North Carolina.

It is a source of gratification to the Proprietor to know that his efforts to establish a Seminary for young ladies, are likely to be appreciated. A few more pupils can be received and accommodated with board in the family of the Proprietor if early application be made. Students are charged only from the time they enter to the close of the session. No deduction will be made for absence except in cases of protracted illness.

on the College, because of its increased amount of usefulness, and on the Publishers and Publishing Associations, First Session. because of the increased amount of sales which it must naturally bring them. The endowment of the College, Writing. $100,000, is already pledged, also about $50,000 for buildings, &c. This sum of $100,000 is divided in 1000 scholarships, and is forever to remain on interest. These 1000 scholarships we very naturally suppose will cause an average attendance of from 500 to a 1000 students. each of whom, on graduating, will need a library, and of course will choose such books as they have learned the value of in the College library. Hence it is, we say, that publishers and publishing associations will derive a great advantage, as the gift of a single copy to the College library might be the means of subsequently selling a thousand of each to the students, graduates and friends

3rd. Of all AUTHORS, we most respectfully solicit a copy of each of their works. Since their object in writing has been to "do good and communicate," here is a vast field of mind—consisting of hundreds of young ladies and gentlemen—on whom their writings may have ladies and gentlemen—on whom their writings may have an influence for good. Besides this, (as we have before said in the case of publishers) the giving of a single copy of each of their works to the College library, may be the means of subsequently selling hundreds of each to its graduates and friends; and of causing its graduates to attend the Medical, Legal, or any other scientific institution with which they may stand connected.

4th. Of the benevolent, of the philanthropist, of the friends of a free and liberal education, the wide world over, we respectfully solicit donations of books and money; and, in return, we pledge our honors as gentlemen and our reputation as Christians, to use them, as, in our humble judgment, may best promote the interests of humanity and the cause of God Every donation will be carefully recorded in the College Register, where it will stand as a perpetual memen-to of the kindness and benevolence of the giver. Dr. J. R. FREESE. Philadelphia, Penn. Rev. E. EDMUNDS. Boston, Mass. Albany, New York.
