THE FOOTSTEPS OF DECAY.

The following is a translation from an anc

O let the soul its slumbers break, Arouse its senses and awake To see how such Life in its glories glides away, And the stern lootsteps of decay Come stealing on.

How pleasure like the passing wind Blows by and leaves us nought behind But grief at last : How still our present happiness Seems to our wayward fancy less Than what is just.

And while we view the rolling tide Down which our flowing minutes glide Away so fast. Let us the present hour employ, And deem each future dream a joy Already past.

Let no vain hope deceive the mind; No happier let us hope to find To-morrow than to-day. Our golden dreams of yore were bright : Like them, the present shall delight, Like them decay.

Our lives like hastening streams must be, That into one engulfing sea Are doomed to fall. The sea of death whose waves roll on O'er king and kingdom, throne and crown And swallow all.

Alike the rivers lordly tide, Alike the humble streamlets glide, To that sad wave. Death levels poverty and pride, The rich and poor sleep side by side Within the grave.

Our birth is but the starting place, Life is the running of the race, A...d death the goal. There all our glittering to s are brought, That path alone of all unsought Is found of all.

See then how poor and little worth Are all those glittering toys of earth That lure us here. Dreams of a sleep that death must break, Alas! before it bids us wake We disappear.

Long ere the damp of death can blight The cheek's pure glow of red and white Has passed away. Youth smiled, and all was heavenly fair, Age came and laid his finger there, And where are the ?

Where is the strength that apurned decay The step that roved so blith and gay? The heart's blithe one ? The strength is gone, the step is slow, and joy grows wearisome and woe,
